Senate.
Washington, Dec. 20.—The Senate reconsidered the vote disagreeing to the House adjournment. Yeas 31; Nays 21.
There was a discussion on Edmunds' amendment to make the recess from December 23 to January 3. Lost and the resolution agreed to, 33 to 26.
On motion of Davis the bill to receive the United States treasurer from the amount of twenty-eight million charge to him on the treasury books and deposited with several states and under the acts of 1836, be taken up.
He said this money would never be called for by the United States as it never had been in times of great need and it was inconvenient to carry it on the books.
Ingalls said that the inconvenience to book keepers was nothing compared to the injustice of giving twenty-eight millions to the other states at the expense of those who were admitted since 1836. It was the original contract that the money should be subject call by the United States.
Kirkwood intimated that the twenty-eight states interested were pooling to secure this twenty-eight millions.
He now offered as a second section to the bill the substance of the 5 per cent bill, allowing the various states 5 per cent of the value of their limits by the military bounty warrants.
Thurman thought the 5 per cent bill should stand on its own merits. He objected to the government giving away twenty-eight millions to the states. It was the government's money and it is our duty to pay as fast as possible our two billions indebtedness.
Every dollar of the seven or eight hundred millions due next year could be paid off in ten years without unduly burdening the people, yet it is proposed to extend it for forty or fifty years and at the same time give away the public lands and increase the expenditures and as we were doing; the inevitable result of this land policy would create a public debt; to make our debt like that of the British consuls, a perpetual annuity. He regarded a perpetual debt as one of the greatest curses that could be inflicted upon a nation. He opposed this bill as part of the legislation tending to bring on this misfortune.
Conkling thought Thurman's argument vitiated like many other good arguments by the incorrectness of his premises. In 1836 there was a surplus in the treasury raised by all the taxes on population then existing. The surplus was deposited with the States then existing subject to the call of the government. It was a call loan but subsequently the quality of the call loan was taken from it by act of Congress to the effect that money should never be called for except by act of Congress and on due notice the doctrine of estoppel warranted the assertion that when the Government in course of time had a great need for money they could apply for this and it was stopped from claiming money after forty years had passed and the States had, with the knowledge of the Government applied the money to various purposes on the assumption that it was considered as a gift. Conkling thought the past had sufficiently demonstrated that the people, resources and integrity of the country would make it impossible for any failure to pay the public debt.
Blaine regarded act 35 as folly resulting from the theory that surplus of revenue must be divided among the whole population. To recall the money now would be unjust, not only because of the lapse of time and the probable outlawing of the claim but also because the people who got the money would not be the ones called on to return it were not the men who then lived in the benefited states. The Senator from Oregon, Grover, would be called upon to return the share he got as a citizen of Maine in which State money was foolishly divided per capita among the population. Blaine was not a citizen of Maine at that time but he would have paid his share of money as a citizen of the state. It would be found a debt of former generations and should not be placed on this generation.

Thurman said that doctrine was unenforceable; that there was no bar of limitation to this debt. He said money was by law returnable on demand.
The debate was suspended and the Canal Appropriation Bill was referred to the committee.
On motion the Senate adjourned.

House.
Washington, Dec. 20.—Dunn introduced a joint resolution that lands in the Indian Territory to which the Indian title has been extinguished and which are public lands of the United States and thereby declared subject to settlement under the homestead and pre-emption laws. He desired it to be referred to the public and a committee.
Congress said it was an attempt to give possession to the white settlers and moved that it go to the committee on Indian affairs, which had charge of the rights of the Indians which was agreed to.
By motion of Morton the Currency appropriation bill was taken up and discussed.
The question of how money was to be taken from the people to support the government was a question for the committee on ways and means.
Mr. Price thought that it was sufficient argument to the objection to state that the bill had been referred to the committee of banking and currency.
The Speaker: "Did it go there by bill or petition?"
Price: "By both."
After further debate on this point the motion to suspend the rules was seconded. 122 to 43.
Miles then opposed the bill. He thought there were other subjects more fit for the reduction of tax than check stamps. Why not take the duty off clothing. They attempted to smuggle this bill through the House to prevent the amendment taking away from monopolists some of their ill gotten gains.
Decline in Stocks.
New York, Dec. 20.—The decline in stocks during this afternoon was due to the temporary advance in the rates for money and the report that a large speculator who is going away for a few months sold about sixty thousand shares of long stock which he had been carrying for two or three months. The stock exchange has listed $2,017,000 of consolidated first mortgage bonds of the Missouri Pacific railroad. A telegram from San Francisco states that the Southern Pacific opened for business to Demid station to-day, a point on the line near Mesilla, 1210 miles east of San Francisco, and 45 miles from El Paso. Stages connect there for the Santa Fe road at San Marcial a distance of 75 miles. The junction is to be made by the road from the east in a few weeks. The graders are keeping on to the Rio Grand at El Paso and the surveyors are examining in Texas for a line to Houston or New Orleans.

Billiard Tournament.
Paris, December 20.—A billiard match for the championship of the world between Geo. F. Slosson and Maurice Vigneux of France, began to-night in the Grand Hotel. The match is to be 30,000 points, six hundred to be played each night. If the player reaches that number any night in the course of a run, he is to follow up on the following night. A large dining saloon of the hotel is which the contest took place was filled. M. Gebelin a professor of billiards was chosen umpire. Vigneux opened the game but failed to score. Slosson followed and also failed to count. After several uncertain shots on both sides Vigneux started and made 57. He afterwards made runs of 117 and 111; the highest run made by Slosson was 27. At ten o'clock Vigneux had scored 304 and Slosson 60. The game then adjourned.

A Grand Excursion.
Chicago, Dec. 20.—Great interest is being manifested in the excursion to the City of Mexico and Cuba which will rendezvous in this city and start from here via New Orleans and Vera Cruz to the City of Mexico, returning by way of Havana about the middle of January. The party will be made up largely of railroad and mining capitalists seeking new fields. The fare for the round trip will be $200. It is believed that this excursion will result in bringing the country into closer and more friendly business relations with Mexico and will result in National benefit.

Surrendered Plates.
Washington, Dec. 18.—The plates surrendered by Brockway have arrived. Chief Drummond of the Secret Service Department says that Brockway mentioned that counterfeit money is usually made to sell but that he did not undertake any small work, that he always did work that would not affect poor people, always confining his operations to prominent banks and by so doing he said poor people were not affected as banks had sinking funds and could make their losses good.

Concessions.
New York, Dec. 20.—Telegrams from the City of Mexico announce that a concession of two additional lines had been awarded to Palmer & Sullivan or the Mexican National Co. with a subsidy of $8,000, from Mar a north to Salamanca and south to Patzcuaro, and the line from San Luis Potosi to Soledad, also that the Mexican government had formerly approved the organization of the Mexican National Railway company.

Foolish Wager.
New York, Dec. 20.—In the strolling company at 45 Chestnut street this forenoon Geo. W. Esmond made a wager that he could put a bullet through the hat of the bar keeper who was asleep at one end of the gallery. As Westfield fired the bar keeper clung to the hat and inflicted probably a fatal wound.

Withdrawn.
Cincinnati, Dec. 20. Gov. Foster on Saturday withdrew from the contest for the senatorship. His course is commented upon here to-day by the leaders of the republican party as a magnanimous act, creditable to him in the highest degree.

May Be Secretary of War.
New York, Dec. 20.—The Herald says: "General McDowell is a close personal friend of Garfield and if Ohio is to be the choice of the next President McDowell may be Secretary of War."

Wants Five per Cent.
Washington, Dec. 20.—Among the bills introduced in the House was one by Berry of California, granting to California five per cent. of the sales of the public lands in the state.

Two Million Dollars.
New York, December 20.—Steamers from Europe since Saturday have brought over $2,000,000.

The New Hotel.
The directors of the American Hotel company held a meeting last evening at the office of the Andres Doll Esq. and after examining the bids again, the contract for erecting the new hotel was let to John B. Wooten of this city for $28,000. He was ordered to have the building completed on or before the first of August next.
