The Story of Our Country. By Albert Payson Terhune.

No. 23.—The "Slavery Shadow" Appears. All men are created equal. They are endowed by their Creator with Liberty. Thus wrote Thomas Jefferson, owner of a horde of slaves. George Washington, another slaveholder, also disapproved of slavery. So did thousands of men whose fortunes depended upon slave labor.

CASSIDY OF THE BORDER. CASSIDY, the Queens boss arrested yesterday, has his residence at Far Rockaway, near the southeastern edge of the metropolis, and his power in Long Island City, across the East River from mid-Manhattan. In the territory between his home and his stronghold are race tracks, cemeteries, breweries, beach resorts, pleasure parks and truck farms as well as factories and commuting villages.

THE ROMANCE OF ROADS. WHEN an economic argument collides with a sentiment, the former gets the worst of it. Canada proved this when it rejected reciprocity in a flag-waving campaign.

The Jarr Family. Mrs. Jarr Comes Home and Learns Fearsome Truths. "Did they eat their oatmeal?" asked Mrs. Jarr, noting in the dining room the uncleaned-away breakfast dishes.

THE SOURCE. THE climate of Heaven has been determined by two youthful philosophers, announced George Atlas. "While waiting along a muddy street the other morning I heard a little chap say to his sister: 'I don't ever rain in Heaven, does it, May?'"

DANGER IN THE WOODS. ONE of the fictions of the time is that all men shot in the woods were "mistaken" for deer. Most of them were, no doubt. But how comes it that farmers so frequently fire at balloons?

Sandman Stories. Written and Illustrated by Eleanor Schorer.

JACK FROST. I was late in the month of September when Queen Rose summoned her subjects to tell them something very important. They came quickly, and when they were all comfortably seated at the foot of her throne she spoke to them in a low, sweet voice.

The Day's Good Stories.

HIS PROTEST. Mrs. Benham—Before you married me you said that I was a queen. Benham—Well, I no longer believe in a monarchical form of government. —Chicago News.

The May Manton Fashions.

THE Russian suit that is closed at the left shoulder is an exceedingly smart one. This one is just as pretty as well can be. There is a pocket inserted in the left front that is useful as well as smart, and either a belt of the material or one of leather can be worn. In the illustration white serge is finished with simple stitching, but suits of this kind are needed for playtime as well as for afternoon, and dark colored serge, wool cheviot, galatea of the crepe with a washable material are appropriate.

Letters From the People.

Men's Work. To the Editor of The Evening World: In reference to the much abused "stray dog," we have had one of those poor animals as a household pet for many years, and would not part with him for all the brutal, hairy-brained cranks in the world.
