THE JUDGES. Mayor D. K. B. Sellers, Dr. F. L. Lukens, W. P. McElroy. The above named gentlemen have consented to act as judges in the final canvass of points in the Morning Journal's Tour campaign, and will determine the winners of the various awards from the ballots cast.

The judges will have charge of the ballot box from 9 o'clock tomorrow night until they decide to make the final canvass of points which will determine the winners. The judges will be at the Tour Department at 9 o'clock and the closing hours of the canvass will be strictly under their supervision as provided in the rules governing the closing of the canvass.

No. 18.—The campaign will close Saturday, February 28, at 3 p. m. in the following manner: The judges shall have charge of the ballot box in the Tour Dept. When the hour of 3 p. m. has arrived they shall declare the campaign closed and the doors locked. All persons inside the office of the Tour Dept. for other previously designated rooms at the hour of 3 p. m., who have subscriptions to deposit shall be permitted to do so and point ballots shall be issued thereon. After all balloting has ceased and ballots deposited the ballot box shall be sealed and placed in charge of one or more watchmen to be named by the judges, who shall have charge of it until the official canvass shall be made.

Miss Baier Leads. This morning the last exhibit of points of candidates appears. Miss Florence Baier jumps to the head of the list again, retaining Miss Anita Garcia, who led in the "Climber's" period. Miss Oleson drops to second position with a difference in her standing and that of Miss Baier of only 35,000 points.

But a ten-day subscription separates the leader and the candidate in fourth position. Miss Sadie Oleson carries the honors in fourth place with Miss Kathryn Grimmer only 20,000 points ahead of her in third position.

The line-up of candidates in the final count augurs well for a close finish. It is a see-saw game between two or three of the candidates for the grand award while a neck-and-neck race is being run in the various districts for first honors.

Miss Ethel Clouse jumps to first position in District 2, taking the lead from Miss Lucy Simpson of Las Vegas, who has held it for the last two weeks. Despite the fact that Miss Clouse is in the hospital suffering severely, her friends are still active in her behalf and hope to make her a winner in her district.

District 4 Promises Hot Finish. Miss Beth Frockman continues to lead in District 4. Interest in this district is intense and the final outcome is very greatly in doubt. It is a very close race so far and the "Gift Week" extra awards have added to the general enthusiasm in that district until it is fever pitch. What the result will be tomorrow night cannot be foretold.

Only about thirty-six hours remain of the campaign. Tomorrow night it will be all over but the shouting. Who the winners will be can only be determined by the final canvass of ballots at the close. The next thirty-six hours may develop a winner. At least the next two days will be a big factor in determining the winner of the grand award as well as the various district awards.

Work Hard if You Would Win. It is the one who overcomes these things most successfully that will come out a victor at the end. Sitting still will not win for you. It requires more in the way of energy and persistence if you hope to win.

UNIVERSITY HAS
TWENTY-FIFTH
BIRTHDAY TODAY

Interesting Exercises Commemorative of Founding of Institution at Rodey Hall This Afternoon.

Today is a birthday in at the University—not only a birthday but a very important anniversary, as it rounds out an even quarter of a century of usefulness for the institution. Needless to say, the occasion is one of the greatest importance, and will be celebrated accordingly.

A program embodying oratorical and musical gems has been arranged and the exercises will undoubtedly furnish real entertainment and pleasure to all, whether connected with the university or not. The addresses of Judge Bernard S. Rodey, who is virtually the founder of the college, and Governor E. S. Stover, who was its first president, hold unusual historical interest while Dr. Rodey and President Rodey will speak on educational subjects of the greatest present importance to the institution.

The musical numbers are exceptionally well selected, combining solos by some of the best artists in the city with several choral selections by the glee club and the university choir. BANQUET FOR JUDGE
POPE TAKES JUDGES
AWAY FROM CAPITAL

Special Observer to Morning Journal. Santa Fe, Feb. 26.—Supreme Court Clerk Jose D. Sena is confined to his home by illness. The three supreme court justices accompanied by their wives, got away this morning in automobiles for Las Cruces to attend the banquet to be given in honor of Federal Judge W. H. Pope and do not expect to return until next Wednesday, as they will visit El Paso before returning.

On the last list for Friday evening's celebration is Gov. W. C. McDonald, who was to respond to the toast "New Mexico" but press of business at Santa Fe prevented the executive from going. Judge L. B. Hanna will respond to "Seeing Things From the Bench"; Judge Frank W. Parker to "Experiences With the Dona Ana County Bar"; Attorney General Frank W. Clancy to "The Early Bench and Bar of New Mexico"; Judge William H. Pope to "The United States Court"; and Judge Edward L. Medler to "Our Visitors."

PLAY TONIGHT IS
GRIPPING DRAMA
ON BIG SUBJECT

'The Price She Paid' Is Taken From One of David Graham Phillips' Strongest Literary Productions.

The most powerful and gripping performance of the season has been universally declared to be that of the new dramatized story, "The Price She Paid," which comes to this city with all of its wonderful features. The play is even more interesting, more thrillingly exciting than David Graham Phillips' book of the same name, inasmuch as it has received the magic touch of a masterful playwright. In these days of dramatic effort, dialogue is relied upon largely to get the interest of the audience. In pursuing this method, many authors lose sight of the fact that what is necessary to please an audience is good swift action, and the depiction of stirring events. This fault cannot be found with "The Price She Paid" as from the start of the play to the drop of the curtain there is always something happening, each one more wonderful than the preceding.

While the new play deals with the sex problem, there are many deft comedy touches that relieve the intensity of the absorbing plot. The story has to do with middle-class people, and in order to make good his losses, steals a number of diamonds from his employer. He is found out, and is just about to be sent to prison when the jeweler, who has long since been in love with the thief's sister, comes to her, offering her brother his freedom from prosecution if she will listen to his low advances. The jeweler is the girl that he has a wife living in the west, and that he is separated from her, although not divorced. On this account, he is unable to marry her. He proposes, however, an unholy union, and betrays the marriage ceremony as simply a formality which means nothing. In other words, says the jeweler in the play, "marriage is unnecessary in the sight of God, providing a man and woman love each other. The mere fact that a clergyman mumbles a few words from a book, does not make the man's love any stronger for the woman, or hers for the man."

He defends this attitude by offering the woman any protection in a financial way she may ask, so that in case of a separation, she would be well provided for. He further agrees to provide for her dishonest brother for the rest of his life. The girl spurns this offer, although it has many attractive features, and she is left with her difficulties, but with her determination to be virtuous and with the honesty of purpose that characterizes such a high class woman, she braves the temptation, and in the end tri-been supplied with an eminent cast of players. When the importance of the play was first realized, its producers lost no time in getting to New York, where they secured practically an all-star cast. This company is headed by Miss Rachel May Clark, who has been identified with so many famous metropolitan successes. Elka theater tonight for an engagement of one performance.

Ray State Favors Suffrage. Boston, Feb. 26.—A bill providing a constitutional amendment giving the vote to women was favorably reported to the senate by the committee on constitutional amendments today. It was the first time that such a report on a suffrage bill has been made in this state. The committee's vote stood nine to two.

Rheumatism
Conquered

I say that I can conquer rheumatism with a simple home treatment, without electric treatment, stringent diet, weakening baths or any internal dosing that injures the digestion, or, in fact, any other of the usual treatments recommended for the cure of rheumatism.

Don't shut your eyes and say "Impossible," but put me to the test. You may have tried everything you ever heard of and have spent your money right and left. I say, well and good, let me prove my claims without expense to you. So send your name and the treatment will be sent you at once. I am willing to take the chance and surely the test will tell. When I send you this I will write you fully, and will show you that my treatment is not only for curing rheumatism, but should also cleanse the system of uric acid and give great benefit in kidney troubles and help the general health. This special offer will not be held open indefinitely. It will be necessary for you to make your application quickly. So take advantage of this offer before it is too late. Don't send any money, just your name and address and I will send the remedy. After it has shown you that it is a real cure for your rheumatism send me the price, one dollar. Write to-day, to H. DeLano, 324 Delano Bldg., Syracuse, N. Y.
