LET US BE FAIR. The Evening Herald in conjunction with the other papers in New Mexico has been invited to look for at the heat-ometer station in the middle west and the effects upon the crops and the people. We have had some things about their climate conditions and therein we have not at all observed a spirit of fairness which perhaps should have characterized our response.

Last evening the news dispatches contained the following: June 5.—Two deaths occurred here today from heat, which reached 92, one degree lower than on Sunday, the highest ever recorded here in the month of June. The first died at East 81, Louis high school, while on a hot weather strike this afternoon. . . . One of the deaths said: "We did not strike in a spirit of malice, but because the heat was unbearable."

On the same date the Herald published the following from Chicago: "By 3 o'clock the temperature had reached the high mark established yesterday at 98 1/2, with the mercury still mounting in the federal gauge. The humidity has gathered by the poles amounted to two dead and 17 in a critical condition from heat-stroke."

These dispatches represent extremes in the weather back there. It is not always that hot. In fact it is frequently much cooler, and the papers of New Mexico owe it to those states to adopt a fairer position with respect to the weather. For instance, turning to the news dispatches the Herald finds the following which is entitled to fullest publicity: "St. Louis, Jan. 2, 1911.—With a mark of 4 degrees below zero already recorded and a minimum temperature of 39 degrees below promised before morning, the cold wave promises to prove one of the most serious in years. . . . Death and suffering as far south as Texas marks the progress of a blizzard."

A day later the following dispatch went the rounds of the press: "Chicago, Jan. 3, 1911.—In Chicago a new mark of 4 degrees above zero was reached, which means intensely cold weather because of the presence of the lake and the moisture which penetrates the very marrow of one's bones. . . . All the city and county and private charitable institutions were crowded to the limit." Two days later revealed scarcely any change.

"The suffering of those who were compelled to face the elements was hardly less during the day than it was on Wednesday. The ice that covered the sidewalks beneath the snow made it dangerous to walk, with the result that ambulances were kept busy all day caring for the injured." From these illustrations it will be seen that the terrible heat of the past few days is not a permanent thing in the middle west and eastern states in fact it is a station rice and coal fields.

Just because New Mexico has a tremendous climate, without extremes in either heat or cold, in no reason why we should misrepresent other localities. It is not always hot back there, in fact it is sometimes quite cold.

BRYAN AND HIS PARTY. When Mr. Mandell of Wyoming, in speaking on the west here yesterday declared that I was Mr. Bryan who really dominated the Democratic cause on the present Democratic bill, he struck at the backbone of the present Democratic attack.

These Democrats who have been teaching presidential honors, who have been organizing new Democratic clubs and planning political action with a view solely to its effect on the near election have found one bugaboo always in their path, the gentleman from Nebraska, Mr. Bryan will not down. He has been the dominating factor in Democratic conventions since the days of his cross of gold, and he still bids fair to cause fear and trembling to those of his party who have recognized that to win the Democratic party must stand for progress and not for retrogression. His those opposed to Mr. Bryan are in the minority today. Had the Democratic cause been dominated by Charles Clark, Mr. Underwood, who is the speaker's political general in the house, or to any other Democrat who is looking for political honors in the nation, the tariff bill on wool would never have attempted to slash the duty in two as the present instrument tries to do. When Mr. Mandell declared that despite their efforts to still proceed with wool the few Democrats who stood out for the wool duty would be effect toward to free trade and the present wool tariff which would have the full effect. Mr. Bryan was the man who made all their efforts in vain. Mr. Underwood and Clark, who were supposed to be the Democrats' party since an open avowal at that time they made a weak compromise between the principle of Mr. Bryan and their own ideas.

Even then, Mr. Bryan in his paper took their efforts in vain and as yet not a word has been uttered in opposition. Mr. Bryan still the genius behind the scenes of the Democratic party and he will be the dominating influence in the next Democratic national campaign.

That being the case, it is hard to see where the country can expect anything more from the Democratic party at this time than in the past. Mr. Bryan will be the "boss" in the future as he has been in the past, and Mr. Clark, Mr. Underwood, Mr. Wilson, Mr. Clark and the squares of them will find the Nationalism steam roller will be good working order if they get on with their progressive ideas.

The country has already heard its stamp of disapproval on Mr. Bryan on several occasions and the party dominated by him can not hope to be successful in 1912.

The question before the house now is can a man be found in the Democratic ranks big enough to down Mr. Bryan? Such a man has not yet been found to lead the children out of the desert.

It has come to light that in his private days Havemeyer kept control of the great sugar combine by only 2,000 shares of stock. Anyone who does not believe that publicity in the affairs of great corporations is a good thing need only turn to the pages of the sugar business to be quickly converted.

Those New York girls who shot a millionaire hotel proprietor are now held under $25,000 bond. Had they confined their attack to the skidful use of hot pins they would have got off lighter and probably done just as much damage to the millionaire's anatomy and feelings.

After the Spanish-American war tax was removed by the government the tobacco trust still maintained the small-sized packages of tobacco, so that the tax was really in effect still, although it went to another source than the war debt.

A college education can not make a woman much different from the usual temperament of her sex. A Vassar graduate in Colorado who stood high in state educational circles those took her life yesterday because of a quarrel with her husband.

After those terrible electric storms in the eastern states, the killing heat in the middle west and the blighted wheat crop in the northwest, New Mexico may well boast of her charms, in season and out of season.

There is something unique in the findings of that Colorado prize when it ordered an indicted prize fighter sent to Las Vegas. The courts at times are inclined to be a trifle too severe for petty offenses.

For Those Who Appreciate good things to eat and drink there is no beer like Pabst Blue Ribbon The Beer of Quality There is something so distinctive, so delicious about it that the man who drinks it is never quite satisfied with any other brew. Order a case today.
