Christmas Day at seven o'clock, a. m., Low Mass.

At nine-thirty o'clock, a. m., the third Mass. Services and solemn High Mass for the special occasion, people, sung by the choir, and twelve children reciting first Holy Annunciation.

Children's service at 10:30 a. m.—A Sole Mass of the Angels, St. Olney directing.

Finale, Long, Long Ago—Anonim. NOTE:—The word Christmas comes from Christ's Mass signifying birth Christmas, or Christ's feast—hence the name Mass.

Contrary to usual custom, these Masses are celebrated in the Catholic Church on Christmas. The threefold sacrifice represents the threefold birth of Christ, namely:

(1) The first Mass at midnight is offered up in memory of His birth, as man, of the Blessed Virgin; it is read at midnight because Christ was born at that hour, and because He came as the light of the world, to dispell the darkness of sin; it is called the Mass of the Angels because the Angels announced the birth of Christ to the shepherds, and at the same time peace on earth to men of good will. Catholics are urged to pray for peace, especially at this Mass.
(2) The second Mass at daybreak is said in remembrance of his birth in the hearts of his followers. It is said at daybreak as a symbol of the dawn of the spiritual life in our hearts by the Sun of Justice. It is also called the Mass of the Shepherds because the gospel read at this Mass relates to the adoration of the shepherds. Catholics are exhorted to adore the Christchild with the shepherds.
(3) The third Mass commemorates His eternal birth from the Father before all ages, and for that reason its gospel tells of the time when, "In the beginning was the Word and the Word was with God, and the Word was God." It is said in the daytime that its brightness may figure the glories of the Godhead. Catholics are thus admonished to seek to acquire greater knowledge of Christ and endeavor to imitate His example thereby obtaining the fullness of his graces.

Fr. Fabian, O. F. M.
CHRISTIAN CHURCH.
