SUNBEAMS.

Question before the House—Mose Johnson (of the club)—I say, fellows; let's get up a football team. We've all got big feet and could put up a powerful strong game. Sporty Jackson (desistively)—Talk a reef, dar, niggah; talk a reef. How's we gwine to grow long hair?

Mrs. W. B. Meek, who resides at Camp-tonville, Cal., says her daughter was for several years troubled at times with severe cramps in the stomach, and would be in such agony that it was necessary to call in a physician. Having read about Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy she concluded to try it. She found that it always gave prompt relief. It was seldom necessary to give the second dose. "It has not only saved us lots of worry and time," she says, "but also doctor bill. It is my opinion that every family should have a bottle of this remedy in the house." For sale by Ireland's Pharmacy.

Clerk—Here's another big batch of complaints. Manager—What's the matter? Don't the people like the soap? Clerk—Oh, yes; they say the soap is all right, but they don't think the poetry is up to the standard.

Sore throat. Any ordinary case may be cured in one night by applying Chamberlain's Pain Balm as directed with each bottle. This medicine is also famous for its cures of rheumatism, lame back and deep-seated and muscular pains. For sale by Ireland's Pharmacy.

When a lot of people there were at the World's Fair last week—and yet how dull it was! Yes, dear. But it was much brighter after you left.

This is the day of anti-thing, and anti-thing, but what people need most nowadays is the anti-billions medicine, Simmons Liver Regulator, the king of liver medicines, and better than pills. "I have used no other anti-billions remedy for six years and know from experience that for ladies of a constipated habit nothing equals it."—Laura V. Craig, Ellenbury, Fla.

The wife—Two weeks ago you said my husband couldn't live and now he's nearly well. The doctor—Madam, I can only express my regrets.

De Witt's Sarsaparilla is prepared for cleansing the blood. It builds up and strengthens constitutions impaired by disease. Newton's drug store.

How intense are the fires of love! ejaculated the poet. Yes, answered the father of six marriageable daughters; but they do take on awful lot o' coal.

Pure blood means good health. De Witt's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, cures eruptions, eczema, scurf and all diseases arising from impure blood. Newton's drug store.

George—You would marry the biggest fool in the world if he asked you, wouldn't you? Ethel—Oh, George, that is so sudden.

Acts at once, never fails. One Minute Cough Cure. A remedy for asthma, and that feverish condition which accompanies a severe cold. The only harmless remedy that produces immediate results. Newton's drug store.

Let dogs delight to bark and bite—We never will do so; We'll just converse both day and night—We're pugilists, you know.

Messrs. C. F. Moore & Co., Newberg, Ore., say: "We sell more of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy than all others put together, and it always gives satisfaction." Mr. J. E. Allen, Fox, Ore., says: "I believe Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to be the best I have handled." Mr. W. H. Hitecock, Columbus, Wash., says: "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy sells well and is highly praised by all who use it." For sale by Ireland's Pharmacy.

A LOTTERY WRECK.

In the insane asylum at — there is a white haired old man whose story interests every visitor.

When I saw him, he was sitting in the library at a desk apparently engaged in a laborious mathematical calculation.

He covered sheet after sheet with figures and occasionally paused to gaze at his work with intense interest.

The busy worker was neatly attired in black, and his serene and intellectual face bore not the slightest trace of insanity.

The superintendent who accompanied me picked up a sheet of paper and called my attention to it. On every line appeared the figures 7,7,77.

"Every sheet is like that," he said. "The old man does nothing else all day long."

"What do these figures mean?" I asked as the suggestion of my companion.

"It is the number of my lottery ticket," was the ready answer. "No, 7,7,77, for the lottery has drawn the capital prize of $100,000, and the money will be here tomorrow."

Then the poor fellow smiled, and a joyful light came into his eyes.

"It will make me the happiest man in the world," he said. "Not that I care for it myself, but I have made a present of the ticket to my wife, and she needs the money."

"You are very fortunate," I replied, "in getting the ticket with the winning number."

"Yes, and I dreamed it," was the response. "The number came to me in my dreams three successive nights, and so I bought the ticket. My wife laughed at me, but it drew the prize, and when it comes tomorrow I am going to give it to her in 100,000 bills."

He bent over the table and began figuring again in his slow and methodical way. "A strange delusion," I said to the superintendent. "Has it any foundation?"

"It is a very sad story," replied the official. "The old man has been here 80 years, and during all that time he has talked of nothing but his prize and the happiness it will bring to his wife."

"His name is Colonel S—, and he came from one of our upper counties. He had a small estate and a wife with very large ideas."

"The colonel's house would have supported the two comfortably but for the fact that his wife was a high spirited woman who was always making extravagant demands. She squandered his money, forced him to mortgage his plantation and then made him borrow large sums right and left."

"At last the colonel could borrow no longer, and his creditors began to press him. This made his wife furious, and she stormed and raged at him and told him that he must provide her with funds."

"Her husband bore it all patiently, but he was driven nearly crazy by his creditors and his nagging wife. One night he dreamed that he had purchased No. 7,7,77 ticket, and that it was the winning ticket. He had the same dream three times that night, and the next day he went to the city and bought the ticket."

"His wife scolded him for his folly, and in her angry mood she threatened to destroy the ticket. The colonel knew that she was the woman to do such a thing, and he concealed the precious bit of paper and waited for the next monthly drawing."

"Matters grew worse, and the two were hardly on speaking terms. One Saturday the colonel went to the postoffice and came back at breakneck speed, spurting his horse all the way. He rushed into the house and throwing his arms around his wife's neck told her that they were saved and that his ticket had drawn the prize."

"The woman turned pale and gasped for breath. Her husband showed her the official list of the drawing and shouted for joy. But not a word came from his wife. A hopeless look of despair came over her face, and for the first time she was afraid to meet the eyes of the man who stood by her side."

"A terrible thought flashed through the colonel's mind, and without a word he hurried to the secret place where he had concealed the ticket."

"It was gone. The beautiful figure whose greed and temper had wrecked his life had carried out her threat. She had found the ticket and destroyed it. There was no doubt of that, for she was the only one in the house with the exception of her husband who had access to the room where the paper had been deposited."

"When the colonel returned to his wife's room, she threw herself on her knees at his feet. She wept and kissed his hands and refused to be comforted. The colonel knew that the case was hopeless, for the Havana lottery always required the ticket itself and no tale about its destruction would do any good. He helped his wife to her feet and kissed her, and told her that it was all right, they would make a new start and get along somehow."

"But the woman had made up her mind. She tore herself away from her loyal, patient victim and went into another room, locking the door behind her. The report of a pistol told what had occurred, and when the colonel broke open the door he found his wife dead, with a bullet through her heart."

"The neighbors found him sitting by the body, and when they asked about his prize. His reason had deserted him, and since that day he has been just as you see him now. He believes that his wife is living, and his entire time is spent in devising plans for her comfort and pleasure."

"Will he ever recover?" I asked the superintendent.

"Never. He has been in this condition 80 years and is now 65 years old. It is best for him to remain as he is. If he should regain his reason, nothing but sorrow would come with it."

I walked back to the table and found the colonel covering another sheet of paper with the figures 7,7,77.

When Sawney died, his widow's face gleamed through her tears as she remarked: "There's one satisfaction in the thought that poor Jim has gone where he won't have to get up in the morning to make a fare. That's something he never could abide."—Boston Transcript.

Harlo—Why does Marie still continue to look under the bed every night? Adelaide—She is one of the kind that never gives up hope.—Toledo Blade.

"Has Clara taken to wearing bicycle bloomers yet, Jennie?" "No, not yet. I don't believe she will either. Do you, Mame?" "No. Those sawdust leggings they sell are so unreliable."—New York Recorder.

"I'd like to sell you a good wheel—only been used a month, 1895 model, pneumatic tires." "No use to try. I've got a pneumatic pocketbook."—Indianapolis Journal.

Superintendent of Insane Asylum—What's that woman howling about? Attendant—She doesn't like her straitjacket. "Does she want it taken off?" "Yes. She wants one with puffed sleeves."—Tit-Bits.

All Arranged. "You ask me to marry you, George?" she said slowly. "Do you know that I am rich?" "Yes." "In my own right?" "Yes." "And that you will have to come to me for money?" "Yes." "Even for a cab fare?" "Yes." "And that you may have to walk in pleasant weather?" "Yes." "And you are willing to marry me and take the chances?" "Yes."

"Then I am yours, George, and I hope you may be happy."—Household Words.

A Frank Critic. Artist—There, sir, is my latest picture. Ingenious Friend—Well, you haven't accounted for it, have you? What do you call it anyway? Artist—What do I call it? Why, sir, that is an autumn sunset. Ingenious Friend—You don't say so! Well, I don't blame the sun at all for setting.—Richmond Dispatch.

Incredible. "I understand that the railroad companies are making great preparations for carrying bicycles next summer." "Yes, wheelmen are beginning to get their rights. Why, I know of one road this year that actually refused to allow more than two trucks to be put on top of one wheel."—Brooklyn Life.

Pleased Her. He tumbled from his very wheel And set it by the door, Then stood as though he joyed to feel His feet on earth once more; And as he mopped his rumpled head His face was wreathed in smiles, "A very pretty run," he said, "I did a hundred miles!"

"A hundred miles!" I cried. "Ah, thank what beauties you have seen! The rosy streams where cattle drink, The meadows rich and green, Where did you spend your rapid way— Through lofty woodland aisles?" He shook his head. "I cannot say, I did a hundred miles!"

"What handle saw your swift tires spin? Ah, how I envy you! To kiss the city's dust and din, Beneath the heaven's blue, To get a breath of country air, To lean 'er rustic stile!" He only said, "The roads were fair: I did a hundred miles!"—Chicago Tribune.

BETTER THAN DIAMONDS.

Good health is better than diamonds. Health is life. No pleasure can be taken without it. It is the most precious thing in the world, and many people are careless about it. They neglect their little ailments—they ignore nature's danger signals and run right onto the rocks of disease. All diseases have insignificant beginnings. Consumption is but the fruit of neglected catarrh. A slight cold develops into pneumonia or bronchitis. A little indigestion grows into "liver complaint."

The best way to cure a disease is to prevent it. The next best way is to catch it before it develops to its worst stage.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a medicine for the whole body. It searches out the weak spots and builds them up. It is a strengthener, a purifier and a cure. It puts the digestive system on its active, healthy condition, purifies and enriches the blood and forces out all poisonous matter. Taken in time, it will cure 98 per cent of all cases of consumption. It is a purely vegetable compound that works in perfect harmony with nature. It tones up the whole body and produces strong, hard, healthy flesh. It has cured hundreds of cases of consumption, bronchitis, asthma, chronic nasal catarrh and kindred maladies, which had withstood the effect of every other medicine.

A large number of testimonials and photographs of those cured have been printed in the "Medical Adviser," 1000 pages 30 illustrations, sent for twenty-one cents (in stamps), to cover postage and wrapping. Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

Cora—Do the young men ever kiss you against your will? Florence—Yes. I got tired of the old way.

It is a truth in medicine that the smallest dose that performs a cure is the best. De Witt's Little Early Risers are the smallest pills, will perform a cure, and are the best. Newton's drug store.
