The Guiteau Trial.

Washington, Dec. 3.—Guiteau left the stand this afternoon after his three days' sledge a broken man. He was fired upon by the malice of Guiteau brought him to the river bank to fire at the marsh reeds for targets.

"Do you feel any remorse" was the last question which Judge Porter asked. After having been pressed earnestly upon that point some minutes the prisoner answered sullenly and despairingly: "I have felt remorse of course as far as my personal feelings are concerned."

Judge Porter as quick as lightning said: "That will do prisoner. Your cross-examination is closed."

Guiteau, writhing under the tremendous force of Judge Porter's question saw the effect of his confession. During all those months the point of his defense has been to insist to all that he never had a single sentiment of remorse. During this cross-examination he has said a dozen times to Judge Porter's terrible questions that his mind was blank on that subject. To all the experts who have examined him during the three weeks past he has insisted with gleeful pertinacity that a thought of remorse never came to him and that his mind on that subject was blank.

Yet to-night, at the end of three days cross-examination, as severe as a prisoner in the jury box was ever subjected to, he admitted that which seemed to bring a shudder to his relatives and caused a sensation in the court room.

HE HAD KILLED THE PRESIDENT AND HE HAD SUFFERED REMORSE. With like quickness Guiteau rallied from what seemed almost like paralysis, caused by the tremendous thunder of Judge Porter's questions, and endeavored to correct what he plainly saw was the effect of that admission. Judge Porter would not listen to a word, but waved his hand.

Scoville tried to pacify the effect, but apparently without success. Guiteau left the stand more dispirited than he has appeared at any time during the trial.

Guiteau, although cowed and driven into the corner, saw the force of every one of Porter's questions. He endeavored to evade them and manifested undoubted skill. There were some words which almost caused him to wince with terror. He shrunk and seemed to shiver in the witness box when Porter used the words:

"MURDER," "KILL," "ASSASSIN."

Judge Porter made it clear that Guiteau was able to control divine presence the day Mr. Garfield came to the depot with the President, and emphasized this fact which has such an important bearing upon the question of responsibility.

The cross-examination was eminently successful. It lifted the mask, and showed that the plot to murder the President was premeditated, deliberate and was the result of malice and revenge, and the prisoner felt it keenly. Porter broke down the wonderfully quick, supple witness.

Guiteau, after his withdrawal from the stand, addressed the court saying: "The following persons want to be subpoenaed as witnesses: President Arthur, Secretary Blaine, Senators Logan, Conkling, Platt, Dorsy, and James General Grant, Governor Jowel, James Gordon Bennett, Whiteleaf Reid, Governor Jones, Charles A. Dana, and W. H. Hurlbut, and the files of their papers from May to June, also George C. Gorham of the Washington Republican and Stilson Hutchins of the Washington Post and files of their papers for May and June, and W. P. Nixon of the Chicago Inter-Ocean and files of the Inter-Ocean.

OTHER TESTIMONY. After the cross-examination of Guiteau, the first witness was J. E. P. Burnside, disbursing officer of the postoffice, who formerly lived in Freeport, Illinois. He knew the prisoner's family, Mrs. Guiteau was an invalid.

Charles Allen, of Missouri, lived in Freeport in 1880 and 1881. He knew the Guiteau family; Mrs. Guiteau was in feeble health.

EMERY A. STORRS, of Chicago, knew Guiteau in that city as a young lawyer; saw him perhaps a dozen times at the National Republican Committee room in New York during the last Presidential canvass. The prisoner came up to him gleefully and patting him on the shoulder said, "You are on the right track." Witness never saw Guiteau doing anything at the committee rooms other than reading papers. He seemed to have no special employment. In April he saw the pris-

National Capital News.

SMITH WILL STICK TO THE GREENBACKERS.

Washington, Dec. 3.—J. H. Smith will not go into the Republican caucus, but will vote with the Greenbackers for Ladd for Speaker and De La Matyr for Clerk of the House.

REPUBLICAN CAUCUS.

The Republican members elect assembled in the hall of the House of Representatives for the purpose of nominating candidates for the various elective offices. Jay Hubbell of Michigan called the caucus to order and Robeson of New Jersey was selected chairman of the caucus.

After roll call, to which a full Republican membership of 146 members responded, nominations for Speaker were declared in order and candidates placed in nomination as follows: Frank Hiseock of New York by Camp James W. Keifer of Ohio by Hazleton, Jno. A. Kassar of Iowa by Cannon, Mark P. Dunne of Minnesota by Stait, Gedlow S. Orth of Indiana by Calkins, J. C. Burrows of Michigan by Honra and Thomas B. Reed of Maine by Lindsay.

The motion was made and advocated briefly by Blaine that the voting be viva voce, but this but this was voted down and the balloting then proceeded with, resulting as follows:

FIRST BALLOT.—Keifer 52, Hiseock 44, Kassar 15, Reed 13, Burrows 10, Orth 8, Dunne 4; total, 146; necessary to a choice, 73.

SECOND BALLOT.—Keifer 55, Hiseock 41, Kassar 16, Reed 13, Burrows 10, Orth 8, Dunne 3; total, 145.

THIRD BALLOT.—Keifer 55, Hiseock 38, Kassar 19, Reed 13, Burrows 10, Orth 8, Dunne 4; total, 145.

FOURTH BALLOT.—Keifer 55, Hiseock 35, Kassar 20, Reed 15, Burrows 10, Orth 8, Dunne 3; total, 145.

REPRESENTATIVE JOHN D. WHITE, of Kentucky, cast his first vote on the fourth ballot.

FIFTH BALLOT.—Keifer 56, Hiseock 32, Kassar 19, Dunne 3; Orth 8, Burrows 10, Reed 18.

SIXTH BALLOT.—Keifer 34, Hiseock 34, Kassar 18, Reed 18, Burrows 10, Orth 8, Dunne 3; total, 145.

SEVENTH BALLOT.—Keifer 51, Hiseock 34, Kassar 16, Reed 20, Burrows 11, Orth 10, Dunne 3; total, 145.

EIGHTH BALLOT.—Keifer 51, Hiseock 34, Kassar 17, Reed 18, Orth 8, Burrows 10, Dunne 4.

KEIFER NOMINATED. On the sixth ballot Keifer received 93 votes and the nomination. On the fifth ballot Keifer had 81 votes, on the sixth 83 and the caucus nomination was given to Keifer. The thirteenth ballot was thrown out, being one in excess of the number present. On the fifth Keifer got 61, Hiseock 34, Kassar 16, Orth 7, Dunne 3; total, 145. On the sixth the vote were many changes, Keifer having many accessions from Hiseock, Burrows and Kassar's support, swelling his total to 93.

HISEOCK NOMINATED FOR CLERK. McPherson was nominated for clerk on the first ballot by 92 against 44 for Rainey, the rest scattering.

FEATURES OF THE BALLOT. The only noticeable features of the ballot in the Republican caucus from the seventh to the sixteenth was the gradual gains by Keifer. The thirteenth ballot was thrown out, being one in excess of the number present. On the fifth Keifer got 61, Hiseock 34, Kassar 16, Orth 7, Dunne 3; total, 145. On the sixth the vote were many changes, Keifer having many accessions from Hiseock, Burrows and Kassar's support, swelling his total to 93.

STALWART VICTORY. The defeat of Hiseock and the nomination of Keifer for Speaker are universally considered a triumph for the Conkling, Arthur and Grant influences, in short of the stalwarts or Old Guard Republicans over all their opponents in the party. The direct cause of their hostility to Hiseock was the attitude he assumed in the Conkling-Sexton contest last spring and the agency most effectively employed against him to-day was the Cameron control of the Pennsylvania delegation. Kassar was similarly objectionable to the stalwarts. By reason of his friendly relation to Blaine Representative Page has been one of Keifer's active and useful supporters in this canvass from its beginning, which was before the close of the last Congress.

George Francis Dawson, formerly of California, was placed in nomination for the position of Sergeant-at-Arms by Page, and proved to be the most formidable competitor of the successful candidate, Colonel Hooker. The latter won easily by reason of the great reputation and popularity he acquired as Assistant Secretary of the National Republican Committee during the last Presidential campaign and on account of geographical considerations it was considered that New England with its solid Republican vote should have at least one of the officers.

The candidacy of President Garfield's old pastor as chaplain was sprung on the House without warning. It was the friends of the numerous announced candidates and as soon as he was placed in nomination it became useless to name anyone else, so Mr. Power was immediately chosen by acclamation before any other candidate was given a chance to be voted for.

ROSECRANZ ARRIVED. Representative-elect Rosecranz arrived to-day and attended the Democratic caucus this evening.

STAR ROUTERS INDICTED. The grand jury indicted Lilley and Bratt in the star route cases.

UPTON WILL RESIGN. It is reported at the Treasury Department that Assistant Secretary Upton will probably tender his resignation to-day or Monday.

A Daring Bond Thief. Cleveland, December 3.—A daring thief captured a box from the Commercial National Bank containing $117,000 in bonds from which the cashier had just been cut. They were Milwaukee & St. Paul and Chicago & Milwaukee and Chicago & Atchison Bridge Company bonds. The man had been sitting in the office and when the coupon cutting was finished and bonds replaced in the box he quickly whisked the box from the table and disappeared, being gone half an hour before the bonds were missed. The president, D. E. Eels, was responsible for the careless manner in which the securities were exposed. The bonds are all negotiable. The man was short and stout, with short cropped whiskers.

ENGLISH EVENTS. London, Dec. 3.—The spinning mills of Black & White, Glasgow, burned to-day. Loss £50,000. A thousand people are out of employment.

It is understood that the marriage of Prince Leopold with Princess took place at Windsor Castle in March.

BISMARCK'S REMARKS. Vienna, Dec. 3.—The recent statement of Bismarck in a speech against the Progressives that Italy within the last twenty years had advanced so far toward a republic that there is no saying how things would end, created much sensation here.

Fatal Railway Collision.

Boston, December 3.—A special engine with caboose running west on the New York and New England road collided with the east bound local passenger train near Thompson, Connecticut this afternoon. The engine and caboose were on special orders to keep out of the way of other trains but the orders seem to have been forgotten and the special proceeded on the other train's time. W. P. Harrington of Putnam, conductor, and Albert Clark of Putnam, engineer of the special train, were killed, and the fireman was badly bruised on the passenger train, which consisted of an engine, baggage car and one passenger coach. About a dozen persons were more or less hurt.

The Growing Young Cities of the Galisteo.

Along the Galisteo River there are several young cities springing up. These towns are nurtured by the railroad and the rich mines in the vicinity, just now being developed.

one of these towns, is growing quite rapidly. It is the end of one of the railroad divisions and is also the headquarters for the San Pedro mining camp. A large number of buildings for the railroad company are being built. Among these is a large eating house for the accommodation of railroad men.

The San Pedro Company have built a large corral and will soon commence the erection of store buildings for the storage of the great amount of freight constantly being unloaded at that point. A side track is to be extended from the road through the corrals for the purpose of facilitating the unloading of the freight.

Mr. M. C. Wheeler is now the Master Mechanic at Wallace. He is kept constantly busy looking after the affairs of his office.

is the other prominent camp that is met with on this river. New houses are constantly springing up in this camp and the people are beginning to feel greatly encouraged at the future prospects of the place.

Side tracks have been ordered to be built and a small depot will likely be put up in the near future to accommodate the growing business of the place. This of course will greatly benefit the town.

The smelter, under the efficient management of Mr. Fritz Wolf, is being thoroughly refitted and rebuilt. When finished it will be one of the best in the Territory. The laboratory in connection with this smelter is large and is kept in full blast testing ores from mines in the vicinity.

The dry washers are at work on the placer mines in the valley of the Galisteo and are said to be doing well.

Spiegelberg Bros., of Santa Fe, are building a large two story business house in which they propose to put a heavy stock of general merchandise.

Taking all these improvements together the prospects of Cerrillos are very encouraging.

GLOHETA.

At the summit of the mountains is another flourishing little town. At present it is supported by the saw mills in the adjacent mountains, and also the large camps of men now engaged in repairing and strengthening the road along the west slope of the mountain. This town has other resources which will be developed in the near future. The mines, not far distant, promise to develop into valuable ones. The location also is one of the best in the Rocky Mountains, and will make one of the best summer resorts in New Mexico. All that is needed is a neat, well-built hotel for the accommodation of travelers and tourists. The public school at that place has been in session for several weeks. Eighteen scholars are in constant attendance. This does pretty well for a place that a year ago did not number many citizens.

Death.

William H. Fishie, a very intelligent, capable and energetic young man, about thirty-seven years old, who arrived in the city last Thursday from Springfield, Ill., died of consumption at 9 o'clock last night at the residence of Gen. J. Dinkel. He had come to Las Vegas for the purpose of regaining his fast failing health, but the change was too sudden, and life departed. He leaves a wife and child in Springfield, and they have been telegraphed to in regard to the disposition of the body.
