

THE ANTI-LIQUOR CONVENTION IN JULY

Prohibitionists Have Learned Political Wisdom and Will Meet Later Than Usual.

Washington, April 1.—The national prohibition convention will be held at Memorial hall, Columbus, O., July 15. It is a late date and was chosen deliberately that the prohibitionists might take advantage of any mistakes made by the other parties at their conventions.

This strategy, of course, and another sign that the prohibitionists have cut their political eye-teeth. Anyway, they believe that they have framed up a program along practical lines, and that they are going to cut a wide swath this year. There will be less preaching than in the past and more aggressive attacks on the cohorts of the rum demon. Officers who in the past have been shy enough to get both the wet and dry votes will be forced into the open.

A sample of the new style of campaigning was afforded by the action of the national prohibition committee in sending a couple of men here this winter to build a fire under Congress. Matthew E. O'Brien, chief fire builder, through his persistent demand for liquor legislation and that congressmen go on record as driving representatives of semi-dry districts to drink and despair. They would be much obliged if he would go to Devil's Island for a change, but he seems to like Washington, and whenever an opportunity to make trouble is presented, he is on the spot, smiling, acute and persistent.

O'Brien is just a sample copy. Encouraged by the wide spread of the whisky drought, especially in the south, the prohibitionists figure on getting political sense into their nominations and methods and on getting big results.

The call for the national convention contains the declaration that the "prohibition of the manufacture, importation, transportation and sale of alcoholic liquors" is the main question before the people and that there is a fair chance of the present campaign "sounding the death knell of this destructive traffic."

There will be at the convention four delegates-at-large from each state and one delegate for every 200 votes cast for Dr. Silas C. Swallow, the prohibitionist candidate in 1904. The vote for Swallow was 258,338; so there will be about 1500 votes in the convention.

Recently the prohibition leaders predicted that 1,000,000 votes would be cast for their candidates next fall. Now they say, the number may go to 2,000,000, unless the conventions of the old parties take action.

SALVATION ARMY ISSUES AN APPEAL

Wants to Establish Free Dinner Feature in Albuquerque.

The Salvation Army has issued an appeal to the public, asking for assistance not only in providing clothing, fuel and food for destitute families, but for the purpose of establishing a free dinner feature in this city. During March, according to an official, the local corps fed forty people, providing 100 meals, beds for thirty and garments, including shoes, underwear and clothing of all descriptions to the number of 130.

The army wants to do more work in Albuquerque and to this end asks the public to donate money or supplies that can be used in the relief of the poor. Telephone 1142.

During the week from April 19 the army all over the United States, will hold special meetings. The annual report of the organization in this country shows the following statistics: Christmas dinners given, 300,000; Thanksgiving dinners, 9,650; tons of coal, 7,434; pounds of ice, 259,039; number of persons offered relief outside of industrial homes and army hotels, 79,926.

NOT THE ONLY ONE.

There Are Hundreds of Albuquerque People Similarly Situated.

Can there be any stronger proof offered than the evidence of Albuquerque residents? After you have read the following, quietly answer the question.

Mrs. E. Adair, of 817 South Edith St., Albuquerque, N. M., says: "Whenever any symptoms indicated kidney trouble or not, I was not certain, but nevertheless, I bought a box of Doan's Kidney Pills. I was given a desire to try them. I suffered severely from pain between and just below the shoulder blades. While on my feet, I was stirring around, I did not feel the slightest inconvenience, but when I would sit down the pain would come. Half and at times was very severe. The use of one box of Doan's Kidney Pills brought a relief and that was my having a high appreciation of this medicine."

For sale by all dealers. Price, 50c. Doan's Kidney Pills, N. Y. City, U. S. A. Remember the name—Doan's—on the wrapper.

PRIEST IS ELK RULER.

New York, April 1.—The Rev. Father W. L. Deany of the Catholic church, chaplain with Admiral Dewey at Manila, was elected exalted ruler of the New York Lodge of Elks after a warmly contested election. Father Deany formerly lived in Detroit.

COUNTRY NEEDS QUIET AND REST

Wall Street Outlook Is For Decided Improvement in All Lines of Business.

New York, April 1.—Events of the past week have been of a more encouraging character, especially those relating to federal and state legislation. Perhaps the most far-reaching of these events was the decision of the supreme court of the United States in the celebrated Minnesota and South Carolina railroad rate cases. This decision asserts that the fixing of rates by legislation so low as to be practically confiscatory is in direct violation of the constitution, since the latter prohibits any legislation which takes property without just compensation. Hereafter, there will be no successful attempts by state legislation to nullify the guarantees of the fourteenth amendment and federal courts will be enabled to enforce their decrees in spite of the opposition of state officers. As already said, this is a decision of the highest importance. It once more affirms the fact that the constitution of the United States is the supreme law of the land; it guarantees protection to property, and will put an effectual stoppage upon the confiscatory attacks on property which have become so popular in state legislatures for political or socialist purposes.

Another favorable incident was the temperate character of the president's message. However the various recommendations in that message may be considered, there will be one opinion as to the wisdom of a calm and dispassionate presentation of administrative views upon public questions. In this respect the president's last message should be an example to other individuals who are taking leading parts in the present political campaign. The time for excessive denunciation and exhortation has passed. The country has had more than enough of that sort of political agitation; it now needs quiet and rest in order that business may recover from the panic and that the reforms which have been so earnestly pressed may be calmly considered, and if necessary put into effect after well considered and deliberate debate. The president is to be strongly commended for his judicial attitude toward both capital and labor. He insists that both shall have their rights; that both shall be equal before the law, and that neither shall claim any special exemption and privilege. He also notifies labor that it cannot expect to have boycotts or blacklists legalized. Altogether the president's message has done much toward soothing irritated nerves and softening the asperities of the political campaign. Incidentally, he has materially improved the chances of Republican success at the polls next November.

Quite recently the Sherman Anti-Trust law has been a subject of active discussion. Its original crudity in prohibiting all contracts in restraint of trade has long been self-evident. Both capital and labor are interested in having the act so amended as to permit the ordinary combinations of the day, which are inseparable from modern business methods. The Hepburn act is an absurd complex and effusive attempt to amend the Sherman law. Everything it attempts could be accomplished by suitable introduction of the word "unreasonable." So long as contracts are reasonable in their restraints and are not against the interest of all concerned, they should be permitted; and in case of disputes the courts may easily be called upon to decide between reasonable and unreasonable contracts. There still remains the common law, the application of which when invoked should be sufficient to protect both capital and labor from improper encroachment or interference. The Hepburn bill should be coming spring. April settlements will be looked forward to with some concern, but less so this year than previously. A good many maturities, however, will have to be taken care of at that time; yet under improved monetary conditions all business concerns showing a clean bill of health will have little difficulty in securing needed accommodations. The conservative action of the banks during the last three months has had much to do with strengthening the situation, and it is gratifying to note that business failures, heavy as they have been, are less than at one time feared. The readjustment process is incomplete, consequently some industries are much more depressed than others. Nevertheless, it is reasonable to hope that the extreme depression following the panic will disappear sooner than expected. We are promised an early spring and as there has been an abundance of moisture during the past month, conditions are favorable for a good planting season. Our agricultural classes felt the panic but slightly, and in all probability they will have another profitable season because of the relative scarcity of agricultural products. Of the things which grow from Mother Earth, there is scarcely an important surplus to be found anywhere.

Put This Stove in Your Kitchen

It is wonderfully convenient to do kitchen work on a stove that's ready at the instant wanted, and out of the way the moment you're done. Such a stove is the New Perfection Wick Blue Flame Oil Cook-Stove. By using it you avoid the continuous overpowering heat of a coal fire and cook with comfort, even in dog-days. The is so constructed that it cannot add perceptibly to the heat of a room; the flame being directed up a retaining chimney to the stove top where it is needed for cooking. You can see that a stove sending out heat in but one direction would be preferable on a hot day to a stove radiating heat in all directions. The "New Perfection" keeps a kitchen uniformly comfortable. Three sizes, fully warranted. If not with your dealer, write our nearest agency.

Operations in the stock market should be conducted with much conservatism. The conditions to which we have referred, it is true, are generally favorable, but they have frequently been fully discounted. We advise caution on the buying side, after the recent considerable advance, and the taking of some profits gradually hereafter. Any unfavorable developments would probably be followed by free realizations and sharp declines.

Death Was On His Heels.

Jesse P. Morris, of Skippers, Va., had a close call in the spring of 1906. He says: "An attack of pneumonia left me so weak and with such a fearful cough that my friends declared consumption had me, and death was on my heels. Then I was persuaded to try Dr. King's New Discovery. It helped me immediately and after taking two and a half bottles I was a well man again. I found out that New Discovery is the best remedy for coughs and lung disease in all the world." Sold under guarantee at all dealers. 50c and $1. Trial bottle free.
