

NO FIFTH WHEEL ALLOWED.

NO GEORGE INSPECTORS LET SERVE ON BOARDS OF REGISTRY.

Several Arrests Made of Men Who Wanted to Enforce Their Claims—A Reprimand—No Test Case Yet Prepared—No Unusual Registration Reported.

VERY policeman on duty at a place of registry to-day was carefully equipped by his Captain with stock of law points sufficient to make him a match for any obstreperous would-be George inspector who might show up.

It was explained to the policemen that the General Term of the Supreme Court had decided the appointment of the 512 United Labor party inspectors sworn in by John J. O'Brien to be illegal.

A resolution of the Police Board was also read in each station-house, directing the officers to notify the regular Democratic and Republican inspectors that persons presenting alleged certificates of appointment as election inspectors under chapter 490 of the laws of 1887 must not be permitted to take any part in the organization of the Board of Registry or to act as the fifth inspector until further orders.

The avowed determination of the United Labor party men to attend the polling places, insist upon the validity of the O'Brien certificates and join the Republican inspectors in organizing the Boards of Registry was known to the police, and prompt measures were taken to checkmate such a move.

The policemen on duty were told to ignore any willingness on the part of the regular inspectors to receive or to receive in any way, and in case the latter would not retire peacefully, to arrest them for disorderly conduct.

Generally speaking, the George inspectors behaved and did not make any serious trouble. Most of them, seeing it was useless to fight against the decision of the court and the action of the police authorities, stayed away from the polling places and went to their homes as usual.

At about a hundred of the 512 registry places the "fifth" inspector appeared, showed his certificate, was told that he could not act, and was left with the best grace he could muster.

A number, however, proved obstinate and caused a good deal of trouble. In the Fifteenth Election District of the Second Assembly District was William J. Dobbin, of No. 76 Elizabeth street.

Patrick H. Callahan, the Chairman of the Board, who is a Republican, wanted to address Mr. Dobbin and to give him a good talking. His Republican colleague sustained him, but the Democratic members looked powerfully and so did Policeman Granville.

ROBERT GARRETT IN A RAGE.

IMPORTANT MEETING OF THE BALTIMORE AND OHIO FINANCE COMMITTEE.

President Pro Tem. Burns Harassed by Mr. Garrett but Commanded by Members of the Committee—A Director Talks Entertainingly of the Road's Investments and Prospects—Latest News of the Sale.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 11.—The Finance Committee of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company met to-day with William F. Burns as Chairman. The other members present were John K. Cowan, John Gregg and T. Harrison Garrett, representing the stockholders, and two representatives of the city and one of the State's interest in the road.

A member of the committee stated that Robert Garrett is feeling very sore over the sale of the telegraph company and is still in a rage at President pro tem. Burns for having consummated the sale during his absence from the United States. The director said there is no doubt that Mr. Garrett would like to interfere with the sale, if he could do so, with a prospect of making a fortune.

The director was asked if the sleeping-car system would not be sold at an early day, and says he shall not only oppose its sale, but will, at the meeting of the directors to-morrow, insist that the charges of its service shall be reduced. At present the tariff is much too high. The cars are kept full only about half of the time.

The director was asked if the sleeping-car system would not be sold at an early day, and says he shall not only oppose its sale, but will, at the meeting of the directors to-morrow, insist that the charges of its service shall be reduced. At present the tariff is much too high. The cars are kept full only about half of the time.

The director was asked if the sleeping-car system would not be sold at an early day, and says he shall not only oppose its sale, but will, at the meeting of the directors to-morrow, insist that the charges of its service shall be reduced. At present the tariff is much too high. The cars are kept full only about half of the time.

The director was asked if the sleeping-car system would not be sold at an early day, and says he shall not only oppose its sale, but will, at the meeting of the directors to-morrow, insist that the charges of its service shall be reduced. At present the tariff is much too high. The cars are kept full only about half of the time.

The director was asked if the sleeping-car system would not be sold at an early day, and says he shall not only oppose its sale, but will, at the meeting of the directors to-morrow, insist that the charges of its service shall be reduced. At present the tariff is much too high. The cars are kept full only about half of the time.

The director was asked if the sleeping-car system would not be sold at an early day, and says he shall not only oppose its sale, but will, at the meeting of the directors to-morrow, insist that the charges of its service shall be reduced. At present the tariff is much too high. The cars are kept full only about half of the time.

The director was asked if the sleeping-car system would not be sold at an early day, and says he shall not only oppose its sale, but will, at the meeting of the directors to-morrow, insist that the charges of its service shall be reduced. At present the tariff is much too high. The cars are kept full only about half of the time.

WEBSTER'S GREAT MYSTERY.

Queer Conduct of the Woodstock Hotel-Keener—A Discovery by Two Boys.

WEBSTER, Mass., Oct. 11.—The fresh evidence in the Lillie Hoyle murder, published exclusively in THE EVENING WORLD of yesterday, has excited no little comment here, and there are many who believe that the first big clue has at last been hit upon.

The story told by Mr. Wilson, of Woodstock, that the occupants of a carriage he met on the night the girl disappeared were looked for a place of rendezvous, and that one of the young ladies was recently suffering with this story in itself would seem entitled to careful investigation, but taken in connection with the strange conduct of the hotel-keeper at Woodstock, to which place the occupants of the carriage were directed, it has even greater weight.

The strength of the evidence is still further increased by the fact that a carriage, naturally believed to be the same as seen near Woodstock, was also seen later in the night in the village here.

The vicinity of Woodstock is just the sort of locality which would naturally be selected to keep a secret. It is a little more than ten miles from here, and is not connected with the outside world by either railway or telegraph wire. The highways round about are seldom traveled after sundown. If it had been desired to take the girl's life, or to perform a secret operation, the vicinity would have been well chosen.

The idea of premeditation in the murder in connection with the new theory is now would pretty generally thrown aside, as it would not seem likely that the murderer would have been seeking a public house in which he had intended to commit the crime. On the other hand, if they had intended to administer a fatal dose of chloroform and should have made the pretense of their victim that the dose was to enable them to perform an operation, it would have been almost necessary, in order to carry out the deed, to take her to some house.

Last night a glove, a handkerchief and a bottle of alcohol were discovered concealed in the walls of an old building a few hundred feet from the spot where the body of the girl was found.

The handkerchief was marked "O. E. Berle" and the name of the articles were found by two boys who were playing about the building and who, like many others of the inhabitants here, have become amateur detectives since the tragedy was made public. The things were turned over to the authorities.

The director was asked if the sleeping-car system would not be sold at an early day, and says he shall not only oppose its sale, but will, at the meeting of the directors to-morrow, insist that the charges of its service shall be reduced. At present the tariff is much too high. The cars are kept full only about half of the time.

The director was asked if the sleeping-car system would not be sold at an early day, and says he shall not only oppose its sale, but will, at the meeting of the directors to-morrow, insist that the charges of its service shall be reduced. At present the tariff is much too high. The cars are kept full only about half of the time.

The director was asked if the sleeping-car system would not be sold at an early day, and says he shall not only oppose its sale, but will, at the meeting of the directors to-morrow, insist that the charges of its service shall be reduced. At present the tariff is much too high. The cars are kept full only about half of the time.

POLICEMAN HAHN ANXIOUS.

THE STORY OF THE KILLING OF CAPT. HUSSEY TOLD IN COURT.

Many Women Denied Admission to the Court-Room—Hussey's Widow Appears for the First Time—Mr. Howe in New Raiment—Col. Edwards Examines the Witnesses—Some Interesting Incidents of the Trial.

BEFORE the doors of the Court of General Sessions, stalwart officers stood this morning and turned away morbid curiosity-seekers. Policeman Edward Hahn, young, stalwart and handsome, was a favorite with the ladies on his beat. In fact he had but just left a young lady at her door when he met Capt. Jack Hussey on the night of the shooting. Several well dressed and very nice looking young women were met at the door of the court-room to-day with the question, "Are you witnesses?"

A negative reply was met with the gruff rejoinder: "Go home!" from the gruff guardian of the door. Inside there was a "beggarly array of empty benches" and nearly all of those present were actors in the drama of Trial by Jury.

Mrs. Hussey, the widow of the man shot by Policeman Hahn, and her daughter appeared in Court for the first time this morning. Mrs. Hussey was dressed in deepest mourning, a large veil hanging about her head, framing a sad and weary-eyed face.

Hahn's expression of anxious interest was renewed with the calling of the first witness, and he never took his eyes off a witness during his examination. Counselor Howe wore his Old coat to-day, from a long kept pin, it being the third day of the trial. A golden owl, with dazzling diamond eyes, looked out from his neck scarf.

Col. Edwards, who testified, testified that he had a drink with Jack Hussey at 9 o'clock on the evening of the shooting and Hussey was sober then.

Col. Edwards, who testified, testified that he had a drink with Jack Hussey at 9 o'clock on the evening of the shooting and Hussey was sober then.

Col. Edwards, who testified, testified that he had a drink with Jack Hussey at 9 o'clock on the evening of the shooting and Hussey was sober then.

Col. Edwards, who testified, testified that he had a drink with Jack Hussey at 9 o'clock on the evening of the shooting and Hussey was sober then.

Col. Edwards, who testified, testified that he had a drink with Jack Hussey at 9 o'clock on the evening of the shooting and Hussey was sober then.

MINISTER MANNING DEAD.

The End so Unexpected That None of His Friends Were at His Bedside.

Judge Thomas C. Manning, United States Minister to Mexico, died at the Fifth Avenue Hotel at 9.15 o'clock this morning.

He arrived at the hotel from his home in New Orleans Tuesday of last week to attend the meeting of the Peabody Educational Fund, of which he was a trustee. That evening he was taken suddenly ill with peritonitis and remained in his bed until his death this morning.

Though aware of his illness his family were led to understand that it was not necessarily a fatal attack and, in consequence, not one of his relatives or friends were at his bedside when he died.

Dr. William M. Polk, of No. 13 East Thirty-fourth street, was the attending physician. The remains were taken in charge by Undertakers James S. Huyler & Son, of No. 107 East Twenty-seventh street, who will embalm them for transportation to New Orleans.

Mr. Manning's resignation as Minister to Mexico has been handed in to the Department of State, and it was confidently asserted that he would be a candidate for U. S. Senator from Louisiana.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—A general impression prevails here that Charles B. Connerly, Consul at Mexico and now Charge d'Affaires, will succeed Manning as Minister to Mexico.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—A general impression prevails here that Charles B. Connerly, Consul at Mexico and now Charge d'Affaires, will succeed Manning as Minister to Mexico.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—A general impression prevails here that Charles B. Connerly, Consul at Mexico and now Charge d'Affaires, will succeed Manning as Minister to Mexico.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—A general impression prevails here that Charles B. Connerly, Consul at Mexico and now Charge d'Affaires, will succeed Manning as Minister to Mexico.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—A general impression prevails here that Charles B. Connerly, Consul at Mexico and now Charge d'Affaires, will succeed Manning as Minister to Mexico.

TERMINAL RAILROAD ACCIDENT ON THE CHICAGO AND ATLANTIC RAILROAD.

North Jackson, Ind., Oct. 11.—A terrible railroad accident occurred just west of here last night. A fast freight train ran into the rear of an express train and four or five cars were burned, including a Pullman sleeper.

From fifteen to twenty are dead, and as many more injured. The wreck is on the Chicago and Atlantic Road. Kout, the small station near which it occurred, is fifty-five miles from Chicago. It is inferred that the ill-fated train was the passenger and express from the East due in Chicago this morning.

A relief expedition was quickly and secretly organized by the railroad officials here and despatched to the scene. Other help was to be hurried forward as soon as possible. The officials of the company refuse all information. As nearly as can be judged the horror occurred between 5 and 6 o'clock this morning.

A telegram received at 11.55 A. M. says that ten dead bodies had already been taken from the wreck, and the men conducting the ghastly work were unable to say how many other corpses were still in the debris. In addition to the bodies the injured number at least twenty-one persons.

A telegram received at 11.55 A. M. says that ten dead bodies had already been taken from the wreck, and the men conducting the ghastly work were unable to say how many other corpses were still in the debris. In addition to the bodies the injured number at least twenty-one persons.

A telegram received at 11.55 A. M. says that ten dead bodies had already been taken from the wreck, and the men conducting the ghastly work were unable to say how many other corpses were still in the debris. In addition to the bodies the injured number at least twenty-one persons.

A telegram received at 11.55 A. M. says that ten dead bodies had already been taken from the wreck, and the men conducting the ghastly work were unable to say how many other corpses were still in the debris. In addition to the bodies the injured number at least twenty-one persons.

A telegram received at 11.55 A. M. says that ten dead bodies had already been taken from the wreck, and the men conducting the ghastly work were unable to say how many other corpses were still in the debris. In addition to the bodies the injured number at least twenty-one persons.

A telegram received at 11.55 A. M. says that ten dead bodies had already been taken from the wreck, and the men conducting the ghastly work were unable to say how many other corpses were still in the debris. In addition to the bodies the injured number at least twenty-one persons.

A telegram received at 11.55 A. M. says that ten dead bodies had already been taken from the wreck, and the men conducting the ghastly work were unable to say how many other corpses were still in the debris. In addition to the bodies the injured number at least twenty-one persons.

A telegram received at 11.55 A. M. says that ten dead bodies had already been taken from the wreck, and the men conducting the ghastly work were unable to say how many other corpses were still in the debris. In addition to the bodies the injured number at least twenty-one persons.

OFFICER WELSH ACCUSED OF CRUELTY BEATING A PRISONER.

David Kenaley, a Printer, Roughly Handled in Front of a House on Pell Street—What Eye Witnesses Say of the Affair—More Testimony to be Taken in the Case by Justice Patterson to-morrow.

Officer Welsh, of the Sixth Police Precinct, appeared before Justice Patterson in the Essex Market Police Court this morning and charged David Kenaley, a printer, of No. 9 Pell street, and James Connelly, a boat cabman, who lives near by, with disorderly conduct. Officer Welsh said that his beat extended from Worth to Mott streets to Broadway. He admitted that the arrests occurred in Pell street, about three blocks away from his beat, but that he went out of his way, because, while returning to the police station in Elizabeth street, where he had lodged a prisoner, somebody told him that there was a fight in Pell street. He said that when he passed No. 11 Pell street, Kenaley, the prisoner, seized him by the coat and that the other man, Connelly, came up soon after and seized him by the arm of the coat, and that in the struggle he clubbed Kenaley over the head. He said that he was thrown to the ground, but in the fall, he did not retain any marks from the blow.

Mrs. Anna Toole, of No. 11 Pell street, where the arrest was made, said: "Last evening about 8.30 Mr. Kenaley, my son Edward and his wife and myself were standing in front of our door when Officer Welsh came out of No. 9 Pell street, which is an open point. He came up to us, and told us to get away. I said, 'What has he got done with you?' He then turned to Kenaley and looked at me and said 'I want a sober man to take to the station house.' He got hold of Kenaley by the shoulder and began to club him over the head and all over. I was afraid the poor fellow was going to be killed. Just then Connelly came across the street and I said to him 'What are you doing?' He said 'I am going to take him to the station if you want me to.' He picked up the officer's hat and put it on his head, and another officer came up and both were then taken to the station house."

August Schaefer, a young man employed in the factory at Nos. 12 and 14 Pell street, said that Welsh came to No. 9 Pell street, where, as far as he knows, the girl with whom Welsh kept company lives, and that after he had seized Kenaley he began to beat him in the face with his head until the former's face became disfigured and his right eye badly swollen. He said: "I'll help you take the fellow a blow over the head which he heard distinctly three doors away. He did not see anybody strike the officer."

Edward Welsh, appearing before his doctor, reported to Supt. Murray to-day by Capt. Hooker, of the Harlem police.

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Otto Maier, the wife of a lawyer, living at No. 327 East One Hundred and Twentieth street, drew $63 at the Harlem Savings Bank at Third avenue and One Hundred and Twenty-fourth street, and was on her way home, holding her bank-book with the money in her hand, when a man matched and ran towards First avenue.

Mrs. Maier ran after him screaming "Stop thief." It was 3 o'clock and there were plenty of people in the street, some of whom joined in the chase. At First avenue the thief turned south, with the pursuers half a block behind, shouting and getting in each other's way. There were scarce half a dozen of them, at One Hundred and Nineteenth street, he turned into Pleasant avenue, running like a deer, and easily distancing his pursuers. There he was lost to sight.

Mrs. Maier told the police that she had noticed the thief standing near her in the bank. The police took a description of the fellow and a general alarm was sent out. Inspector Evans has detailed detectives to aid in the search.

IRVING HALL. Acqueduct Commissioner Ridgway and Other Prominent Members Resign.

IRVING HALL is being disrupted. At a recent meeting of the Executive Committee the delegates from the Twentieth and Twenty-first Assembly Districts withdrew because a resolution to endorse or nominate only Democrats for office was tabled.

These gentlemen have also resigned their membership in the Seaman's Club and the Irving Hall social organization.