Albuquerque Talent Splendidly Represented in Entertainments

My, the talent that has been uncovered in Albuquerque! Musical, dramatic, and theatrical! To be sure, everybody knows that the woods on the town are full of it, but it remained for the various vaudeville, musical revue, playlets, cantatas, etc., to really show it up.

THE ELKS GAZOON AT SANTA FE BRIGHT

"The Elks Gazoan" published by the antlered bunch of the state capital, is a scream. It has been the rage in Albuquerque for a week. The perpetrators of it, as shown at the must head of the "Gazoan" program, are: Awfully-Simple Editor—Paul A. Hall.

COUNCIL ENDORSES NUMEROUS BILLS

The meeting of the council of the Federated Clubs of New Mexico was chiefly noted for the number of resolutions passed. A number of people with bills which they hoped to present to the present legislature appeared before the council asking for their endorsement of all their pet measures.

A Simple Evening Frock on New Lines

A Combination of Material Interprets This Design.

When peace suddenly came the type of dress that was most affected was the evening gown. We had made up our minds to neutral colors and simple, unostentatious styles and effects, but, with hearts made brimful of gladness, we threw off this cloak of sympathy and sorrow to show gay, heartened frocks, simple, unostentatious and rich, too, was made a feature of them, for now the formal occasions once more would demand proper acknowledgment.

BIG EVENTS OF MONTH'S SOCIAL CALENDAR. February is to have a number of large social events. The first of these will be the musical revue, "I'll Say So," for Armenian relief, which is scheduled for the night of February twenty.

MRS. ANGLE WILL AID ARMENIAN RELIEF. It will please Albuquerqueans to know that Mrs. George K. Angle will appear for the Armenian relief fund on February 12. Mrs. Angle, who is a well known dramatic reader, was gathered into a soft knot at the back, where it continues into one wide loop and one long end which are lined with silver cloth and take the place of both drapery and a train. The effect is delightfully naive yet dignified.

Then the Elks dance on Washington's birthday, February 22. This will also be an event of social importance. Everybody knows that the Elks never do anything by halves and their Liberty dance will be carefully remembered.

Santa Fe Society Meets the Governor and Mrs. Larrazolo

Everything combined to make the reception at the executive mansion on Tuesday evening one of the notable successes in the brilliant social annals of the capital city. It was the first function of a general nature in the present administration, and Mrs. Larrazolo proved her mettle as a hostess and as the first lady of the commonwealth.

The color scheme of the decorations was pink and white, which, against the greens of foliage, emphasized the delicate artistic touches of arrangement and the perfect appointments of the dining room. Ice cream and cake were in harmony with the color scheme.

In the receiving line, besides Governor and Mrs. Larrazolo, were Lieutenant Governor Benjamin F. Pankey and his daughter, Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. Pankey having been called to Kansas City by the serious illness of a daughter.

The ladies presiding in the dining room were: Mrs. R. P. Barnes of Albuquerque; Mrs. Hallett Reynolds of Las Vegas; Mrs. Frank W. Parker of Santa Fe; the young ladies assisting in the dining room, a bevy of attractive girls, were: Misses Josefita Salazar, May Martinez, Sofia Creamer, Pilar Delgado, Maria Sena, Julia Sena, Dolores Berger, Rosina Berger, Ramona Baca, Carmen Abreu, and Josefita Ortiz y Pino.

METHODIST WOMEN PLEDGE SIX HUNDRED DOLLARS. Mrs. C. O. Beckman was hostess last Tuesday to the Ladies Aid society of the First Methodist church. The pleasure rooms of the parsonage were filled for this occasion, and music furnished by the Misses Lois Merritt, Gail Beckman and Lucile Cook added to the afternoon's pleasure.

RECEPTION AND TEA FOR MRS. C. E. MASON. In honor of Mrs. C. E. Mason, president of the New Mexico Federation of Women's clubs, the women's museum board on Tuesday afternoon gave a reception and tea in the attractive women's reception room of the new museum.

THE RITO DE LOS FRIJOLES IN THE OLD PALACE. (By John Curtis Underwood.) They have made an echo of antiquity of the room where Lew Wallace wrote Ben-Hur in the early eighties.

OPERATIONS. Dance crazes spread through England. Everything popular but the goose-step. Army aviator claims to have shot a whale while flying. It's a whole of a story, anyway.

FOOLISHMENT. A hard-hearted eye had named Kinney. Once said to his ladylove, Minnie: "You're getting too fat, I'm leaving you flat. The dame that wins me must be skinny."

FROM THE CHESTNUT TREE. "I can jump as high as the Woolworth building." "I can, go on!" "I can. The Woolworth building can't jump at all."

JUMP NUTT SAYS. Even the mercury seems to favor prohibition. It has taken many drops this winter. Prince Edward Island is proud of her record of not having a single murder or manslaughter case in the whole province within the past five years.

There are hard shadows of stone hand mills where girls ground blue corn. And the crude stone quern still rolls—dull shadows of the rhythm of the rubbing that caressed it. Where they bent brown breasts to it that swelled as they sang to it.

There are round shadows of smooth black stones one could hide in her palm as she polished pottery. There are shadows in the big flat bowls of gray and white and brown and russet.

There are shadowy shafts of arrows and hand-carved staves for their smoothing. Shadows of the craft of old men who fashioned and fitted and flew with them.

There are shadowy shafts of arrows and hand-carved staves for their smoothing. Shadows of the craft of old men who fashioned and fitted and flew with them.

There are shadows of shadowy symbols of dead rituals. Shadows of the dancers' plumes that felt brown feet that felt high ladders.

And the hard brown rocks of the valley when life was vivid and good to them. Till the last lone fire at the foot of the cliff died out on a dead black winter night.

And the last lost wailing echo of living sang to it. And to life that writes in shadowy symbols, broken pictures, dylan mon and gospels misspelled, in Tyrony even as Jerusalem.

CHURCH SOCIETIES AND MEETINGS. Friday evening the organizations of the First Presbyterian church united in giving a birthday party at the museum. Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Hamblin being the hosts.
