

If our friends who favor us with manuscripts for publication wish to have rejected articles returned they must in all cases send stamps for that purpose.

LOCAL NEWS—The City and Suburban News Bureau of the Evening Post, No. 100 Broadway, New York, publishes at 25 cents per copy. All information and news for publication in the Post is sent daily to the press of the whole country.

Is It a Death Sentence?

The Hon. James Donald Cameron's term as Senator will expire one year from next March. The Legislature that will choose his successor is to be elected at a time when the Hon. Matthew Stanley Quay's power in the State organization is almost absolute.

Used to be Cameron and Quay in the Republican politics of Pennsylvania; for several years it has been Quay and Cameron. Whether this change is due to personal indifference on the part of the senior Senator and a growing disinclination to exert himself in the practice of the art of political manipulation, or merely to superior skill and energy on the part of the junior, does not matter much.

The consideration impart unusual interest to the letter concerning Mr. Quay's present attitude toward his colleague, written by a trustworthy correspondent in Philadelphia and printed on this page of THE SUN. Senator Quay feels that he owes no political gratitude to Senator Cameron. He has won the recent battle alone. His present supremacy is in no way due to Cameron's help.

The Hon. Sam Morris of Troy called local opinion "a suicidal policy." "Leave Roosevelt and Strauss to the Democrats," said he. "An American Sunday is what we all want."

The Hon. Sam Morris of Troy called local opinion "a suicidal policy." "Leave Roosevelt and Strauss to the Democrats," said he. "An American Sunday is what we all want."

Does Quay intend to compass the political downfall of Cameron? Will James Donald Cameron, the son of Simon, bow to the decree and yield without a struggle?

The Deepening of the Canals. Last year an amendment to the Constitution of the State of New York authorizing the Legislature to improve the canals, was adopted by a majority of 115,343 votes, which was a majority 32,000 larger than any other amendment received at that time.

The next inquiry, therefore, is as to what is to be done with the money. The answer is that it will be laid out in deepening the Erie Canal, which runs 252 miles from Buffalo to Albany, connecting Lake Erie with the Hudson; the Oswego, 38 miles, from Oswego to Syracuse, joining Lake Ontario with the Erie Canal, and the Champlain, 95 miles, from Whitehall to West Troy, joining the Champlain and Hudson.

Why should it not be? The rural Republicans do not see any reason why Sunday in New York should be different from Sunday in New York. They have made it nearly impossible for the New York Republicans to say what their real intentions and beliefs about them are.

The Erie Canal wants more water in the prism; more water in the waterway. A great deal of it is not much more than six feet, and boats drag along over a little skin of water, whereas it ought to have a body of water larger and deeper.

It is some years since an article in our English periodical has attracted more attention than the paper on the position and aims of the Papacy contributed to a late number of the Fortnightly Review by Capt. J. W. Gambier of the British navy.

The former foundations of the Papal authority were three: materially, the temporal power; morally, a world more or less accepting dogmatic teaching; and, lastly, the almost universal ignorance as to the sanction upon which the Papal claims were based.

It is some years since an article in our English periodical has attracted more attention than the paper on the position and aims of the Papacy contributed to a late number of the Fortnightly Review by Capt. J. W. Gambier of the British navy.

There are some very accommodating Democrats in Nebraska. They have held a Convention and manufactured what they call a platform. Here is a piece of it:

Accommodating Democrats. There are some very accommodating Democrats in Nebraska. They have held a Convention and manufactured what they call a platform. Here is a piece of it:

Accommodating Democrats. There are some very accommodating Democrats in Nebraska. They have held a Convention and manufactured what they call a platform. Here is a piece of it:

roads, and the prosperity which the canal and the lakes give to the State of New York in the promotion of their business comes in turn to the railway."

It is sometimes said that this project is a mere makeshift, and practically a throwing away of money, because what is really needed by the West is a deep-water canal, and to accommodate grain-laden, lake-going and even ocean-going ships. As to that, if Congress chooses to build such a canal, at an appalling cost, it is another matter.

Setting the Republican Pace. According to the Hon. Thomas Collier Platt, the Republican League State Convention, which was held at Binghamton last week, was to "set the pace for the State Convention."

The delegates to this Convention favor the principle of local option by counties for the sale of liquor. The question of counties is a question which should be submitted separately to the voters of each city and to those of the remainder of the county."

We should have supposed that the Republican party, as a great moral party, would have been particularly anxious to solve the question of opening the saloons on Sundays.

Without doubt the facts here given are away from the facts in the case. We believe that one-fourth of the number of criminal outlaws of the kind referred to would be ten or twenty or thirty times more than the total number of them in the United States.

Without doubt the facts here given are away from the facts in the case. We believe that one-fourth of the number of criminal outlaws of the kind referred to would be ten or twenty or thirty times more than the total number of them in the United States.

Without doubt the facts here given are away from the facts in the case. We believe that one-fourth of the number of criminal outlaws of the kind referred to would be ten or twenty or thirty times more than the total number of them in the United States.

Without doubt the facts here given are away from the facts in the case. We believe that one-fourth of the number of criminal outlaws of the kind referred to would be ten or twenty or thirty times more than the total number of them in the United States.

Without doubt the facts here given are away from the facts in the case. We believe that one-fourth of the number of criminal outlaws of the kind referred to would be ten or twenty or thirty times more than the total number of them in the United States.

Without doubt the facts here given are away from the facts in the case. We believe that one-fourth of the number of criminal outlaws of the kind referred to would be ten or twenty or thirty times more than the total number of them in the United States.

Without doubt the facts here given are away from the facts in the case. We believe that one-fourth of the number of criminal outlaws of the kind referred to would be ten or twenty or thirty times more than the total number of them in the United States.

Without doubt the facts here given are away from the facts in the case. We believe that one-fourth of the number of criminal outlaws of the kind referred to would be ten or twenty or thirty times more than the total number of them in the United States.

the making and unmaking of governments; that it influences elections, to the extent in some countries and certain localities of controlling them altogether; that it takes its part in the burning question of the education of the people; and that in the new worlds which are being brought under colonizing influences, it is destined to play an important role.

Our contemporary, the Evening Post, prints an article on Madagascar which seems to justify its introductory remark. It is a country, it is known. In its description of Antananarivo, the capital, the Evening Post says:

We have observed a statement that "the society known as the Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic" had been organized in New York. The aim of the organization is to "insure that the captains of all boats going up or down the Hudson shall either come a salate to be fired, or colored to be dipped when passing by."

It is a strange dream? If it be one, it is strange that it should have been seriously discussed by every diplomat in Europe. To students of history it is well known that even stranger things have happened in the age-long record of the Papacy.

Exaggeration. There must surely be an error in the despatch from Saratoga printed by our contemporary, the Times, about the address made before the American Social Science Association by Prof. Francis Wayland, Dean of the Yale Law School.

Without doubt the facts here given are away from the facts in the case. We believe that one-fourth of the number of criminal outlaws of the kind referred to would be ten or twenty or thirty times more than the total number of them in the United States.

Without doubt the facts here given are away from the facts in the case. We believe that one-fourth of the number of criminal outlaws of the kind referred to would be ten or twenty or thirty times more than the total number of them in the United States.

Without doubt the facts here given are away from the facts in the case. We believe that one-fourth of the number of criminal outlaws of the kind referred to would be ten or twenty or thirty times more than the total number of them in the United States.

Without doubt the facts here given are away from the facts in the case. We believe that one-fourth of the number of criminal outlaws of the kind referred to would be ten or twenty or thirty times more than the total number of them in the United States.

Without doubt the facts here given are away from the facts in the case. We believe that one-fourth of the number of criminal outlaws of the kind referred to would be ten or twenty or thirty times more than the total number of them in the United States.

Without doubt the facts here given are away from the facts in the case. We believe that one-fourth of the number of criminal outlaws of the kind referred to would be ten or twenty or thirty times more than the total number of them in the United States.

Without doubt the facts here given are away from the facts in the case. We believe that one-fourth of the number of criminal outlaws of the kind referred to would be ten or twenty or thirty times more than the total number of them in the United States.

Without doubt the facts here given are away from the facts in the case. We believe that one-fourth of the number of criminal outlaws of the kind referred to would be ten or twenty or thirty times more than the total number of them in the United States.

necessarily a minority. Yet they have great men, the Hon. Thomas Cassin, for example, and the Hon. Sterling Morton. Some more as accommodating Democrats are situated in Pennsylvania. "We reaffirm the platform of the last National and State Conventions," said these accommodating Pennsylvania Democrats; "and we further especially declare the perfect unanimity of the Democracy of Pennsylvania in favor of tariff reform and sound money as recommended and enforced by our Democratic Administration."

It becomes more and more evident that platforms are growing more and more worthless. The example set by Mr. Cleveland in 1892 is too generally followed. One! Now for Two. The eyes of seventy millions of Americans are on the yellow dog.

Our contemporary, the Evening Post, prints an article on Madagascar which seems to justify its introductory remark. It is a country, it is known. In its description of Antananarivo, the capital, the Evening Post says:

We have observed a statement that "the society known as the Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic" had been organized in New York. The aim of the organization is to "insure that the captains of all boats going up or down the Hudson shall either come a salate to be fired, or colored to be dipped when passing by."

It is a strange dream? If it be one, it is strange that it should have been seriously discussed by every diplomat in Europe. To students of history it is well known that even stranger things have happened in the age-long record of the Papacy.

Exaggeration. There must surely be an error in the despatch from Saratoga printed by our contemporary, the Times, about the address made before the American Social Science Association by Prof. Francis Wayland, Dean of the Yale Law School.

Without doubt the facts here given are away from the facts in the case. We believe that one-fourth of the number of criminal outlaws of the kind referred to would be ten or twenty or thirty times more than the total number of them in the United States.

Without doubt the facts here given are away from the facts in the case. We believe that one-fourth of the number of criminal outlaws of the kind referred to would be ten or twenty or thirty times more than the total number of them in the United States.

Without doubt the facts here given are away from the facts in the case. We believe that one-fourth of the number of criminal outlaws of the kind referred to would be ten or twenty or thirty times more than the total number of them in the United States.

Without doubt the facts here given are away from the facts in the case. We believe that one-fourth of the number of criminal outlaws of the kind referred to would be ten or twenty or thirty times more than the total number of them in the United States.

Without doubt the facts here given are away from the facts in the case. We believe that one-fourth of the number of criminal outlaws of the kind referred to would be ten or twenty or thirty times more than the total number of them in the United States.

Without doubt the facts here given are away from the facts in the case. We believe that one-fourth of the number of criminal outlaws of the kind referred to would be ten or twenty or thirty times more than the total number of them in the United States.

Without doubt the facts here given are away from the facts in the case. We believe that one-fourth of the number of criminal outlaws of the kind referred to would be ten or twenty or thirty times more than the total number of them in the United States.

QUAY AND DON CAMERON.

An Intimation from the Former That the Political Career of the Latter is Nearly Ended—No Favorable News Expected. PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 8.—The recent victory of Senator Quay is likely to result in the defeat of the Hon. James Donald Cameron for another term as Senator. It now seems absolutely certain that Senator Quay will oppose the reelection of Cameron to the Senate.

At no time during the hand-to-hand contest just ended did Cameron indicate in any manner to any person in Pennsylvania his desire to see Senator Quay succeed. On the contrary, Cameron was not only indifferent, but he ran away from the fight, not caring whether Quay came out on top or was overborne and smashed by the Maize and Martin combine.

This is not the first time that Cameron has run away from a contest in which Quay staked everything. During the year 1885, Matthew Stanley Quay determined to run for State Treasurer, as a step toward his election to the United States Senate. He consulted Senator Cameron freely in regard to the plan; Cameron strongly advised against it, even going so far as to tell Quay that he would surely be defeated if he went before the people.

Senator Cameron's advice was disregarded. Quay made a most spirited canvass and won on pretty much the same line as two weeks ago. Throughout the campaign for the nomination, Cameron doubted the ability of Quay to succeed at the general election; it would be a great mistake to nominate him, as he expressed it. The day following the Convention which nominated Col. Quay for State Treasurer, Senator Cameron showed his feeling in the matter by leaving Harrisburg for the Pacific coast and remaining there from May of that year until the day of the general election in November.

"The Dollar of the Daddies." Secretary Morton Says that It Was "Evolved on a Gold Basis." WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—"It is not generally known, but nevertheless it is true," said Secretary Morton, "that the silver dollar advocated by the free silver men was not affected by 'the dollar of the daddies' as evolved on and from a gold basis. According to Prof. Sumner of Yale, the most important information contained in the Mint Report of Alexander Hamilton in the year 1791 is that the actual unit of account in America had been the Spanish fine gold. In the meantime the English standard had become fine gold. The party of this imaginary gold dollar with gold sterling was 76 cents, 3 mths., 4 dms., 2 grs. and 20 of the 100ths of an ounce. On Jan. 17, 1782, Robert Morris proposed to Congress that the gold and silver in the United States be nearly 1 to 150. In England it was 1 to 15 1/2. In France it was 1 to 48. The report of 1780 shows a very much more careful estimate of the coined and uncoined silver in the United States. The actual unit of the revolutionary period had been 24 3/4 grains of fine silver. The actual unit of the dollar in America was about 15 grains of silver. This is not to be confused with the 15 to the grain of fine silver in the United States. This it is evident that the silver dollar was evolved on and from a gold basis."

Changes of Station. The Order for Moving Troops and Abandoning Some Minor Posts. WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—Ever since the new fiscal year replenished the transportation funds of the army, which was very low, it has been a question as to the transfer of companies from fort to fort to take place.

THE DUKE OF ALBA'S VISIT. A Nobleman in Whose Veins Flows the Blood of Three Royal Houses. The Duke of Alba is making his American acquaintances another visit. He arrived here on Friday on the Luccania with the intention of attending the yacht races and spending some time in the fashionable resorts of Newport, and he has a personal friend of James J. Van Alen, with whom he has gone the rounds of the fashionable American watering places on former occasions.

Eighty Avenue Payment. Merchants along Eighth Avenue, from Fourteenth street to Fifty-ninth, are wrought up to a high pitch of indignation through the failure of the Reform administration to carry out its promise made early last spring to see that the sewerage system of the city was improved.

What is to become of Hexagenarians? To the Editor of the Sun:—Sir: No better evidence of the "hex" being all that it is supposed to be than your steady abolition of the dodder is to be seen in the fact that you have published a list of men who have reached the age of 60 years.

Some Doctrines About Third Terms. From the Philadelphia Record. The public feeling on the subject of a third term is very deep and broad. No matter how ardent may be the feelings of a President who has held a second term, it is very difficult to see that it will induce any large number of the American people to desire his election for a third term.

East Montrose's 1,000th Resident. EAST MONTROSE, I. L., Sept. 8.—The oldest person in Suffolk county, Deacon William H. Howell, has just celebrated his ninety-sixth birthday. He was born in Southampton, I. L., and he learned the trade of shoemaking, working at that business from November, 1821, to May, 1837. He is now in the 80th year of his age.

East Montrose's 1,000th Resident. EAST MONTROSE, I. L., Sept. 8.—The oldest person in Suffolk county, Deacon William H. Howell, has just celebrated his ninety-sixth birthday. He was born in Southampton, I. L., and he learned the trade of shoemaking, working at that business from November, 1821, to May, 1837. He is now in the 80th year of his age.

LEWIS CLARK ASKED TO RESIGN.

His Intention to Run the 71st Regiment Cavalry Association of the Case. The troubles in the Seventy-first Regiment Cavalry Association over its differences with Lieut. Charles S. Clark of Company C have assumed a critical phase. A few evenings since a meeting of the association was held at the armory, at which nearly all the members were present. A motion was made to expel Lieut. Clark, and some rather sharp criticism was passed upon his attitude toward the association. Some days ago the association received notice that the Lieutenants was going to bring suit against the association for $50, which, he said, was the amount of the bond which he had given to the association as security for his good conduct, and that the Lieutenants might have himself in debt to the association when the committee which was examining his accounts had finished its work.

The Lieutenants, on receiving the document, was very indignant, and forthwith replying to the association, he demanded a return to the courtesy and demanding a hearing. It is understood that the Lieutenants has given a bond for his own conduct for the amount of $100, which is a violation of military rules. If an officer overstays his leave of absence, he is liable to be cashiered; his only course being to lodge a complaint through the regular military channels. The Lieutenants' conduct in coming to the friends of the Lieutenants, is derogatory to military discipline, as set forth in section 250 of the Regulations.

The officers of the association are: President, Adjutant, J. C. Howell; Vice-President, Lieut. A. A. Lichtenstein; Editor, A. J. Paterson; Secretary, Business Manager, Lieut. E. H. Haldeman; Treasurer, J. C. Howell; and Entertainment Manager, Drum Major G. H. Paterson. The meeting at which the anti-Clark resolutions were adopted, was held at the armory, and all the officers were present except Adjutant Howell.

NIGHT SCHOOLS TO CLOSE. The Latest Result of Mayor Scherwin's Estimate to appropriate sufficient money to carry on the night schools is likely to result in the closing of two grammar grade schools and five others. The Evening School Committee of the Board of Education will meet to-night to discuss the matter. Besides closing seven schools, the Board proposes to close the high schools in one week instead of two sessions, as heretofore, one of eleven weeks and the other of nine weeks, or twenty weeks in all.

GENERAL FOR FIFTEEN MINUTES. In Command of the Army of the Potomac. White Grant Got A Mint Dolep. From the Washington Evening Star. The Cobler who mended my shoes was named Richy. He was a great fellow, and he was a great fellow. I had a pair of shoes mended by him, and he was a great fellow. I had a pair of shoes mended by him, and he was a great fellow. I had a pair of shoes mended by him, and he was a great fellow.

His Intention to Run the 71st Regiment Cavalry Association of the Case. The troubles in the Seventy-first Regiment Cavalry Association over its differences with Lieut. Charles S. Clark of Company C have assumed a critical phase. A few evenings since a meeting of the association was held at the armory, at which nearly all the members were present. A motion was made to expel Lieut. Clark, and some rather sharp criticism was passed upon his attitude toward the association. Some days ago the association received notice that the Lieutenants was going to bring suit against the association for $50, which, he said, was the amount of the bond which he had given to the association as security for his good conduct, and that the Lieutenants might have himself in debt to the association when the committee which was examining his accounts had finished its work.

The Lieutenants, on receiving the document, was very indignant, and forthwith replying to the association, he demanded a return to the courtesy and demanding a hearing. It is understood that the Lieutenants has given a bond for his own conduct for the amount of $100, which is a violation of military rules. If an officer overstays his leave of absence, he is liable to be cashiered; his only course being to lodge a complaint through the regular military channels. The Lieutenants' conduct in coming to the friends of the Lieutenants, is derogatory to military discipline, as set forth in section 250 of the Regulations.

The officers of the association are: President, Adjutant, J. C. Howell; Vice-President, Lieut. A. A. Lichtenstein; Editor, A. J. Paterson; Secretary, Business Manager, Lieut. E. H. Haldeman; Treasurer, J. C. Howell; and Entertainment Manager, Drum Major G. H. Paterson. The meeting at which the anti-Clark resolutions were adopted, was held at the armory, and all the officers were present except Adjutant Howell.

NIGHT SCHOOLS TO CLOSE. The Latest Result of Mayor Scherwin's Estimate to appropriate sufficient money to carry on the night schools is likely to result in the closing of two grammar grade schools and five others. The Evening School Committee of the Board of Education will meet to-night to discuss the matter. Besides closing seven schools, the Board proposes to close the high schools in one week instead of two sessions, as heretofore, one of eleven weeks and the other of nine weeks, or twenty weeks in all.

GENERAL FOR FIFTEEN MINUTES. In Command of the Army of the Potomac. White Grant Got A Mint Dolep. From the Washington Evening Star. The Cobler who mended my shoes was named Richy. He was a great fellow, and he was a great fellow. I had a pair of shoes mended by him, and he was a great fellow. I had a pair of shoes mended by him, and he was a great fellow. I had a pair of shoes mended by him, and he was a great fellow.

GENERAL FOR FIFTEEN MINUTES. In Command of the Army of the Potomac. White Grant Got A Mint Dolep. From the Washington Evening Star. The Cobler who mended my shoes was named Richy. He was a great fellow, and he was a great fellow. I had a pair of shoes mended by him, and he was a great fellow. I had a pair of shoes mended by him, and he was a great fellow. I had a pair of shoes mended by him, and he was a great fellow.

GENERAL FOR FIFTEEN MINUTES. In Command of the Army of the Potomac. White Grant Got A Mint Dolep. From the Washington Evening Star. The Cobler who mended my shoes was named Richy. He was a great fellow, and he was a great fellow. I had a pair of shoes mended by him, and he was a great fellow. I had a pair of shoes mended by him, and he was a great fellow. I had a pair of shoes mended by him, and he was a great fellow.

GENERAL FOR FIFTEEN MINUTES. In Command of the Army of the Potomac. White Grant Got A Mint Dolep. From the Washington Evening Star. The Cobler who mended my shoes was named Richy. He was a great fellow, and he was a great fellow. I had a pair of shoes mended by him, and he was a great fellow. I had a pair of shoes mended by him, and he was a great fellow. I had a pair of shoes mended by him, and he was a great fellow.

GENERAL FOR FIFTEEN MINUTES. In Command of the Army of the Potomac. White Grant Got A Mint Dolep. From the Washington Evening Star. The Cobler who mended my shoes was named Richy. He was a great fellow, and he was a great fellow. I had a pair of shoes mended by him, and he was a great fellow. I had a pair of shoes mended by him, and he was a great fellow. I had a pair of shoes mended by him, and he was a great fellow.

GENERAL FOR FIFTEEN MINUTES. In Command of the Army of the Potomac. White Grant Got A Mint Dolep. From the Washington Evening Star. The Cobler who mended my shoes was named Richy. He was a great fellow, and he was a great fellow. I had a pair of shoes mended by him, and he was a great fellow. I had a pair of shoes mended by him, and he was a great fellow. I had a pair of shoes mended by him, and he was a great fellow.

GENERAL FOR FIFTEEN MINUTES. In Command of the Army of the Potomac. White Grant Got A Mint Dolep. From the Washington Evening Star. The Cobler who mended my shoes was named Richy. He was a great fellow, and he was a great fellow. I had a pair of shoes mended by him, and he was a great fellow. I had a pair of shoes mended by him, and he was a great fellow. I had a pair of shoes mended by him, and he was a great fellow.

GENERAL FOR FIFTEEN MINUTES. In Command of the Army of the Potomac. White Grant Got A Mint Dolep. From the Washington Evening Star. The Cobler who mended my shoes was named Richy. He was a great fellow, and he was a great fellow. I had a pair of shoes mended by him, and he was a great fellow. I had a pair of shoes mended by him, and he was a great fellow. I had a pair of shoes mended by him, and he was a great fellow.

GENERAL FOR FIFTEEN MINUTES. In Command of the Army of the Potomac. White Grant Got A Mint Dolep. From the Washington Evening Star. The Cobler who mended my shoes was named Richy. He was a great fellow, and he was a great fellow. I had a pair of shoes mended by him, and he was a great fellow. I had a pair of shoes mended by him, and he was a great fellow. I had a pair of shoes mended by him, and he was a great fellow.