The wildest excitement prevails in the town. Thousands of workmen from all the surrounding places are reported to be marching towards Homestead to reinforce the mill hands.

In the second engagement Henry Strougel was killed and several men were wounded. William Foy was shot and killed in the first engagement.

A workman named Wallace was fatally shot at Ninth street. He was removed to his home. The workmen have built a fortification of steel bars on the river bank and over 1,000 men are within.

The crowd on shore is constantly increasing, and it is more determined than ever to

It is reported that the captain of the Pinkertons is dead. In the first assault he was seen to fall, and he has not been seen since.

The men swear that a man remains alive in Homestead. At this time (9 A. M.) a body of the men are rolling barrels of oil to the river. It is their intention to set fire to the oil and burn the Pinkertons from the position they have held with safety since daylight.

This afternoon the strikers captured a cog-wheel oil-tank at the east end of the works at Munnell station. The stuff was set on fire and let into the river, but a strong wind blowing in the opposite direction saved the barges a few yards below.

At the same time shots were fired from the boats and returned by the strikers. One man on the boat was seen to fall overboard, but his comrades being afraid to expose themselves to attempt rescue, the man sank. The men are talking of firing two other oil tanks down the river. The men have telegraphed to have it held at the lock.

It was exactly 4 o'clock when the steamer and barges were sighted by the watchers gathered on the river bank, a mile below the town. Directly the fleet was sighted three Twelve men were shot and a number will probably die. Among the wounded, it is reported, were five Pinkerton men.

At an early hour this morning 300 Pinkerton detectives arrived in Pittsburg from the East. They were quietly marched to the Monongahela River, where they were loaded on barges and shipped to Homestead at 7.15.

The news of their arrival spread rapidly, and when the steam tug Tide towing the barges arrived at Homestead there were 5,000 people waiting to meet them.

As soon as the Pinkertons attempted to land they were resisted by the men and a battle followed.

PINKERTON MEN BEGAN THE SHOOTING. The Pinkertons opened fire, and at the first volley two workmen fell. This enraged the crowd and they bore down upon the Pinkertons with resistless force.

Nobody stopped to inquire whether the newcomers were deputy sheriffs, Pinkerton detectives or non-union laborers.

After the exchange of shots the crowd grouped on the bank fell back, climbed over the heap of rubbish and rushed towards the big trestle leading to the Penick Railroad bridge.

Probably 300 of the men stood their ground and returned a desultory fire with their revolvers at the invaders. These shots did little or no apparent damage, and the locked-out men, finding their weapons ineffective, slowly fell back before the withering fire of the Watchtowers.

The first shot of the engagement came from the barge. It was aimed at a big Hungarian who stood at the water's edge. The ball went wide of the human target, but it was the signal to the Pinkerton men to begin, and for a full ten minutes they continued to fire.

LABORER MARTIN MERRY THE FIRST TO FALL. The first to fall was Martin Merry, a heater in one of the mills. He was shot in the left side and fell face downward on a pile of ashes.

Close beside Merry stood a big Hungarian. He stopped over Merry's prostrate body, and as he was in the act of raising him he staggered, and an instant later fell by the side of his comrade.

This bloody spectacle aroused the ire of the crowd, and with a hoarse cheer half a dozen men rushed to the place where Merry and the Hungarian lay.

They picked up the bodies and carried them behind the trestle. One of the rescuers, a Welshman, who refused to give his name, was shot in the left leg just as he raised Merry's head from the ground.

Merry and the Hungarian were carried over the trestlework to the Penick tracks and then taken to the office of Dr. Furman on Dixon street. The doctor, after a hasty examination, announced that both men would probably die.

DETECTIVES DANGEROUSLY WOUNDED. Five more of the strikers were wounded and two of them very seriously, but they were spirited away by their friends, and it was impossible to get their names.

The shots of the strikers were also well aimed, as several Pinkertons are reported dangerously wounded. The Pinkerton men did not land, and another encounter may occur any moment. Excitement is at fever heat at Homestead.

EXTRA RACE WIRES OUT.

A Pool-Room War Declared by President Engeman To-Day.

FALSE B. UPSETS THE TALENT. Lord Dalmony Defeats Early Blossom Quite Easily.

(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.) CONY ISLAND, N. Y., July 6.—The Western Union Telegraph Company's wires were ordered off the Brighton Beach race course this morning by order of President Engeman.

There is every prospect that the old war between poolrooms and race tracks will be renewed. The trouble all originated in the price of service. The pool men wanted the Brighton Beach Association to furnish reports of the races at a cheaper price than they paid the other tracks, and President Engeman refused to do it.

This was the latter's version of the trouble to-day. He said: "I don't see why the Brighton races are not as good as those on other tracks. Certainly the program here furnishes better medium for speculation than those of the other Associations. I thought I should receive as much as Sheephead Bay or Monmouth or the others and refused to cut the price. I have notified Inspector Hyman that no commissions will be received at this track from the poolrooms."

According to the Western Union employees who have established offices at the Hotel Brighton, no effort will be made by the poolmen to secure the results of the Brighton races. If they do the Brighton management will do all in its power to preserve its news.

There is no doubt that there is a heap of trouble ahead in the racing world. From an authoritative source an Evening World reporter learned to-day that the so-called Law and Order League's campaign against "Mouth was being engineered by the Pool-room King, Peter De Lacey.

It is reported that the Monmouth Association has decided to race on Saturdays against Monmouth. This, it is explained, however, that this must be done in order to get the thirty days allowed by law.

The attendance to-day was large. The program was excellent, and some good racing was promised. The opening event contained a fair field of sprinters, with Early Blossom and Lord Dalmony evening favorites. The latter was plunged upon and backed down to odds on, Early Blossom receding to 2 to 1. Against the others it was "Write your own ticket" with the exception of Dalay Woodruff, who was well played. Lord Dalmony had no trouble in beating his rival. Early Blossom was second, and Lallah, a 20 to 1 chance, was third.

The second race was a maiden affair, and as usual a half dozen good talents were played. They were Tradestman and Sierra Nevada Colt, Bon Voyage and Rialland. Rialland, a 7 to 1 chance, upset all calculation by winning easily from Knick Knack Billy, an 8 to 1 chance. A harvest, the favorite, who beat Prince George a length in a pretty nice race. The latter was third and Fallthrough fourth, but the judges placed courtship, who was fifth, in third place.
