The New York Herald's Valuable Suggestion to John Bull. Relating to Legislative Independence for Ireland. Local Legislation and an Imperial Parliament Suggested. All of Which Appears to be a First-Class Scheme. The Bribery Investigation at Albany Continues. Barbarous Deeds Reported from the Toothpick State. Some News Notes from the National Capital. Pithy Cablegrams from Transatlantic Lands. And a General Record of Yesterday's Happenings.

The Herald's Grand Scheme. New York, June 21.—The Herald's London special says: The Herald's recent editorials on the necessity of legislative independence for Ireland, and the establishment of a grand imperial parliament, including representatives from Australia, Canada, the Cape, Ireland and Scotland, attracts much attention in political circles, especially among the Irish members of all shades of opinion, for on this point the majority of Irishmen are agreed. In these editorials the Herald expresses, as far as the cable informs, the ultimate aim of the Irish agitators, though hitherto they have been almost altogether silent on the subject, at least in parliament. They have thought first of getting the land bill and afterwards of raising the more serious question, saying, justly enough, perhaps, that if the greater question came up for discussion the land bill would have little chance of careful consideration, and that this vexed question is better settled before than after the change. So far only one Irish member has spoken earnestly in public on the subject of legislative independence. Parnell, Dillon and other leaders have discussed the subject privately, but had some idea of postponing earnest work on the question till 1883, the centennial anniversary of the creation of the old Irish parliament, yet they might wisely take the good advice now offered by the Herald and begin work at once as it will take a long time to convince by ordinary process every Englishman of the necessity of legislative independence for Ireland. Since the publication of the Herald's editorial comments here the suggestion has been discussed by the homeruleers that the campaign for legislative independence should be opened immediately by having Justin McCarthy embody his views in a pamphlet for the broadest distribution, a very sensible method by the way of using a portion of the League's funds to help carry conviction before the contest commences. The English Parliament at present is simply an unwieldy body for legislation on British local affairs and wasting its own time and the time of the country by discussing trivial affairs for Ireland, Scotland and Wales instead of being a body representing the empire and dealing with the grander institutions belonging to it as a great European and imperial power. No better time than the present could be found to urge the idea of an imperial and national parliament. England's power to-day is paralyzed and her influence in Europe is nullified by Irish discontent and she is quite incapable of asserting her dearest interests so long as Ireland remains hostile. Examples enough can be quoted of wrong-headedness in either of the countries.

HISTORICAL EXAMPLE. Austria's weakness in the Italo-Prussian campaign was in Hungary's dissatisfaction and Francis Joseph appreciated too late the truth of Franz Deak's assertion: "Forced unity will never make an Empire strong. The Empire would be weakest at the moment when it would be in want of its united strength and the full enthusiasm of its people. If, therefore, your majesty wishes your Empire to be free and really strong, your majesty cannot attain that object by a compulsory unity but by a mutual understanding arrived at through the consent of the nation."

HOW THE IRISH VIEW THE SCHEME. The homeruleers thoroughly agreed with the opinions expressed by the Herald's scheme of confederation and would be prepared to accept it. Many Irishmen would prefer it to absolute independence, because, while it could guarantee homerule to the fullest extent it would afford a wide scope to the intellectual classes by permitting them to take part in the good government of a vast empire.

JUSTIN MCCARTHY'S OPINION. Mr. McCarthy thinks with the Herald, that the scheme would soon strengthen and consolidate the empire, when in the case of war with any strange maritime power it would undergo a great strain. He considers that public opinion in England is becoming more favorable to some solution looking to the release of Parliament from the work of local legislation.

MR. O'KELLY expressed himself in a similar strain. He thinks the scheme proposed by the Herald would probably content Ireland and solve the Irish question, and even extreme nationalists think it would give it a trial because under such a system Ireland would enjoy home rule and practical independence. Were England wise she would hasten to adopt the Herald's scheme, which he thinks alone can keep the empire together.

MCCARTHY'S VIEWS ELABORATED. The Herald's correspondent says: The views of Mr. Justice McCarthy which I have here summarized, I gathered from the well known historian last night. To-night McCarthy favored me with a short letter on the subject elaborating his opinions more carefully. He says: "I have long been advocating some system like that which the Herald recommends. I would have a truly imperial parliament to discuss not provincial, but local, nor even national affairs, but business that is common to all the national ideas and states bound up in one confederation. According to my idea, England, Scotland, Wales and the various colonies should all be represented there, each at the same time having its separate department to manage its own business. Such an idea is growing every day. In the colonies it is much favored, and it is consequently discussed at the Royal Colonial Institute here an organization founded for the express purpose of representing colonial opinions. The colonies say with undeniable force that at present they are exposed to all the dangers which a war between England and any foreign power may bring without having any protector in England's foreign policy. I do not lay much stress upon the proportion of the representation to population although that will doubtless come in the end, but for the present it would matter little if the bad condition of the country and city representation prevails in the several countries. The great object is to establish its principle of a federation with National and local politics for local or national affairs and an imperial parliament for the business of the Empire. Such I believe to be the ultimate solution of the problem of government. Habits have to be taken into account."

Bribery Business. Albany, June 21.—In the Assembly bribery hearing this morning, Rosendale, associate counsel for Bangs, said that Bangs was necessarily absent attending the Supreme Court in New York and he requested a postponement of the hearing until Wednesday.

St. Louis, June 21.—The Republican's Little Rock special says: Particulars of a terrible affair were brought to town to-day. Some days ago the house of a miserly old farmer named Stokes, living in Sharp county was robbed of four or five hundred dollars by six masked men and the old man murdered. Thursday night last a band of fifteen or twenty armed men went to the houses of Tibbets, Alver, Stanley and James and Jonathan Callahan, took them to an adjacent glen and tortured them in a most horrible manner with a view of making them confess the murder. The Callahans have since been arrested but it is said Tibbets and Stanley were tortured to death.

Clay Wilson's Examination. Denver, June 21.—The examination of Clay Wilson, for the murder of Jim Moon, is going on to-day. Ten witnesses were examined this morning. In the argument this evening Stratton, for the people, made the point that Moon made no demonstration against Wilson at the time of the shooting, while General Browne, for the defense, argued that the act was not only in self-defense, but a commendable one, endorsed by the people and the press. A decision will probably be reached this afternoon.

Big Masonic Celebration. Louisville, Ky., June 21.—The Masons will celebrate Thursday and Friday of this week. They offer $2,500 in prizes for military companies; $500 for artillery; $200 for Knights Templar competitive drill; $250 for base ball match and $100 for bicycle race. Five military companies are entered, three artillery and probably three Knights Templars.

Brickmakers' Strike. Denver, June 21.—The brickmakers strike did not hold nor assume any large proportions as was yesterday expected. The employees of three yards were on a strike yesterday and these boasted that to-day all others would join, but on the contrary the strikers to-day agreed to resume work at the old rates.

Gritty Griscom, the FASTER. Chicago, June 21.—Griscom's weight at the beginning of the twenty-fifth day was 167 1/2 pounds. Loss, 2 1/2 pounds since the beginning of the fast. In twenty-four hours he drank forty-eight ounces of water. He feels well, though weakened is vivacious in conversation and good tempered.

Fatal Railway Accident. Iowa City, June 21.—A train on the Burlington, Cedar Rapids & Northern Railway struck a cow just at the entrance of a bridge near here, broke the bridge and went down into the stream, killing the engineer, Nolan and brakeman Maloney.

Fatal Explosion. Milford, Mass., June 21.—An engine boiler at the wharf exploded, shattering several buildings, injuring five persons fatally and killing one workman.

Washington News. WELSH VS. BRADY. Washington, June 21.—Suit was entered to-day against Brady by John A. Welsh, to recover $28,000. Welsh was formerly a banker here and advanced Brady $28,000, of which $28,000 remains due. Welsh's counsel says the suit is not connected with the star route prosecutions. Welsh once held a star route contract in security and it is stated that Brady's refusal to pay is founded on the theory that Welsh's share in the contract was the payment of a part of a loan.

Sithitter, a French painter, drawn on the grand jury, being former beneficiary of Brady has been excused because his name was incorrectly spelled on the jury list.

UTON. Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, Upton, leaves to-night for Europe on refunding business. His friends deny that this is a plan to supersede him.

Cablegrams. INDIGNANT ITALIANS. Rome, June 21.—It is impossible to describe the indignation over the Marcellis affair and the Minister of Foreign Affairs made a statement in the assembly that all possible has been done to prevent and resent the recent insult to Italy. It was received with ironical comfort.

MARSEILLES MATTERS. Marseilles, 11 p. m.—One hundred and seventy-one arrests have been made and two regiments reinforced the troops. If there is a further row the prefect of police will declare martial law. The riot was confined to individuals who committed barbarous murders in some cases.

ENGLISH SHAME. London, June 21.—The Sportsman says some of the Henly stewards stayed away from the meeting so as not to go on record in the matter of admitting the Cornell crew and severely condemn the cowardly method of opposing their entrance. The matter is a contemptible disgrace of which England should be ashamed.

PARNELLITES. It is stated that the Parnellites won't meet any more until the Land Bill assumes shape in the Commons.

IROQUOIS THE FAVORITE. St. Leger stake, betting being five for two against him. He and Peregrin are backed even against the field.

WALKISTS. Rowell 196, Weston 147, the latter running his best gate.

COMPLIMENTARY TO AMERICA. The Pall Mall Gazette regrets that O'Donovan has not been ignored, and expresses the belief that America will curiously answer England's demand to interfere with the Irish-American press, contrary to its traditions and policy, though it would suppress expeditions as it has done before. The Daily News has almost exactly similar articles highly complimentary to American sense.

Arkansas Horrors. St. Louis, June 21.—The Republican's Little Rock special says: Particulars of a terrible affair were brought to town to-day. Some days ago the house of a miserly old farmer named Stokes, living in Sharp county was robbed of four or five hundred dollars by six masked men and the old man murdered. Quiet Wedding. At the residence of Col. T. B. Mills Judge Arthur Chambers, of Ill., and Mrs. Ella May Phillips, of Kan., were united in the holy bonds of matrimony last evening: Rev. J. C. Eastman, of the Presbyterian church officiating. Being quite unexpected, only a few friends of the Col.'s family were called in. The guests were Col. and Mrs. Mills, Rev. and Mrs. Eastman, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Phillips, Mrs. Timms, S. M. Barnes, Santa Fe; Woods and Antoinette Romero, Misses Anita Headley, Myrtle Phillips and Willie Mills, Masters Bertie Phillips and Roy Eastman. We hope the happy couple will have a bright and happy life, and doubt not they will, as both are noted for their sterling characters.

At the annual meeting of the Las Vegas Hotel and Improvement Company, at the office of A. Dold, last night, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Charles Blanchard, Pres.; T. Romero, Vice President; Geo. J. Dinkel, Secretary and Jefferson Raynolds, Treasurer. The president appointed the following executive committee: T. Romero, J. Rosenwald and J. Raynolds. It was ordered that the secretary issue stock to John Pendaries for the amount paid up by him in lands. The executive committee was invested with the full authority and power possessed by the board of directors. After some discussion as to the proper leasing of the hotel when finished the meeting adjourned.

Tom Pickett, formerly policeman on the East Side, who is in jail awaiting trial for several offenses, has turned pugilist. But Tom cannot be much of a fighter, as he has been whipped in every round. He first tackled Mariano, a man considerably under his size, but was badly worsted. His next man was Murphy, the accused murderer, who is kept chained. Murphy succeeded in beating Pickett pretty roughly, although the odds were against him.

Col's circus, we learn, is reducing the price of admission, as advertised from $2.00 to $1.00. The last is the price advertised in the Socorro Miner, and we are informed that the admission at Santa Fe to-day will be one dollar. It is unfortunate that the company advertised at two dollars if they expect to fall to one. It would have been better to have advertised at the smaller rate and come up to the larger one.

Check. No, my son, check is not better than wisdom; it is not better than modesty; it is not better than anything. Don't listen to the siren who tells you how to blow your horn or it will never be tooled upon. The world is not to be deceived by check, and it does search for merit, and when it finds it, merit is rewarded. Check never deceives the world, my son. It appears to do so to the cheeky man, but he is the man who is deceived. Do you know one cheeky man in all your acquaintances who is not reviled for his cheek the moment his back is turned? Is the world not continually drawing distinctions between cheek and merit? Almost everybody hates a cheeky man, my son. So do they of the brassy glare of his face, the hollow tinkling of his exulting tongue, the noisy assumption of his forwardness. The triumphs of cheek are only apparent. He hoves his way along through the world, and frequently people give way for him. But so they give way for a man with a paint pot in each hand. Not because they respect the man with the paint pot particularly, but because they want to take care of their clothes. You sell goods without it, and your customers won't run and hide in the cellar when they see you coming.—Burlington Hawkeye.
