AUTUMN. The melancholy days are come, The saddest of the year, It makes a fellow sad and glum, When he is forced to hear A lot of dope About the weight, The racing average, The finding average, The store's losses, Color.

As for shade trees for planting in Arizona and New Mexico, it is asserted that there is none better than the much abused cottonwood or, of course, any must be introduced not to get the female or cotton-bearing variety. This may be accomplished by propagating from cuttings of male trees, that is, trees that are known not to bear cotton. These cuttings, made early in spring and started by inserting the lower end into damp ground, grow easily and being cut from male trees absolutely will not develop the "cotton habit."
