SUNBEAMS.

Did you know, asked the philological crank, that the word idiot originally meant the common man as distinguished from the office-holder?

You needn't give it away that I said so, said the Congressman, but it has pretty much the same meaning yet.

A. E. Kilpatrick, of Filmore, Cal., had the misfortune to have his leg caught between a cart and a stone and badly bruised. Ordinarily he would have been laid up for two or three weeks, but says: "After using one bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm I began to feel better, and in three days was entirely well. The peculiar soothing qualities which Chamberlain's Pain Balm possesses I have never noticed in any other liniment. I take pleasure in recommending it." This liniment is also of great value for rheumatism and lame back. For sale by A. C. Ireland, jr.

Mamma, said the little girl at the flower show who had absorbed during the evening a glass of lemonade, a quantity of cider and some grape juice, I wish you would buy me a drink of water. I want something to unthirst me.

Geo. W. Jenkins, editor of the Santa Maria "Times," Cal., in speaking of the various ailments of children said: "When my children have croup there is only one patent medicine that I ever use, and that is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It possesses some medical properties that relieve the little sufferers immediately. It is, in my opinion, the best cough medicine in the market." If this remedy is freely given as soon as the croupy cough appears it will prevent the attack. It is also an ideal remedy for whooping cough. There is no danger in giving it to children, as it contains nothing injurious. For sale by A. C. Ireland, jr.

Will: If you are so much in love with that little angel, why don't you propose to her?

Gus (moodily): I have seen both her father and mother and I can't be sure that she won't grow to look like one or the other of them.

The popularity of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and the high esteem in which it is held leads us to believe it to be an article of great worth and merit. We have the pleasure of giving the experience of three prominent citizens of Redondo Beach, Cal., in the use of the remedy. Mr. A. V. Trudell says: "I have always received prompt relief when I used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy." Mr. James Orchard says: "I am satisfied that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy cured my cold." Mr. J. M. Hatcher says: "For three years I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in my family and its results have always been satisfactory." For sale by A. C. Ireland, jr.

Teacher of a Class in Civil Government: Of how many bodies is Congress composed?

Two.

What are these bodies called?

The House of Representatives and—hesitating—and the House of Correction.

Economy is something that everybody tries to practice, and yet just a little oversight will sometimes rob the most frugal and thrifty family of a year's savings. You want to do as J. P. Hickman, of Monticello, Ga., did. He writes: "For six years I have kept Simmons Liver Regulator in my house and used it in my family and have had no need for a doctor. I have five as healthy children as you can find."

Romantic Miss: Have there not been moments in your experience when life seemed full of unsatisfied wants?

Mr. Hardhead: Y-e-s: that's, so. At such times I always fly to music for relief. What do you do, Mr. Hardhead?

I advertise.

No excuse for sleepless nights when you can procure One Minute Cough Cure. This will relieve all annoyances, cure the most severe cough and give you rest and health. Can you afford to do without it? Newton's drug store.

Johnny: What's the difference between a visit and a visitation?

Pa: A visit, my son, is when we go to see your grandmother on your mother's side.

Yes.

A visitation is when she comes to see us.

THREE CLASSES OF MEN

is the title of a neat illustrated volume I have just issued for men. It gives in plain language the effects following youthful indiscretions and latter excesses as Seminal Weakness, Impotency, Drains and Losses, Varicocele, Atrophy or undevelopment, and points out an easy and sure treatment and cure at home WITHOUT DRUGS OR MEDICINES. It also explains the cause and cure of Rheumatism, Sciatica, Lumbago, Kidney Complaints, etc., without medicine. It is in fact a truthful resume of my thirty years' wonderful success in the curing of these cases and every young, middle-aged or old man suffering the slightest weakness should read it and know just where he stands. It is sent free, sealed, by mail upon request.

THE SLEEPING KINGS.

The breath that swelled the bugle blast
Or woke the warcry's stormy thrill,
Though cold the breasts it kindled last
Is heard in freedom's anthems still.

Our sacred slain! In death they won
A cause whose justice never dies;
And all our land from sun to sun
Is radiant with their sacrifice.

First heroes of a final strife,
The proud degrees of fame they fill;
Ennobled from the files of life
To kings by right of brave good will.

Each rules in sleep a conquered realm.
We ask not here what pillowed head
Wore corded hat or feathered helm.
They all are crowned among the dead.

We own our sway, our homage decks
With offerings sweet their chambers green,
Their scepters touch our reverent necks
As round their silent thrones we lean.

No tears for them. Imperial yet
Their honors bloom with rich increase;
And all a nation's love is set
To guard their palaces of peace.

Bring tribute to their perished prime,
Their country's loss, our freedom's gain;
And, wreathed with fairest flowers of time,
In glory let them rest and reign.
—Theron Brown in Youth's Companion.

A HAUNTED BICYCLE.

"Yes, sir, that bicycle's haunted, and that's all there is to it. I don't know a thing about spirits and things like that, but if you ever catch me riding that wheel after midnight I won't know it."

Thus did George Springwell vehemently declare that the supernatural had taken hold of his bicycle. The tale that Springwell tells is certainly a queer one, and one that is apparently vouched for by a number of his friends. They declare that any one riding the wheel after 12:30 o'clock on any night will wish he hadn't. The sensations experienced by such a rider are described as startling in the extreme and accompanied by manifestations that are of the hair raising variety.

Springwell lives in a modest little house on Lombard street, and is a clerk in one of the large dry goods houses. He came to Buffalo last July from New York and just before he left the metropolis he bought a secondhand bicycle from a reputable dealer. This he took to Buffalo and has ridden it steadily to and from his place of business. He is not what would be called a bicycle crank, using the machine merely as a means of locomotion between his house and the store. It was only a few weeks ago that he was aware of the supernatural qualities of the wheel, and this he discovered in a startling manner. He was accustomed to leave the wheel in a small room in the rear of the kitchen every night. One day he bought a cyclometer, and with the aid of the instrument he found that the wheel was haunted.

He took careful note of the miles registered on the little machine and soon began to see that there were small discrepancies, periods of exactly three miles, for which he could not account. Every night as he looked at the cyclometer he took careful note of the amount registered, and every morning it was just three miles more. This bothered him considerably, but he dismissed everything with the thought that the instrument was defective in some way or other.

But a few weeks ago he rode out into the country for the first time in the evening. He took a trip to the Falls, spent the evening there and wheeled home in company with a friend. He reached Tonawanda about 11 o'clock, and waited there till midnight. Then he slowly pedaled over the brick boulevard toward home. He was somewhat tired, and his friend, a man named Zeiler, being more of a wheelman, was about a sixteenth of a mile ahead. Just as Springwell reached the clump of trees on this side of Kenmore he began to experience what, if his story is true, is something distinctly marvelous.

He declares that as he was riding along moderately he struck a chill blast of air. This was on an August night, and he could not account for the extreme cold. Then something began to work in his throat. Before he was aware he was a prey to a most horrible and vague fear—horrible because of its vagueness. Something terrible he felt was about to happen. He glanced from right to left. Nothing could be seen or heard. He thought he would call to his friend ahead, but felt powerless.

Then, as he was riding, a powerful something seemed to suddenly wrap itself about him. He could feel cold hands suddenly seize his hands as they guided the machine, and he could not release them from the iron grip. He knew that he was in the power of some supernatural monster and that the machine had passed from his control. He wavered from side to side. The wheel described curious curves and he thought for a minute he was going to be thrown to the ground. All this time he did not have any control of the wheel. He tugged with all his force at the handle bars, but this did not deviate the wheel from its path a single inch.

Terrified beyond description, he could not shout. He felt a sickening sensation sweep through him. He felt that something immeasurably monstrous had complete control of every action. Of a sudden the pedals began to revolve with a rapidity that he declares was nothing short of marvelous. He flew up the stretch that intervened between him and his friend with inconceivable rapidity, some unknown power having its ghostly feet on the pedals. On he flew. His friend was passed as though he were standing still. He tried to cry out as he passed him, but could not.

On into the gloom beyond till the city line was reached, then on again over the asphalt. The long stretch of smooth pavement flew from under him. He jumped car tracks, hardly feeling them as he passed. Under the white glare of the electric lights he passed with his demon companion. He could feel that the ghostly rider behind him was panting under the exertion. He could feel a clammy breath on the back of his neck that sent terrible shivers through his whole body.

Springwell declares with an expression that is indubitable evidence of his honesty that he will never forget this awful ride till the last moment of his life. The sensation accompanying this mad flight he says he is powerless to describe. There was not only the horrible thought that he was in the power of the supernatural, but other emotions that he says no language can ever portray were concomitant. His very soul was swayed by their intensity and seemed to be in a shadow of something inexpressibly terrorsome and ghoulish.

On he flew, and he could make out a shadowy something dancing before him, something vague of outline and white in color. It danced now here, now there, and he felt rather than saw that it was mocking him. On in the leadership of this phantom he flew. He crossed the Belt line tracks with a bound, then felt he was slowing up. But still he kept on until the curve that Delaware avenue takes before it reaches the culvert where the Park road passes over it. Ahead he could see the white shimmer of an electric light illuminating its dazzling circle beneath it. He felt the icy hands that had never relaxed their pressure from the moment he had first felt them loosen a bit of their grip.

He was regaining control. But the machine seemed to be dragging something behind it. He felt he could now turn and see the ghostly monster behind him. He craned his head a bit, and at that moment he felt a terrible blow over the head. Stunned, he dropped from his wheel and lay on the pavement. He describes the half glimpse of the thing behind him as something too inexpressibly monstrous to attempt to portray.

He lay on the pavement for some five minutes, when Zeiler came up. He was riding like mad. Zeiler stopped when he saw his friend and helped him to his feet. When Springwell told his story, at first Zeiler thought he was joking, but he was finally convinced from the look of abject terror in Springwell's face. They revisited the place next day, Springwell unstrung and hardly able to wheel. From the spot where he first felt the power of the something to where he was hit is exactly three miles and a few rods over.

Springwell wrote to the man from whom he bought the wheel, and he received an answer that is certainly queer. The dealer said that a man brought the wheel in in good shape and asked a very small price for it, and that he, the dealer, thinking it had been stolen, would not buy it. The man swore it had not been stolen, and offered to let it remain there until he was satisfied. He had kept it through the winter and never a sign of any claimant; hence he had sold it.

Springwell is at a loss to account for the strange occurrence. He is utterly unable to say what could have been the cause, save on the hypothesis that some man was murdered while on it, and that it has thus become haunted. However that may be, the fact remains that the cyclometer registers of its own accord a little over three miles every night.—Buffalo Express.

Mystic Attributes of Number Nine.

It is by nines that eastern presents are given when made on a scale of great magnificence. "To the nines" expresses a state of perfection, as "dressed up to the nines." Chaucer, Haywood and Shakespeare speak of a nine days' wonder; a cat has nine lives; a tailor is the ninth part of a man; Shakespeare makes Hotspur cavil on the ninth part of a hair; it was a number of magical power dear to witches, as we read in "Macbeth;" Shakespeare again has the "Nine Sibyls of Old Rome;" we have the games of nine men's morris and ninepins; the butcher bird is called the nine killer, from its habit of impaling nine of the animals on which it feeds before it begins its meal; the nine of diamonds is called the curse of Scotland; there were nine muses, nine planets; nine orders of angels—angels, archangels, virtues, powers, principalities, dominions, thrones, cherubim, seraphim; the Etruscans had nine gods, who alone had the power of hurling thunderbolts; the Novensiles were the nine Sabine gods the novendial ashes were the ashes of the dead buried on the ninth day; the nine worthies were Hector, Alexander, Julius Cæsar, Joshua, David, Judas, Maccabæus, Arthur, Charlemagne and Godfrey of Bouillon; there were, too, nine worthies of London, whose chronicles were written by R. Johnson in the sixteenth century; every ninth wave, as Tennyson sings, is said to be the largest, and last, not least, possession is nine points of the law. Pythagoras made three the perfect number; nine was consecrated by Buddhism and is revered by the Moguls and Chinese.—Westminster Gazette.

Leather Covered Pianos.

A decided novelty in the way of piano casing—the invention of a Milwaukee music dealer—is on exhibition in the University building, Broadway. After several years of study and experiment the inventor hit upon leather as the most attractive as well as the most durable article for incasing pianos. The instrument was built in Buffalo. The color of the leather selected for the first specimen instrument was a rich black, handsomely embossed, giving the impression of exquisite carving. Not only does the instrument thus incased present a most attractive and dignified appearance, but it has the advantage of being something in finish that cannot be marred or spotted.—Milwaukee Wisconsin.

Agrippina and Nero.

The mother of Nero, the infamous Agrippina, was one of the most vicious women of any age or country. The character of her son was the product of her early, careful and systematic training in all kinds of vice. He was just as much an example of the power of education as the most noted of reformers, the difference being in the quality of the education.

If a flowering plant does not blossom, there's little beauty in it. If it is sick and faded and withered and lifeless, nobody cares for it. It falls short of its object in being. It is incomplete—unfinished.

Times without number women have been likened to flowers—and rightly. But what of her whose physical condition corresponds with the blossomless plant? What of the woman whom weakness has made not wholly and wholesomely a woman? Many things lead to derangement of a woman's delicate organism. It may be due to carelessness. It may be due to ignorance fostered by mistaken parents on the plea of preserving modesty.

It may result from improper treatment of some minor trouble. Whatever sickness a woman has, it seems always to affect the organs which make her a woman and these in turn work upon all the rest. There is much insanity among women. It is really surprising that there is not more.

The troubles peculiar to their sex work strongly on the nerves. They drag upon the most delicate nerves in the body and the inflammation always present causes a debilitating drain that will enervate the most robust.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has brought comfort and health to thousands of suffering women. For many years, Dr. Pierce has been Chief Consulting Physician at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute at Buffalo, N. Y. He has used the "Favorite Prescription" all the time, with uniform success. With it, there is no need of the commonly insisted upon distressing examinations and "local treatment." Twenty-one cents sent to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y., will bring a doctor book of 1000 pages.

But why, they asked him, why should you be so hated of your fellows? Even the baseball umpire attains some recognition as human after frost.

I ain't a baseball umpire, moaned the unhappy one. I am one of those people who learns a popular song after it is almost forgotten.

One Minute Cough Cure is rightly named. It affords instant relief from suffering when afflicted with a severe cough or cold. It acts on the throat, bronchial tubes, and lungs and never fails to give immediate relief. Newton's drug store.

Oh, doctor, said the mother, I'm glad you've come! We have just had such a scare! We thought at first that Tommy had swallowed a half sovereign.

And you found out that he hadn't? replied the doctor.

Yes; it was only a half penny.
