WHAT ABOUT FREE WOLF?

The people of New Mexico will no doubt read with considerable interest the platform which will within the next day or two be promulgated by the Democrats assembled in Santa Fe.

In a general way it is easy to predict what that instrument will contain. There will, of course, be the usual platitudes about "Republican misrule" and the convention will "speak with alarm" the "algebraic combinations of capital in a few hands" overlooking the fact that under Democratic administrations the difficulty has been to accumulate capital in anybody's hands.

It is when the platform provisions relating to the tariff are reached that we expect to see the old donkey do his most scientific prancing, for there he will be walking on eggshells. How the delegate can frame a tariff plank that will be on speaking terms with the national policy of their party and hope to receive twenty-five per cent of the votes cast at the election is one of the mysteries in the solution of which much interest will be felt.

Now, however, it tells us this morning that it clearly recognizes that dressed trousers are an issue in the campaign, and it definitely places itself on the affirmative side of that burning question. Oh, yes, we have at last succeeded in getting it placed, and we can now go on with the day's work of kicking the Democrats, severe in the consciousness that our little division has not been all in vain.

In all probability it will occur to the sagacious intellect of the patient least that the best thing to do about the wolf is to do nothing at all and that the dog will no longer be so long on account of the wisdom of the party, but that the wolf will have to do the best that their very best and wisest are able to do for the destruction of this "hunting" business. Therein the wisdom and wisdom of the party, and the wisdom of that of the people to whom he will make his appeal, but such a course will be thoroughly characteristic of him.

THE PRESIDENT'S TRIP.

The "swing around the circle" which is being made by President Taft has been extended so far by very different results from those predicted by his enemies and half-hearted friends before the trip began, and the agents demonstrated the courage and the mental vigor of the man.

When it was first announced that the president would go before the people of the west as soon as the special session of congress should adjourn, the Democrats and insurgent press of the country had been telling of the awful things that would happen to him. He would be going into the heart of the enemy's territory, it was said, where insurrection, like a wild beast, stalked abroad seeking whom it might devour.

A good part of the trip has now been finished, and we now have a fairly good idea of the feeling of the people west of the Mississippi towards Mr. Taft. His reception at every stage of the trip has been not only cordial but enthusiastic in its warmth, and it is safe to say that nowhere in the country is the president held in higher esteem, both for the soundness of his political views and for the exalted integrity of his public and private character, than in the West.

This, too, is in the face of the fact that Mr. Taft has not hesitated to express opinions at variance with those supposed to prevail in the community where he was speaking. He has shown an undaunted courage in stating his views, and a calmness and dignity which have compelled respect everywhere and have added greatly to his strength and prestige.

The president has met the people face to face, has told them just where he stands, and has given a good account of himself. The only "enemy's territory" that exists today, so far as he is concerned, is in those states which are so beautiful in their adherence to the Democratic party that they would vote for the worst man in the country on a Democratic ticket against the best man in the country on a Republican ticket.

CONGRATULATIONS.

We feel constrained to felicitate our morning neighbor on the fact that at last it has assumed sufficient courage to meet an issue. For months now we have labored and struggled to get it pinned down to a definite stand on some governmental policy, but without success.

Do not expect too much of the Journal-Democrat, however. One issue in a campaign is as much as a public mind can take care of. Hence it stands on the subject of free wool, the blue bullet, the initiative and referendum, and other matters of state or national policy. Created trousers are as much as it can take care of at one time, and it has lined up on that subject.

In view of its past record, however, the public will doubtless take this declaration of principles with a degree of suspicion. While the Journal-Democrat is now unequivocally for dressed trousers, there is no saying that it will not be just as emphatically against them before the campaign is over—especially if there is anything in it for the Journal-Democrat.

For rest and sport and excitement we will put the world series between the Journal and Athletics against the Yanks-Halves war on day.

We challenge anybody to read Mr. Robinson's recent speech at Santa Fe and tell what the New Mexico Democratic stands for.

"Till the present war" began the "American" would have found it difficult to tell whether Tripoli was a loss or a disease.

The "Hunting" has now been pulled out of the Democrats and being at Santa Fe it is so hilarious that there is no need for the law to intervene.

The reading, old sport, will be done on November 7. We hope you will have another pair by that time.

Senator Wilson was evidently afraid his boom would run itself out of itself too early in the game.

Under somebody else's feet pretty soon, the Park-Italian war will not even be good for newspaper purposes.

The Democrats will not be able to put free wool over the eyes of the New Mexico voters.

The Journal-Democrat is for dressed trousers even if they have to be made out of free wool.

The "bore" sounder by Chairman Ferguson at Santa Fe was a discord.

APPLE PACKERS TO NUMBER OF 50 ARE AT WORK

Roswell Packing House Busy Place These Days; Street Decorations for Exposition Being Put Up.

Roswell, N. M., Oct. 4.—The apple packers who are working on the crop from these orchards number 50, and they are busily engaged today, and have been for the last week, in their scrapping and packing the tremendous "big red apple" crop of the "Part of the Peace." The large building of the Valley Fruit & Storage company is literally loaded to the point of overflowing with Idaho, Wisconsin, Pippin and various other varieties of apples.

The result of each day's labor by the city team in sorting, packing, boxing, shipping and loading will be that three or four cars of apples will be shipped in different markets in the state of Texas. Two or three cars loaded with first class apples of mixed varieties will doubtless be shipped and it is certain that one carload of calls will also be sent to Texas.

The street decoration for the Products exposition street fair and carnival, October 5, 4 and 7, was started by the Roswell Gas and Electric company. It is spanning Main street, at the intersection of First, with a large electric sign, "Welcome." The work is being done absolutely gratis.

Other preparations for the fair are being made in many of the business houses and many of the buildings are being dressed in a new coat of paint for the occasion. As a whole, the main thoroughfare of this city will present a very pleasing spectacle to the eye of the most fastidious visitor.

PEACH SEASON IS OVER IN PECOS

Cathlamet, N. M., Oct. 4.—The picking of the peach crop through this district is about completed now and the remaining fruit will be picked, dried and sold on the local market. Fifteen hundred boxes have been shipped from Cathlamet since the season started, and the crop is being shipped in the middle of the season. The late shipments have been assigned chiefly to Tulsa and Houston, Texas, where they met with ready sale. The smaller lots, used for the first time in this section of the valley this past spring, by Messrs. Tracy & McLanahan, have proved the success which was anticipated and demonstrated that by their use the peach crop in this part of the valley is an assured fact in the future. They will be universally adopted by other fruit growers here, spring and fall crop next season is expected to be one of the big things of the valley.

The Cathlamet cotton gin started up for business today and is anticipated a steady run during the season. The machinery was completely overhauled during the summer and with a 20-horse-power electric dynamo the two gin stands are kept busy. The acreage in and around Cathlamet is in excess of that of last year, and with some cotton grown up near Dayton, which will be brought here to be ginned, it is thought that the coming season will be a record breaker. The gin is operated by W. T. Murray and the management is under the supervision of H. P. Christian.

M'KINLEY COUNTY TO ROLL UP HANDSOME MAJORITY

Delegates to State Republican Convention Well Satisfied With Ticket and Will Work Hard for It.

(Special Correspondence in the Herald) Gallup, N. M., Oct. 4.—The delegates from McKinley county to the state convention have all returned home. They all seem perfectly satisfied with the way things have gone, and they believe that the Republican party of this county will have the largest victory they have had since the county was first organized.

Nick Hengel had a narrow escape from being severely injured Saturday when one of the men pulling down for the back fell on him, pinning him to the sidewalk. He received a badly sprained hand and his back badly skinned but is able to be about "business" today.

The office furnishings for the first national bank arrived last week and Nick Hengel has a force busy getting things in shape. The bank will occupy its new quarters about the middle of the month.

Work on the new McKinley county bank building has been stopped for several days waiting the material. F. C. Swartz is putting up another new residence near his property in the same locality.

J. N. Castillo is erecting a new home on Elch street, near Fifth street. Office of the city engineer is in the building of Shilling at present by building new residences. Joe Marcell, who is putting up a house near his home on Adams street, John Myrick, who is building a home on Pecos street and Hill avenue, Thos. Thompson, Chas. Day, and a host of others too numerous to mention.

Gen. Keppeler expects to strike road in his present effort, near town, in a few days. There has already passed through these small towns but have not yet struck the vein they are flaring on working.

Mrs. J. D. Roberts and son John returned home Monday from Santa Fe where they spent the summer visiting with friends and relatives.

Mrs. Chas. Clark returned home Sunday from Albuquerque after spending several weeks visiting in there. She is reported to be well on the road to recovery.

'BARRIER' SEAT SALE BEGINS AT MATSON'S TOMORROW

Believed That There Will Be Big Demand for Tickets to Opening Show of Season. To Be Staged in Elks' Saturday

The seat sale for "The Barrier," Rex Beach's thrilling drama, which comes to the Elks' theatre Saturday night, and which opens the theatrical season in Albuquerque, will begin tomorrow morning at Matson's. The curtain will rise at 9 o'clock for the accommodation of those who cannot get away from business earlier. The prices will be $1.50, $1.00 and 75 cents.

To accurately cast this latest and greatest success of Rex Beach for its first theatrical season, there has been a heavy rehearsal. The character and pronounced characters in the story had their respective counter-parts from the stage.

These would include Brock, "Captain Thomas" of the U. S. A., "Toby" the doctor, with a shadow on his past, "Polson" the light hearted French-Canadian, who smokes his way to the stage, and into the hearts of all, and last in the "Stars," who has never been surpassed as a stage villain, "Hemlock," his confederate, who so faithfully represents the lower life of Alaska had been "No Creek Lee," a unique comedy character of the last war, "Corporal Thomas," who shows his honesty in overlooking his disreputable "Algonia," the faithful spouse of "Glad" and supposed mother of "Neddy," and last of all "Neddy" herself, who is told to believe in her father by "Captain Barrett" and happens to be the aunt of Indian blood running through her veins, all of it into the stage picture with realistic accuracy, when the company hits its bookings, appearing here as advertised in the daily press.

WE HAVE THE SAME THAT IS NEW MEXICO (Present Company)

Our territorial exchanges show that many candidates for the same office are having "triumphal processions" around the territory, and as only one or two can act as the office, it is plain that a "triumphal procession" is a very thing and pleasing incident before the very end and very much in the with the aid of the colored woman who sang her song soundly for breaking a pitcher which he had broken. Let the "triumphal procession" proceed. At least some of them will be in line with the final clean up.

PREPARATIONS ON FOR LYNCH CASE

Trial of Alleged Slayer of Roswell Marshall to Open October 9; Plan of Defense Not Known.

Roswell, N. M., Oct. 3.—With the trial of the Lynch case for October 9, legal circles are much interested in the case. Lynch will be tried at Cathlamet, and local interest has focused upon the coming legal battle between the attorneys. Local attorneys for the defense and prosecution started several days ago to map out their campaign in and earnest methods and have already issued subpoenas as witnesses to testify in their behalf. The defenders of Lynch issued twenty-four and the prosecution about the same number.

It will be remembered by all that Lynch is the slayer of Marshal Roy Woodford, having killed Woodford while he (Woodford) was in the act of searching Lynch's premises for liquor. "What do you have your defense upon?" was asked of an attorney for the defense today, to which he replied: "Defending a man for murder is a very serious matter and law, yet never make public what their grounds for defense are to be. I will say, however, that self defense will be fought hard and we will endeavor to prove that Lynch was justified in defending his home."

"First degree murder," continued he, "will be the main issue of the trial, and we expect a most sensational trial."

MANY NEWSPAPER MEN ON JOB IN SANTA FE. Santa Fe, N. M., Oct. 4.—Newspeople from all parts of the state are here in "convoy" the first state Democratic convention for their respective papers. Among those on the job today are: W. C. Laffer, president of the National Democratic League of Ohio; Karl G. Green, editor of the Elks Democratic organization in the state; Col. J. G. BANISHED FOR LIFE FROM BROADWAY IS SENTENCE

If Stephen Seidelmeyer Goes Back to the Bright Lights It Will Mean Five Years in Prison for Him.

New York, Oct. 4.—Fugitive many a New Yorker, it was remarked, would consider worse than exile from the country, was given to Stephen Seidelmeyer, 49 years old, a salesman living in Avonington, N. J., when Judge Swan in the general sessions yesterday sentenced him for life from Broadway. Seidelmeyer was convicted of forging checks for $425. It was when Judge Swan learned most of that money had been scattered about the West, that he sentenced the young man to perpetual banishment from the city's main thoroughfare. Another visit to Broadway, the judge added, will result in five years in Sing Sing for malfeasance.

Sued for Heart Balm at 70. Harry L. Horton, a millionaire lawyer, known as "Uncle Harry" in Wall street because of the long service in various capacities, filed his answer in the supreme court yesterday to a bill for alleged breach of promise to marry Miss Elizabeth P. Berg, who was then 14 years old. He denies the allegations.

Mr. Horton is 70 years of age, and still a vigorous and active member of the stock brokerage firm of H. L. Horton & company. A member of the firm is Russell C. Hill, husband of Edith Harriman. Mr. Horton lives with a married daughter. The identity of Miss Berg was not disclosed. It was learned, however, that she is about 42 years old.

Valuable Grocery Records Burn. Valuable records of the family of Horace Greeley, the editor and reformer, were burned this afternoon when the barn of the late Frank H. Harriman, Mr. Greeley's son-in-law, was destroyed by fire. The loss on the barn was $2,000, but the loss in the family records cannot be estimated.

Belasco Increases Saturday Night Prices. Despite the fact that David Belasco has raised the price of seats in the orchestra of the Republic and Jackson theatres from $2 to $2.50 for Saturday nights, there will be no general advance in prices. The only producer who seems to agree with Mr. Belasco that the time has come to raise prices is Lee Whelan. All the others are opposed to it.

Trains should have been advanced a year or two," declared Mr. Shuford. "The cost of possessing a play has increased almost the percent in the last ten years."

Drunk Banned a Scholar. Magistrate Hanson in the night court today, sentenced a prisoner who had been arraigned before him as a man who had graduated from Dartmouth University, with high honors many years ago, and had for a long time been considered a British authority on Shakespearean literature. The prisoner, known as McGuinness, was charged with disorderly conduct. McGuinness had not been brought to court by a constable, but by a constable to poverty and destitution by disipation. He released him.

"This defendant," said the magistrate, "had one of the brightest futures of any man I ever knew. He had influential friends and held an exalted position, but after his name to America, the temptations, that confronted him were too strong."

DEVELOPMENT OF THE PHILIPPINES. With one exception, it may be said that Philippine development schemes have met with a cold reception from the financial interests of America. The repeated failures in promoting or financing any project for the islands must prove the serious consideration of the Philippine commercial community.

The islands present opportunities for rapid and profitable development unequalled in the world. Rich mineral deposits abound, the forests of valuable hardwoods are inexhaustible, the sugar lands yield a high average, the benevolence in a source of never ending profit, rubber and gutta percha thrive and give handsome returns.

Yet with few exceptions these immense natural resources, after 12 years of American rule, are still worked in the old primitive, wasteful manner which marked the industry of a century ago. It is a severe criticism and reflection on American energy which permits such untold wealth to remain undeveloped and is a striking contrast to American enterprise in Alaska, Hawaii, Porto Rico or Cuba and to the methods of Europeans in neighboring countries.

Java is a tropical paradise and yields immense wealth to the Dutch investors. Borneo is forging ahead and many large enterprises are in successful operation. The story of the industrial development of the Federated Malay states reads like a chapter from a romance in the Arabian Nights and rubber kings have supplemented the old-time tin millions.

Sumatra is famous the world over for its clear wrappers, and tobacco plantations have spread to neighboring isles. Petroleum abounds and even Shanghai has its quota of millionaires, made rich over night, as it were, by the marvelous wells. Indo-China is the rice granary of the Orient, and exports its products to the Philippines, and Formosa, under Japanese rule, contending with adverse climatic conditions, has developed a modern sugar industry which shames the Philippines and bids fair in time to rival Java.

Not one of these countries can compare in natural gifts with the Philippines, yet they progress and prosper, while the islands fail to keep pace with the present. It is time for those who have cast their lot with the islands to face the problem, seriously consider the question and try to overcome the difficulties surrounding the investment of American capital in the Philippines and direct the stream which flows so freely into other territorial possessions.—Journal of the American Asiatic Association.
