

MOUNTAIN AIR BOY IS RUN OVER AND KILLED

Ray Farber Falls Beneath His Wagon and Suffers Fatal Injuries: He Was Popular Nestor.

Special to Evening Herald.

Mountain Air, N. M., March 22.—Ray Farber, a homesteader south of this place and a school teacher at profession, died here Sunday night from injuries received when he was run over by his own wagon last Friday night. The boy was sent to the old home at Hixon, Kansas, for treatment. Farber came to town Friday evening and attended his classes with some friends, leaving his team tied to the street. After the school he started home with a horse of water in the wagon. The team was cold from standing still and started to run and at the same time he dropped one of the lines. Just as this side the railroad crossing he stepped out on the double track to catch the line he had dropped and just at this time the wagon struck the engine and he lost his footing, falling between the horses and under the wheels. Both wheels ran over his chest breaking four ribs loose from the vertebrae and also hitting him internally.

W. H. Hefling, who attended the Bible class at the home of W. M. McCoy that evening started home about the same time and found Mr. Farber lying where he had fallen soon after the accident. He was conscious and told him how the accident occurred. With two of other Mr. Hefling took the injured man to R. D. Stevenson's store close by and by heading was summoned. Everything possible was done for him, but he gradually succumbed to his injuries at the Commercial hotel, to which place he had been removed.

Mr. Farber was a school teacher and came to Mountain Air about a year ago. His parents, a brother and three sisters live in Kansas and one brother at Vaughn, Neb. He came over Saturday night. He was with his brother during his sufferings and went east with the body Monday morning. He was 24 years old and was to have been married some time this fall.

FISHER TO VISIT THE CONGRESS

New Secretary of the Interior to Be Guest of Honor at Irrigation Congress in Chicago.

Chicago, March 22.—One of the first delegations to wait upon Walter L. Fisher, new secretary of the Interior and the third member of President Taft's official family to be chosen from Chicago, immediately he assumed his active charge of his new office. He will be a commission of several of his Chicago friends to accompany his new secretary to his formal inauguration to address one or more of the sessions of the Nineteenth national irrigation congress which are to be held here late this year.

Plans to have Secretary Fisher as a guest of the congress were outlined to members of the Chicago board of control immediately after the news was flashed from Washington early in the week with the sudden message that Secretary Ballinger's successor was to be the Chicagoan of conservation and traction fame.

That Mr. Fisher will appear on the speakers' platform of the congress is practically a certainty, and it is not improbable that his address will be made on the closing day, December 3, at which time the president himself is to speak. Aside from his natural interest in all things pertaining to irrigation the new secretary has a long knowledge of conservation matters, having for years made a study of conservation in all its phases, and is unusually well posted in federal and state laws governing the control of water powers and waterways. These matters always have been of great importance in irrigation interests and few other subjects have attracted so much discussion at the congress sessions in past years.

Having been invited already by various boards of trade and other community organizations of the city to visit that section of the nation which his office is more directly concerned with, especially at this time, it is not unlikely that Secretary Fisher will attract quite a personal tour of inspection throughout the west, north west and southwest, and conservation Mr. Fisher counts for some the conditions of his profession, for he is not like his friend of years, drilled

THEY ARE MUCH ALIKE--An irrigation reservoir and a life insurance company. One conserves the waters of many streams; the other conserves the savings of many policy holders. A reservoir, or a life insurance company, to serve its purpose best, must be wisely located. A reservoir located at the mouth of the Rio Grande river would be only in degree more useless to Texas, Arizona and New Mexico than a life insurance company located in New York.

WE MUST KEEP OUR MONEY AT HOME for the encouragement of industry and business and have insurance too. In that way and that only, can we protect our loved ones, and at the same time be each a unit in the general prosperity.
