SECURE BIG CONCESSIONS

Syndicate in Which Guggenheimer is Interested Gets Valuable Privleges in Guatemala.

New York, March 18.—After a struggling which has been going on for three years, during which German opposition and local prejudice have had to be fought constantly, the right to develop the vast mineral wealth of Guatemala has at last been secured by a group of American capitalists. At the head of this commission are former Gov. A. E. Spriggs of Montana, former Senator W. A. Clark of that state and a number of capitalists closely identified with the Guggenheim interests. French capital is also invested in the deal.

The terms of the concession, which has been signed by Don Manie Estrada Cabrera, are of the broadest character. They turn the Central American republic over to the syndicate. Not only are all public lands in Guatemala turned over to the Americans for exploration and development, but the right also is given them to build railroads and bridges where they see fit, to use the great waterways of the republic for their own purposes, to build and operate telegraph and telephone lines.

But one formality remains to be arranged before the Americans, who are operating under the title of the Guatemala Mining and Development company, can exercise the privileges that President Cabrera has signed over to them. The form of the concession must be approved by the Guatemala national assembly.

The assembly is now in session, but the concession has not been presented to it. The New Yorkers interested in the enterprise, among whom is Congressman William Sulzer, say the matter will be closed next week, but there are already rumors of an opposition based on the claim that President Cabrera and his cabinet have practically sold everything in the republic worth having to the Americans, and have not received an adequate price in return.

Behind this opposition are the German concessionaries in the republic. While there are many of these, their holdings are insignificant compared to the Americans. Nevertheless, they are said to be very bitter over the situation, and especially so since they learned that French capital is represented in the American syndicate, and they seem to be determined to stir up all the trouble possible.

The terms made by the syndicate with Cabrera are that 10 per cent of the net profits of any enterprise the Americans start shall be paid into the treasury of the republic. The opposition is claiming that the relations between the Guatemalan administration and the American is too friendly to suit them. They insist that if the concession is to be ratified by the national assembly one of the terms shall be:

"All controversies and difficulties shall be submitted for final settlement to the president of the United States of America, whose ruling will be final."

The syndicate, according to the report, does not want to include these terms in the contract, and President Cabrera is reported to be willing to oblige. What the national assembly will do remains to be seen.

PIES WIN HUSBAND

Young Girl Who Baked Them Like Mother Used to Weds Her Wealthy Employer.

New York, March 18.—Pies like mother used to make have been responsible for another romance. Some woman who was wise in her generation, said the way to a man's heart was through his appetite. Miss Margaret Vanderbush, that was, took a leaf from this book of wisdom and instead of being cook in the home of Lines L. Fletcher, one of the wealthiest residents of Lowerre, a suburb of Yonkers, is now recognized as Mrs. Fletcher. The wedding was performed in the Little Church Around the Corner, in this city.

Mr. Fletcher had been a widower several years. He is 58 years old, and head of the Yonkers Electro-Plating company and the Westchester Electric Equipment company.

Then a year ago Margaret Vanderbush, 18 years old, from New Jersey, was engaged. She was recommended as a cook, and was an orphan. She soon took charge of the house, No. 117 McLean avenue. Mr. Fletcher, a busy man, getting on in years, soon awakened to the fact that the cook was a jewel.

In the morning the eggs were as he wished, and the toast was properly done. The coffee had to it that flavor that was delightful and the aroma fitted the toast and poached eggs.

A continuous change of cooks, from cooks who made good spaghetti and corn cook nothing else, to cooks who could poach eggs and could not make coffee, caused the head of the house to think well of the new cook.

Then came the time when Margaret set out her first pie. That dish had been one the manufacturer had not touched for years. Very fond of it, he could not bring himself to run chances, as experience had taught him every pie had to stand or fall on its effects after eating.

But in time he decided to take a chance. Others had eaten it and lived, and even praised it, and had come for more. Once he had partaken of a plain, ordinary apple pie, he ran the gamut from just plain every day pie, to the meringues, that make the mouth water.

Whether any threat on the part of Miss Vanderbush to leave had anything to do with the proposal, of course, is a secret locked in the breasts of the couple. But several days ago Mr. Fletcher decided that a girl who could cook like that should not be allowed to leave the house, and he proposed.

"Yes, I suppose it was my pies," said the bride. "He proposed and I accepted. That is all there is to it. The bride has step children older than she is. One is Mrs. William M. Harlow of Yonkers.

MAY BE GETTING WISE

St. Louis, Mo., March ..—The sworn personal tax returns of wealthy St. Louisans shows a remarkable depreciation in personal property from June 1, 1909, to June 1, 1910.

James Campbell, who made a return of $2,700,000 on personal property for the year 1909, made a sworn return he possessed but $185,400 on June 1, 1910. He is considered the wealthiest man in St. Louis and all the southwest.

Assessor Brinkop assessed John Scullin at $1,000,000 last year. This year Scullin made a personal return he was the possessor of $134,650 worth of personal property, of which $127,240 was in notes, and other credits, $12,450 in other personal property. He had a horse worth $50 and a cow worth $10.

He had no money whatever on hand June 1 and only $100 in the bank, household furniture at $1,000, pictures at $5,000 and vehicles at $7,000. He has no piano.

Adolphus Busch was assessed at $2,000,000 in 1909, but in 1910 he was worth $567,540. He had $100 worth of jewelry. A week ago subsequent to the assessment, he gave his wife, Mrs. Busch a $2,000,000 diara as a golden wedding gift.

FUNERAL FOR DOG

Touching Sermon Preached Over Its Remains by Minister Who Pays Tribute to All Canines

New York, March 18.—James M. King owns a chain of florist stores in the Bronx, but he missed every one of them, including his headquarters on East One Hundred and Seventy-seventh street, for a half hour or more while the funeral of his cherished St. Bernard, Leo, a dog of massive proportions, was being held at his home, No. 256 East Two Hundred and Third street, Bedford Park. Leo died of poison given to him by some enemy he trusted.

The services at the house consisted of singing and a eulogy of dogs and Leo in particular by the Rev. Amasa Mertes, pastor of the Mosholu Evangel mission, situated not far from the King residence.

The body of Leo was escorted to the grave, made in a lot owned by Mr. King several blocks from his home, by scores of the neighborhood children and not a few from distant parts of the Bronx.

One of these was Archie Townsend, who lives in southern boulevard. He was a pall bearer, acting as such with Mr. King's three daughters, Alice, Beatrix and Dorothy, the latter a child of ten years, and all of whom had played with Leo since he was a puppy.

"It may seem sacrilegious to some that we should meet here to pay loving tribute to the memory of a dog," said Pastor Mertes in his annotation of Leo, "but to me it seems eminently proper and fitting.

"Of all earthly creatures none is so faithful as unto dog. He will survive, trust and bear all the hardships that can suffer for his loved master or mistress, and feel amply repaid for any sacrifice by the slightest show of regard from the one he loves. I knew Leo as a friend, and as a friend I mourn his tragic taking off, and can only feel that a just punishment awaits the one who brought about his untimely end."

The dog's body was borne to the grave in a white florist wagon and wrapped in blankets and encased in a box. It was covered with earth while the throng of mourners sang.

"Leo was killed out of spite by some one whose resentment either he or some of my family had aroused," said Mr. King. "Until a week ago he was in perfect health. Then he became sick. After his death I had an autopsy performed. It showed that he had been fed a poisoned sponge encased in meat. Of course the sponge alone would have killed him. I shall spend a thousand dollars if need be to find out who did it, and I'll find out, too."
