

McNAMARAS ENTER PRISON, THERE TO EXPIATE CRIMES

Identity Is Lost and They Hereafter Will be Known Merely As Convicts Nos. 25,314 and 25,315.

BROTHERS WILL OCCUPY ONE CELL TOGETHER

Trying Ordeal Incident to Being Measured and Photographed Had No Visible Effect on the Prisoners.

By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire. San Quentin, Cal., Dec. 10.—The McNamara brothers today entered San Quentin penitentiary, where James B. is condemned to spend the remainder of his life for his confessed crime of murder and John J., secretary-treasurer of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers is sentenced to fifteen years' imprisonment for dynamiting.

The men entered the prison, it is fairly understood, believing that they had achieved much for the cause of union labor, and had been cruelly misunderstood in their efforts, and the results they obtained.

John J. McNamara, those who have talked with him for many hours say, looked his convict garb a devoted effort of his little simple, kindly deeds and a firm believer in the psychological efficacy of dynamite.

James B. habitually believes a good deal as his brother believes. For themselves the men would say nothing at all.

Whirled from Los Angeles on a fast night train, the men were taken from it as sunrise today, put on a little river steamer and landed two hours and a half later at San Quentin prison, on the shores of San Pablo bay.

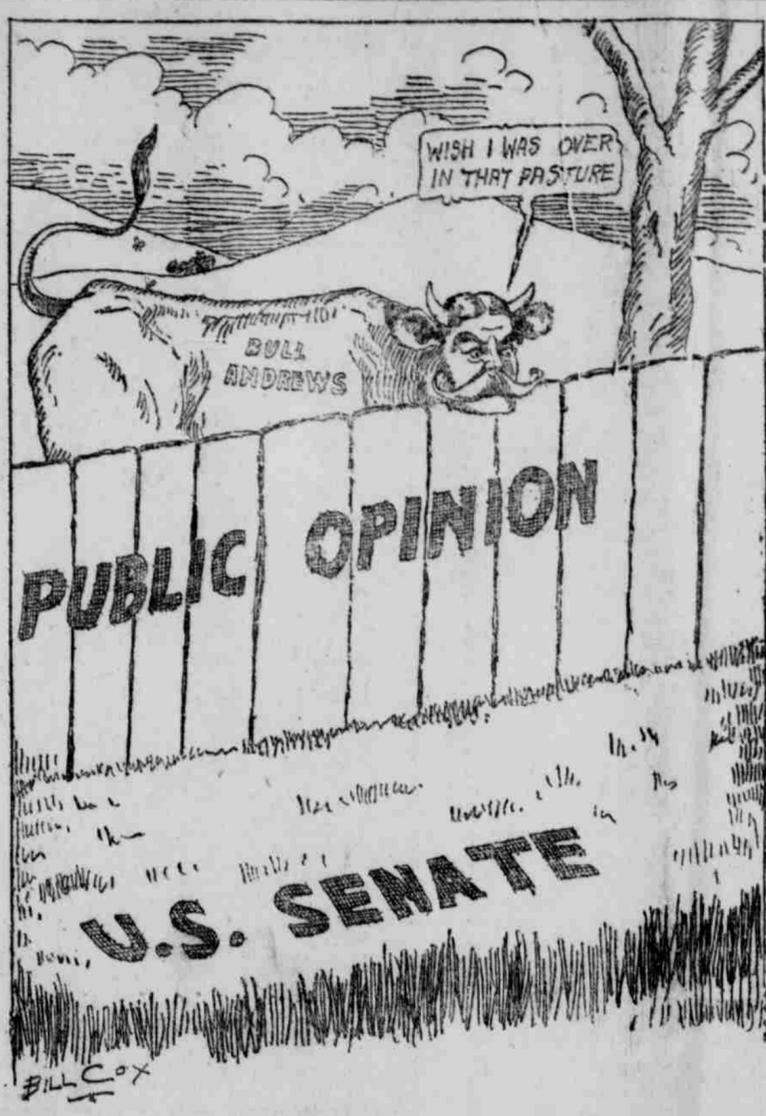

The shackles which bound them together on the boat trip were slipped off and they toiled up the prison hill beside Sheriff Hammill of Los Angeles county, walking as free men.

At the prison clock struck 10, John J. McNamara, preceded by William John "Doc" Steiner, stepped over the threshold of the jail door, with his brother directly behind him.

In five minutes James B. McNamara had become convict No. 25,314, and John J. McNamara convict No. 25,315.

They were measured for jail clothing, photographed in two positions, given a carbolic shower bath, put into stripes, shaved and cropped, and re-photographed within an hour and turned over to John Murry, lieutenant of the yard, who took them to cell 18 in a stone tier looking out over the prison's "upper yard," a great flower garden, half a mile from the tier of cells in which condemned murderers are kept and the balcony outside is cut off by a little gate.

Further down the row, toward the other end, is the cell of Abraham Herz, who is serving a four-year sentence on bribery in connection with the so-called San Francisco graft cases. Ruff is in cell three, in cell 11 of the tier is Henry Dalton, for seventeen years assessor of Alameda county and recently convicted of accepting a bribe offered according to the evidence, by a public service corporation at Dalton's solicitation.

An Insurmountable Barrier.

quize Strats, the men handcuffed together were slipped from the rear of the observation car with Sheriff Hammill on one side and Under Sheriff Robert T. Brain on the other. Chief of Police C. E. Sebastian of Los Angeles, followed and a cluster of deputy sheriffs hovered about the party, which included Bernard Flood, a lieutenant in the New York detective bureau. The men were hurried to the little steamer Caroline, a hundred yards away, and she swung into the bay determined to attain the eleven mile speed, which her engineer, John Connor, told the sheriff she could make in a favorable breeze and tide.

Captain W. G. Leale, who makes the daily trip from the straits to the prison, took them into the saloon, a room lined with life preserver racks and containing a picture of a summer hotel. The rising sun streamed through the door across the oil-cloth topped tables on one of which lay the captain's visitors book.

At his request the men wrote their names in it and then John J. adorned the top of the page.

"And where we love is home," "Home that our feet may leave, but not our hearts," "The chain may lengthen, but it never parts."

He read and turned away without a sign that he had seen.

Later, on deck, Sheriff Hammill pointed out the entrance to Mare Island navy yard.

which led him yesterday to declare to Attorney Darrow: "I'm a union man, and I'm for union labor."

The McNamara's first sight of their prison comrades might have occurred, as the Caroline steamed toward the bluff on which the prison stands, but it was said that the men in gray who stood watching the approach of the steamer were not observed and that two prisoners standing at the door of the jail stables were the men who drove home to the McNamaras the actuality that they, too, soon would wear stripes.

The trip of the men from Los Angeles where they were put on a train last night after it had left the regular city station, to Carquinez straits, was little different to them from their days in the jail where they have lived since April 26.

At his request the men wrote their names in it and then John J. adorned the top of the page.

At the prison clock struck 10, John J. McNamara, preceded by William John "Doc" Steiner, stepped over the threshold of the jail door, with his brother directly behind him.

At the prison clock struck 10, John J. McNamara, preceded by William John "Doc" Steiner, stepped over the threshold of the jail door, with his brother directly behind him.

DENVER IN HANDS OF CATTLEMEN OF COUNTRY

Hundreds of Delegates Arrive to Attend Annual National Livestock Association.

By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire. Denver, Dec. 10.—Three hundred of the five hundred delegates who will attend the fifteenth annual convention of the American National Livestock association, which begins in Denver Tuesday morning, had arrived tonight and others will arrive tomorrow and Tuesday.

The executive committee of the association will meet tomorrow at the headquarters in the Brown Palace hotel and lay out the work for the various sessions.

Wednesday at noon the delegates will go to the Denver stock yards, where they will be entertained at a luncheon as guests of the Denver Live Stock Exchange.

It is said that many of the cattlemen are favorable to the admission to this country of Mexican cattle free of duty with the idea that this will result in a degree in getting stock cattle for the depleted ranges of the United States, and in no way prove detrimental to breeders or feeders of live stock.

A committee will be named by the stock men to go to Washington during the present session of congress to take up the matter of "free Mexican cattle."

Tomorrow night the stock men will give a banquet complimentary to Mario Mackenzie of Trinidad, Colorado, the association's president, who leaves soon for South America to reside.

Centralia, Ill., Dec. 10.—The coroner's jury that investigated the death of George Lewis, special agent of the Illinois Central railroad, who was shot and killed last night by Deputy United States Marshal James E. Bacon, today returned a verdict of "justifiable homicide in self-defense."

WRECKED COLLERY BECOMES TOMB OF OVER HUNDRED MINERS

Eight Mangled Bodies Taken From Tennessee Mine, When Black Damp Puts Stop to the Work of Rescuers.

HEARTBROKEN FAMILIES HOPE AGAINST HOPE

They Are Only Ones in Stricken Camp Who Believe That Any Living Thing Survived Terrible Explosion.

By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire. Briceville, Tenn., Dec. 10.—Some where in the depths of the Cross Mountain coal mine, probably 100 men lie dead tonight, while their sorrow-stricken families keep vigil at the mouth of their tomb, hoping against hope that their loved ones may be alive when rescuers reach them.

Eight mangled bodies were brought forth by nightfall, when search was abandoned for the day.

Outside of the immediate families of the entombed men no one in this little mountain village believes that any living thing in the mine has survived the terrible explosion of coal dust that wrecked the workings Saturday morning.

For more than thirty-six hours every surviving miner in this region has toiled with no thought of food, sleep or pay, to remove the choking and force fresh air into the innermost recesses of the mine.

Black damp late today developed and stopped progress for a time but soon the silent force pushed dauntlessly on, some of them until they were carried out overcome by the noxious gases.

Thousands of the morbidly curious flocked into Briceville today and crowded about the main entry of the mine. They saw nothing but the pitiful agonies of stricken families.

There is hardly a family in the entire Coal Creek valley that has not felt the touch of death.

The problem of caring for widows and orphans is great, requiring immediate solution. Certainly Briceville will be unable to care for its living with most of her wage earners numbered among the dead.

Tonight food is scarce but plentiful supplies are promised for tomorrow from Knoxville. So far there has been little suffering among the families of those who lost their lives.

It has been impossible to get any authentic figures on the exact number in the mine when the explosion occurred. Mine officials have given out no statement. It is also impossible so far to get any check on the men who went to work yesterday morning.

The work of rescue moved slowly today and tonight, partly because the entombed men were believed to be some miles from the opening, and partly because of black damp.

Electrical devices for moving cars in the workings were shattered by the explosion, and the debris cleared away in the tunnels is being handled by manual carts to the surface.

CHICAGO WILL GET NEXT NATIONAL REPUBLICAN CONVENTION

Preliminary Canvass of Committeemen Gathered in Washington for Meeting Indicates Its Selection.

CHAIRMANSHIP NOT TO BE DECIDED ON

Former Governor Hills of Maine to Serve in This Capacity Till Presidential Nomination Is Made.

By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire. Washington, Dec. 10.—The arrival in Washington today of practically all the members of the republican national committee it became possible to forecast just what will be done by the committee at its meeting Tuesday.

As a result of the many conferences held today the following program seems to have been agreed upon:

Chicago will get the national convention and it will be held the last week in June.

There will be no fight for the chairmanship of the committee at this time. Former Governor John F. Hills of Maine, the vice-chairman will be elected to serve until the presidential nomination is made.

The question of selecting delegates at presidential primaries or by the customary delegate conventions, will be left to the various states to determine for themselves.

The committee will not sanction the resolution for a reduction of southern representation declaring this to be a question for determination by the convention itself.

President Taft will entertain the committeemen at dinner tomorrow night. This dinner probably will be the most important, politically, given at the White House during the present administration.

The committee will not bar federal officeholders as delegates to the national convention, taking the ground that the question is one for the convention to decide.

The adjustment of the presidential primary question "out of court" was attended by the fans of friends of Colonel Roosevelt that the primaries be called upon to elect delegates to the national convention.

While Chicago seems to have been determined upon as the convention city the champions of St. Louis, Denver, Cincinnati, Philadelphia and Baltimore have not abandoned the fight.

St. Louis has been the most formidable rival of Chicago, with the claims of Denver and Cincinnati being next most prominently presented.

While Chicago seems to have been determined upon as the convention city the champions of St. Louis, Denver, Cincinnati, Philadelphia and Baltimore have not abandoned the fight.

INDIANAPOLIS TO BE MADE CENTER OF FEDERAL INQUIRY

Government Will Conduct Its Investigation Into Dynamiting Conspiracies Before the Grand Jury There.

M'MANIGAL AGREES TO TELL ALL HE KNOWS

Believed Forthcoming Probe Will Result in Sensational Exposure of Alleged "Higher Ups" in Plot.

By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire. Los Angeles, Dec. 10.—Ortie E. McManigal will be taken to Indianapolis within a few days to tell the federal grand jury there what he knows of the alleged dynamiting conspiracies, the first chapter of which was closed today with the placing of James B. and James J. McNamara in the San Quentin prison.

Just when McManigal will leave here has not been determined, but he will be in Indianapolis by December 22, the federal grand jury being scheduled to begin its probe there on December 14.

These facts were learned today by the Associated Press after a canvass of various people who had much to do with the McNamara case here and who will continue to work on it, partial confirmation came from McManigal himself at the county jail today when he said:

"I'll tell any grand jury anywhere everything that I know. I have nothing to conceal and I will consider it my duty to give the authorities all the information in my possession."

McManigal will be accompanied when he leaves here by Malcolm McLaren the Burns detective who arrested him in Detroit last April and who has been with him constantly ever since, spending whole days with him at a time.

There's a lot of things," said McLaren tonight, "which McManigal would not think important in our talks but which furnished the detective back east some busy times. Time and again he might have told me the names of the men who had stopped in certain cities, but he could pretty nearly point it out on a map, as his remembrance of the location at least would be good. We would then make a search of the hotels in the district, thereby refreshing McManigal's mind. Some times he would not even remember then, as he changed his name by instruction from John J. McNamara in nearly every town, but even though we had to search the registers of a number of towns, we have in every instance corroborated McManigal's story by hotel registers showing his signatures."

There's a lot of things," said McLaren tonight, "which McManigal would not think important in our talks but which furnished the detective back east some busy times. Time and again he might have told me the names of the men who had stopped in certain cities, but he could pretty nearly point it out on a map, as his remembrance of the location at least would be good. We would then make a search of the hotels in the district, thereby refreshing McManigal's mind. Some times he would not even remember then, as he changed his name by instruction from John J. McNamara in nearly every town, but even though we had to search the registers of a number of towns, we have in every instance corroborated McManigal's story by hotel registers showing his signatures."

McManigal is believed to have been in the district, thereby refreshing McManigal's mind. Some times he would not even remember then, as he changed his name by instruction from John J. McNamara in nearly every town, but even though we had to search the registers of a number of towns, we have in every instance corroborated McManigal's story by hotel registers showing his signatures."

McManigal is believed to have been in the district, thereby refreshing McManigal's mind. Some times he would not even remember then, as he changed his name by instruction from John J. McNamara in nearly every town, but even though we had to search the registers of a number of towns, we have in every instance corroborated McManigal's story by hotel registers showing his signatures."

McManigal is believed to have been in the district, thereby refreshing McManigal's mind. Some times he would not even remember then, as he changed his name by instruction from John J. McNamara in nearly every town, but even though we had to search the registers of a number of towns, we have in every instance corroborated McManigal's story by hotel registers showing his signatures."

McManigal is believed to have been in the district, thereby refreshing McManigal's mind. Some times he would not even remember then, as he changed his name by instruction from John J. McNamara in nearly every town, but even though we had to search the registers of a number of towns, we have in every instance corroborated McManigal's story by hotel registers showing his signatures."

McManigal is believed to have been in the district, thereby refreshing McManigal's mind. Some times he would not even remember then, as he changed his name by instruction from John J. McNamara in nearly every town, but even though we had to search the registers of a number of towns, we have in every instance corroborated McManigal's story by hotel registers showing his signatures."

KING AND QUEEN ARE KEPT BUSY AT DELHI

Delhi, Dec. 10.—King George has had a busy time since his arrival in camp, for there has been a succession of ceremonies during the last three days. More than one hundred native princes have been received in audience by the king and their visits have been returned at the king's command by the viceroys.

Today King George and Queen Mary reviewed an open-air church parade, which was an impressive spectacle.

Few Americans are attending the durbar, apparently being deterred by fears of extortionate rates for accommodations. At one of the leading hotels the minimum rate for each person is $50 daily for a minimum of twenty days.

Bomb Explosion Causes Panic. Liege, Belgium, Dec. 10.—A dynamite bomb exploded tonight at a crowded cinematograph exhibition.