PERILS OF LONG HATPINS TOLD BY THE CLUBWOMEN IN PLEAS TO ALDERMEN

Committee Gives a Hearing on Ordinance Providing for Protection From Sharp Point. BACHELOR OPPOSES IT. Downing Is Cynical and Is Accused of Heckling Women Advocates of Measure.

If a public hearing held in the City Hall this afternoon before the Committee on Laws and Legislation was any criterion, there promises to be a riot in the Board of Aldermen when the breecher hatpin ordinance comes up for passage. From the attitude of certain Aldermen it would appear that they are opposed to an ordinance which would inflict a $50 fine upon a woman wearing more than a half inch of the sharp point of a hatpin unprotected in a public place.

After Aldermen showed themselves to be decidedly in favor of the ordinance. Half a dozen clubwomen argued for its passage. But the most passionate and eager leaders were the dozens of inventors and dealers who were on hand to exhibit safety devices ranging from a cork to impale on the sharp end of a hatpin to a scheme for anchoring the hat to the hair on the inside of the crown with a sort of celluloid anchor attached to a piece of rubber.

Views of a Bachelor. Alderman Downing of Brooklyn, who is a bachelor and has never been stabbed by a hatpin or Cupid's dart, showed plainly that he does not realize the seriousness of the situation. He virtually sneered at the idea that hatpins as worn at present are dangerous.

Alderman Drescher opened the hearing with a speech. He said he had introduced the ordinance in good faith. "Not a Joke, He Says."

"I want my efforts in this direction regarded seriously by my colleagues and not in the spirit of fun as a certain few are inclined to treat some of the matters presented to this board," said the Alderman.

"It is true," asked Alderman Johnny White, "that you favor the return to the old style of the rubber band-passing down under the chin?"

"It is immaterial to me how women fasten their hats on," replied Alderman Drescher, "just so they don't change the eyes and faces of the public. I have been deluged with correspondence favoring the ordinance."

Alderman Downing read a long letter from one who described himself as a laboring man and said that in the subway he was stabbed by a hatpin protruding from the hat of a fat woman covered with diamonds, and his neck hurt for ten minutes.

Then Mrs. Carlin told of meeting a gentleman in the Waldorf yesterday who had a cut on his face extending from his mouth to his left ear, the mark of a hatpin's caress. She told of a woman of her acquaintance who was stabbed in the eye by the end of a hatpin on a street car and had to spend six months in a dark room in consequence.

Accused of Heckling. Alderman Campbell and Alderman Downing asked many questions. Alderman Drescher accused them of heckling the women. Alderman Downing suggested that it would be wrong to try to force women to adopt any kind of a style.

"It seems to me," he said, "that we could bring about hatpin reform by a"

SIX IN AEROPLANE, TWO ASTRIDE SKIDS, TRAVEL 13 MILES

Roger Sommer Takes Five Passengers in Town-to-Town Round Trip in France.

FLIGHT A BIG SUCCESS.

French Aviator Breaks His Own Record in Dash From Douzy to Romilly and Back.

PARIS, Jan. 25.—Roger Sommer made a flight with five passengers to-day from Douzy to Romilly and return, a distance of thirteen miles. There were no seats for two of the passengers and they had to maintain perilous perches, straddling the skids. His achievement to-day broke his own best record.

Sommer has been steadily working toward a record for carrying passengers for considerable distances, believing that it will tend to the successful use of aeroplanes for military purposes. On April 20 at Charleville he stayed in the air five minutes with four passengers.

The aeroplane in which Sommer made to-day's flight had the greatest lifting capacity of any he has yet used. He estimated the weight of himself, his five passengers and the petrol in his tanks at 1,000 pounds.

The first aviator to carry a passenger aloft in an aeroplane was Leon Delagrange, the sculptor-airman, who was afterwards killed. In a Voisin biplane, near Paris, March 22, 1908, he took Henry Farman in the air for a few seconds. Delagrange also carried the first woman ever known to ascend in an aeroplane, Miss Therese Fellet.

The initial three-man flight was made with Henry Farman as pilot at Rheims, France, Aug. 28, 1906. Farman was also the first to take four persons aloft at Mauremelon, France, Aug. 1, 1910, and on the same day De Baeder performed a similar feat in a Voisin biplane. Louis Breguet made the next record by carrying six passengers Aug. 29, 1910, and Farman repeated this Nov. 3.

The American records are: First passenger carrying flight, Wilbur Wright, at Kitty Hawk, N. C., May 14, 1903; largest number of passengers carried, four, by Charles F. Willard, in a Curtiss biplane, at Mineola, L. I., Aug. 14, 1910.

JURY DEADLOCKED IN SCHENK CASE; WOMAN HOPEFUL

Prisoner and Her Lawyer Believe Delay Means Acquittal or a Disagreement.

WHEELING, W. Va., Jan. 25.—After being out for twenty-four hours the jury in the Schenk poisoning case this afternoon asked to be dismissed, as they were hopelessly divided. Judge Jordan refused to consider the request. The defense claims the jury is ten to two for acquittal and the prosecution makes the same claim for its side.

Judge Jordan announced at 4 o'clock that he would call in the jury at 5 o'clock, and if no agreement had been reached he would probably discharge them.

The only indication of the trend of the discussion by the jurors was when a note was sent this morning from the jury room to Judge Jordan asking for the testimony of Florence Coleman, Mrs. Schenk's colored laundress, and a State's witness. The Court called the jurors in and ordered the stenographer's notes of the testimony transcribed. Florence Coleman testified that on the occasion of an auto party in which Schenk, his wife and Alma Evans, the nurse, participated, there were two women left in the house with her. The defense attempted to establish the impression that these women were detectives, leaving the assumption that they had plenty of time to put poison into the rich packer's drinking water. This was part of the plan to prove a "family conspiracy" against Mrs. Schenk.

Mrs. Schenk spent most of the morning in her cell. When she came into court she was in her usual pleasant spirits. The only trace of the hysteria she showed while Prosecutor Handan was closing the case yesterday was in her slightly swollen eyes. On the card attached to the testimony transcribed, she said: "I don't think I slept a wink last night. I was too nervous." A big bunch of violets was sent to the prisoner today. On the card attached were the words "With the sympathy of Wheeling women." The gift was received with great delight.

EIGHTH BALLOT IN ALBANY ON SENATORSHIP.

(Special from a Staff Correspondent of The Evening World.)

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 25.—Senator Edgar T. Brackett announced to-day that he intends to offer a resolution instructing the Committee on Privileges and Elections of the Senate to investigate the charges that Charles F. Murphy, through Patrick E. McCabe, the Senate clerk, has been attempting to influence the action of legislators by using the power of patronage.

The statement came as a result of the resolution of Senator Franklin D. Roosevelt directing the Senate clerk to appoint Morgan Hoyt clerk of the committee on Forest, Fish and Game. Senator Roosevelt's resolution brought on a bitter fight in the Senate. Republican Leader Brackett immediately took up the cudgels for young Roosevelt.

"I want to give notice now," he said, "that later I shall offer a resolution directing the Committee on Privileges and Elections to investigate the outside interference in the distribution of Senate patronage. This is contempt of the Senate and we should resent the interference of Tammany or any other hall. It is our duty to make a thorough investigation of these conditions and find out what sinister influence caused this appointment to be revoked. It is up to the Senate to punish those who are guilty of this act of contempt."

Wagner Makes Denial.

Senator Robert F. Wagner answered Senator Brackett, declaring that the question of Senator Roosevelt's vote on the United States Senatorship had not entered into the question of the appointment of the clerk to the Committee on Forest, Fish and Game, and he assured young Roosevelt that he would have a clerk competent to do the work of that commission. "Big Tim" Sullivan in his inimitable way gave some fatherly advice to Senator Roosevelt, addressing his remarks jointly to Brackett and Roosevelt.

"It is very easy to see," he said, "that the leader of the Republican party in

YOUNG ASTOR'S ICE YACHT RUNS DOWN A WOMAN

Mrs. Henry Kipp Badly Injured in Accident on Hudson, Near Poughkeepsie.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Jan. 25.—Vincent Astor, son of John Jacob Astor, while racing at top speed in his ice yacht on the Hudson near Poughkeepsie to-day ran down and injured Mrs. Henry Kipp.

Mrs. Kipp was skating. When she sought to veer off from the flying yacht young Astor steered in the same direction, and before either could turn a collision occurred. The young woman was thrown heavily on the ice, and Vincent Astor got a bad shaking up when his ice yacht turned over with a crash. He managed to right the yacht, however, and get the injured Mrs. Kipp aboard. Then he headed for shore, where he had left his automobile and chauffeur.

Mrs. Kipp was rushed to the Thompson Hotel in the Astor automobile. While badly injured, the doctors said there was a good chance for her recovery.

ZENA DARE SECRETLY WED TO VISCOUNT ESHER'S SON.

Actress Appeared on Stage After Her Marriage to Capt. Brett—His Family Wanted Delay.

LONDON, Jan. 25.—Zena Dare, the actress, and Maurice Vyner Brett, the second son of Viscount Esher, were married secretly at the Registry Office in this city last Monday. The bride appeared on the stage at Cardiff, Wales, the same night. The Esher family had desired that the ceremony be postponed until Miss Dare was able to quit the stage upon the expiration of her contracts. Brett is a captain of the Coldstream Guards.

Many False Clues Telephoned by Persons Who Locate Dorothy Arnold in Various Points Are Run Down Vainly by Her Distracted Father.

Except for one clue, which may or may not be worth anything, the first day of the public search for Miss Dorothy H. C. hunt which the distracted family, through the medium of police, detectives and lawyers, have been conducting under cover for more than a month and a half.

This single clue centres about the identity of a mysterious young woman of apparent refinement who tried to buy an outfit of male apparel, avowedly for the purposes of disguise, and who wanted to pledge expensive jewelry in a water front pawnbroker's warehouse yesterday afternoon, a few hours before the parents finally decided to give out the facts for publication, in the hope that publicity, setting innumerable sharp eyes watching, might bring them news of their vanished daughter.

Thousands of dollars had already been spent in the hunt for the young woman before her parents and their lawyers, as a last resort, gave the story to the newspapers. Thousands more will be spent, for the aged father has said there is no limit, within sanity, that he will not pay for information that leads to the finding of his daughter, dead or alive.

Here was a young woman, pretty, aristocratic, refined, ideally happy in her home, devoted to her parents, without any serious love affair of any sort, so all her people say, contented, absolutely normal and balanced in her thoughts and her life, who, taking with her only such funds as one in her circumstances might carry for casual purchases, stepped out of the house door on a bright winter forenoon seemingly intent on plans for a new Christmas frock.

She bought half a pound of sweets at one place and a light novel at another, and from that moment was gone from the ken of her whole circle of acquaintances as completely as though she had never existed.
