PERALTA REAVIS TURNS UP AGAIN.

Now Appears With Tremendous Irrigation Scheme in Arizona.
James Addison Ashley-Reavis, known as Peralta Reavis and also as the apostle of irrigation, has returned from a year's stay in Washington, where he went to urge on the government commencement of irrigation projects in Arizona.

He returns to Denver with the knowledge that the work has been begun and the co-operation of the government in a colonization scheme on a tract of land in Arizona to which he was heir before he gave up his claim to the government.

Through his wife, who was the Señorita Sofia Loretto Maso Per Alta, Mr. Reavis became the heir of 50,000,000 acres of land in Arizona granted by Phillip V. of Spain to his favorite, an ancestor of Mrs. Reavis.

Mr. Reavis, foreseeing, he says, that it would be difficult to make title to the land, contented himself after a few years fighting in the courts, to locating the water on it, knowing that without the water the land was worth nothing. His insight into the future has proved valuable to him, for while giving up all claim to the land, he still controls the water on the Gila river and 1,000,000 acres it will enrich when the government irrigation project is finished.

It was to insure the colonization of this land that Mr. Reavis made his trip east. He has proposed to the government to colonize 1,000,000 acres on the Gila river within five years, and believes he will have no trouble in doing so. Settlers will be given 160 acres of land and the colonization company of which Mr. Reavis is the head, will build houses on each tract and erect a windmill to each 160 acres with a well to provide sufficient water to prove up on the homestead while awaiting the completion of the government work five years hence. At the end of fifteen years the settler, starting without a cent, will become the sole owner of the land and will have paid the apportionment for the government irrigation project. It is estimated that with such a simple crop as alfalfa, the land with water will bring in an annuity of $12,000.

The dams which the government is building are on sites chosen by Mr. Reavis on the Gila and Salt rivers, which he surveyed years ago when irrigation of arid lands was considered a chimera in the east and next to impossible in the west. Settlers on the land will not have to live on it continuously under the law until the government has provided water sufficient to provide a revenue for subsistence. The absence from the homestead is regulated by annual furlough granted by the government.—Denver Post.

MERIT ONCE MORE REWARDED.

A Former Instructor in the New Mexico School of Mines Distinguishes Himself in Montana.

S. J. Gormley, an instructor in the New Mexico School of Mines during the year 1895-6, has just added another to the multitude of illustrations of the value of technical training to one's self and to others. The Rolla (Mo.) Herald-Democrat speaks of Mr. Gormley's achievement as follows: "The many friends of S. J. Gormley (M. S. M. '95) will be pleased to know that he now has charge of all the smelters of the Amalgamated Copper Company at Anaconda, Mont. It is interesting to learn that the water pumped out of the mines at Butte contains a large quantity of copper salts in solution. For several years the mine owners have been pumping the water from the mines into large vats or tanks and there precipitating the copper. There was great expense to this method because the iron pipes going down into the mines were soon eaten up, lasting only about three months. Various methods have been tried to preserve these pipes, even lining the pipes with wood, but without much success. At this point Gormley who was in charge of the sampling department came forward with a suggestion. Why not take the copper out of the water down in the mine before the water is pumped out. He fully demonstrated that by adding lime to the water in the mine the copper would be precipitated and the water could be pumped out without injury to the pipes. The precipitated copper was of low grade but the lime with it served as a flux making it a very desirable product for the smelters. This method has been adopted by the company in all of their mines and Mr. Gormley has been put in charge of all the smelters."

Louis J. Kruger, ex-champion long distance foot racer of Germany and Holland, writes, Oct. 27th, 1901: During my training of eight weeks' foot races at Salt Lake City, in April last, I used Ballard's Snow Liniment to my greatest satisfaction. Therefore, I highly recommend Snow Liniment to all who are troubled with sprains, bruises or rheumatism." 25c, 50c, $1.00 bottle. Sold by Socorro Drug and Supply Co.
