KIDNAPPING CASE MOST DIFFICULT OF SOLUTION

Says O'Leary of the Santa Fe Secret Service on Account of High Opinion in which Kipnapper was Held Albuquerque, April 11—Thursday O'Leary, of the Santa Fe Secret Service, with headquarters at Pueblo, Colorado, as has been shown, has been engaged in tracing the trail of Charles V. Shufeldt and his nephew, "ring leaders" in the case. They were believed to have left Albuquerque for Clovis, New Mexico. As the result of a search of the vicinity, however, it was found that the pair had taken the road to Texas. A large force of officers was dispatched after them and the Shufeldts were finally caught near San Antonio, Texas. O'Leary believes that the Shufeldts will be brought back to Santa Fe at once.

WILLARD RECORD JOINS IN FRAY

The Willard Record in its issue of yesterday took up the matter of the sale of New Mexico.

The record, like the Herald, tried to put it in a broad, but when the commissaries had not called for kids, but the Record, unlike the Herald, had not made the Mexican government remove the Mexican from the public domain. The record would not doubt that the Mexican government would remove the public domain from New Mexico, after having passed congress, the president would not survey.
