IMPORTANT CASE AT ALAMOGORDO

Alamogordo, N. M., Nov. 4.—The grand jury made its report to the court Saturday night and at 10 o'clock was discharged by the presiding judge, Hon. E. L. Medler. The grand jury was in session five days and investigated 35 cases, returning 19 true bills and 12 no true bills, after having examined 92 witnesses. Several of the cases investigated were reported in the court in the form of resolutions and special recommendations. W. N. Plock, of Orogrande, was the foreman of this grand jury which transacted so much business in such a short time. Judge Medler, in discharging the grand jury, expressed the thanks of the court for the diligent and efficient work.

The Major Case.
 The case of the state versus Hal H. Major, under an indictment alleging the murder of his daughter, H. Eudora Major, will not be tried at this term of court. The defense announced its readiness to proceed to trial when the arraignment was made, but the state is not ready for trial, and probably will not be ready for several weeks yet. It is likely that the trial will be conducted at an adjourned session as soon as the state is ready, probably some time in December. Motion has been made by counsel for the defense for bail, but the court has not yet ruled on this motion. Judge Edward A. Mann, of Albuquerque, is chief of counsel for the defense.

There is no reasonable ground for the statement that a second indictment against Hal H. Major has been returned. The grand jury did not report to the court until 10 o'clock Saturday night, and no arraignments were made at that time, court adjourning immediately after the discharge of the grand jury. The indictments which were reported at that time were not made public.

The trial of this case, which likely will be commenced about the middle of December, must necessarily attract the most widespread attention, by reason of the prominence of the defendant and the extraordinary nature of the charges. In the discussion of such cases, rumors and suspicions frequently are repeated as facts, and sometimes these rumors and suspicions get into the public prints as facts. The defendant was arrested at his home on Sunday night, October 26. The arrest was made upon a bench warrant which issued upon information sworn to by Fred Fornoff, captain of the New Mexico mounted police, and approved by H. B. Hamilton, district attorney. Immediately after the arrest was made, statements which are not borne out by the facts, were made in the newspapers.

One of these statements was that the daughter, H. Eudora, whose death is the basis of the indictment, died only three months after the death of her mother, Christine. It is a matter of record that the mother, Christine, died on April 9, 1912, and the death of the daughter, H. Eudora, did not occur until December 15, 1912. It was reported that Dr. E. B. Rogers, of El Paso, had conducted a postmortem examination and that before a grand jury he had reported the finding of evidence of poison in the body. Between December 15, 1912, and October 26, 1913, the latter, the date the arrest was made, there was no grand jury in session in Otero county.

More recently, the statement has been published that suicide would be the defense. There has not been the slightest intimation from any reliable source as to what will be the line of defense of counsel for the defense. Your correspondent has talked with Edward A. Mann, chief of counsel and with Mitchell Major, son of the defendant, and neither of them would indicate the course to be pursued by the defense.

WANTED; A HOUSE! NOT A SMELTER SAYS PRINCE

PRESIDENT OF HISTORICAL SOCIETY DOES NOT TAKE KINDLY TO SUGGESTION TO HAVE MINERAL COLLECTION MELTED DOWN; SAYS ITS VALUE IS ITS MASSIVENESS.

WRITES OF THE "ADVERSE INFLUENCES IN SENATE"

Declaring that his appeal to the chamber of commerce was for the purpose of having the mineral collection housed and exhibited; emphasizing that the value of this collection is due to its massiveness and calling attention to the "adverse influences in the senate," which prevented granting an appropriation for the building of a room to take care of the mineral display, former Governor L. Bradford Prince today replies to the report made by a special committee appointed to look into the matter.
 This committee was composed of H. S. Kaune, George W. Prichard and Dr. J. H. Sloan, and was named by President Dorman following an eloquent speech made the chamber of commerce by Governor Prince asking that the chamber of commerce offer a solution of the problem: "What is to be done with the mineral collection now exposed in the old patio of the Palace of the Governors."

The committee reported to the chamber at its meeting October 21 its recommendations, which were to the effect that a part of the mineral collection—the massive parts—should visit a smelter; another part should be sent to the Socorro School of Mines, and some good specimens, weighing pounds instead of tons, should be kept here for exhibition. The reading of the report of the committee was punctuated with staccato notes of laughter.

That Governor Prince is not overwhelmed with delight at the suggestions of the committee is perhaps seen in the following letter, which is self-explanatory:

Mr. Prince's Letter.
 Flushing, N. Y., Oct. 29, 1913.
 G. H. Van Stone, Secretary Chamber of Commerce.

My Dear Sir—I am just in receipt of your favor of October 24th, enclosing a copy of the report of the special committee on the locating and exhibiting of the mineral collection belonging to the Historical Society, which was appointed at my request a few weeks ago. We are certainly obliged to the chamber of commerce and its committee for the attention which they have kindly given to the subject. This collection, as I supposed was well known, is the property of the Historical Society, having been conveyed to it by the directors of the Tercentennial celebration in 1883. The document transferring the collection was printed in full in the New Mexican last winter, and provided that the collection should be kept on public exhibition. The Historical Society paid about $400 for the expense of moving it at that time, and faithfully fulfilled its trust of keeping it on exhibition until it was removed, without their desire, among the changes made in the Palace a year ago. The cases for its exhibition, which have fortunately been preserved to a great extent, are the best arranged and at the same time the most tasteful that I have seen in any mineral exhibition.

The appeal which I made to the chamber of commerce was for some proper and adequate place for the exhibition of the collection in Santa Fe, in order to avoid the possibility of its being removed from the city; and I was in hopes that some accommodations might be found for that purpose which at least would protect it temporarily until the erection of a city hall or a chamber of commerce building would afford a permanent location. The value and practical effect of this collection is in its massiveness, which gives an idea of the mineral resources of the southwest that has impressed thousands of visitors during the last thirty years and is an important asset of Santa Fe. There are plenty of collections of mineral specimens of small size all over the country, but so far as I know there is but one other mineral massiveness of ore and thereby attracts attention to the mineral value of the locality.

It is no fault of the Historical Society that this collection is now housed and unexhibited. The society used its best endeavors during the last legislature to have proper accommodations provided. The house of representatives, under the leadership of Speaker Baca, responded nobly to the call, and by a unanimous vote passed a bill near the middle of the session granting the use of one of the buildings in the rear of the Palace for that purpose, and when that failed to obtain the concurrence of the senate, made an appropriation in the general appropriation act for the erection of a suitable room as a wing to the Palace on Lincoln avenue. Unfortunately this was defeated by the same adverse influences in the senate.

The society has had formal applications from two of the territorial institutions for this collection, but I still hope that means may be found to retain it in Santa Fe, in all its entirety and massiveness as one of the important assets of the city. It would seem unfortunate, when we are endeavoring to add new attractions, that we should lose one of the most important.

July, 1913.
 L. BRADFORD PRINCE.

WESTGARD SAYS HE IS DELIGHTED

Deming, N. M., Nov. 4.—A. L. Westgard, of New York City, vice-president of the National Highway association and director of transccontinental highways, accompanied by Mrs. Westgard and R. J. Orr, driver, left for the east over the Borderland Saturday morning very much pleased with the condition of the highways in this locality. Mr. Westgard has been nine times across the continent in 13 different automobiles, four Premiers, the car he was driving this time. Mrs. Westgard is making her eighth trip and enjoys it hugely. Governor McDonald and State Engineer French had planned to make the trip through New Mexico with the Westgard party, but the mine disaster at Dawson prevented. Mrs. Westgard was given some minerals and gem souvenirs at the chamber of commerce to add to her collection, and expressed herself as very much delighted with the New Mexico brand of climate. Mr. Westgard was deeply interested in our method of pumping for irrigation.

The last batch of racers from the west passed through Deming Saturday morning and will be in readiness for the big contest next Tuesday. They are much pleased with the New Mexico roads, and are figuring on some mighty fast running.

Arthur Flynn, of Montreal, Canada, is investigating conditions in the Mimbres valley for himself and a bunch of friends.

Mrs. May Rush has returned from an extended visit with friends in Texas.

ARTHUR STAAB MAY TRY TO BREAK WILL

That an effort will be made to break the will of the late Judge Staab by Arthur A. Staab, of Oklahoma, was indicated this morning at the session of the probate court. Judge John Baron Burg presiding, by Nell B. Field, counsel for Arthur Staab, says yesterday's Albuquerque Herald. No action of any kind was taken but it is understood a determined attempt will be made to secure part of the estate for Arthur Staab as one of the heirs-at-law.

Judge Staab's will left $5000 to Lawrence Ifield and $3000 each to Ruth and Beatrice Ifield, all children of Louis Ifield; of the remainder of the estate, one-half was left to Edward A. Staab, the remainder being divided among the three sisters, Anna Ifield, Della Baer and Bertha Nordhaus.

The two brothers, Arthur and Paul Staab, were not mentioned in the will. The court today appointed George W. Prichard guardian ad litem of Paul Staab of Santa Fe and Isaac Barth guardian ad litem of Ruth and Beatrice Ifield. The hearing was continued to November 6 at 9:30 a. m.
