RICHEST PLUMS IN STATE HANDS OVER BY GOV. GLYNN TO TAMMANY'S HENCHMEN

Schulz, Representative of "The Chief" in the Bronx, Lands a $15,000 Post.

FINE JOB FOR MCABE.

Eugene Lamb Richards Becomes State Bank Superintendent at $10,000 a Year.

Staff Correspondent of The Evening World.

ALBANY, March 28.—Tammany Hall has no reason to complain of Gov. Glynn's selections for the important offices to be filled as the Legislature was winding up the regular session of 1914 early this morning. An out-and-out Tammany Governor could not have been more kind to the Murphy organization.

The most important appointment made by the Governor was that of George M. S. Schulz of the Bronx to be Public Service Commissioner for the First District. Mr. Schulz is a first-last-and-all-the-time Tammany man and has been elected to every office he ever held on the Tammany ticket.

When the Tammany forces split in the Bronx and Eugene McGuire led a revolt Mr. Schulz stood by Fourteenth street. He ran for Surrogate on the Tammany ticket last fall and was elected. He is now in the office of Surrogate of the Bronx, which Tammany will try to fill.

MURPHY DID NOT BACK SCHULZ, BUT—

Gov. Glynn's friends say that Mr. Schulz was not Charles F. Murphy's choice, that Murphy was rooting for Thomas J. Quinn of the Bronx. It is that as it may. Gov. Glynn could not have picked a more representative Tammany officeholder than Mr. Schulz if Murphy had led him up by the hand.

Gov. Glynn's friends say that the Governor picked Mr. Schulz because of personal friendship. Some said that the Governor and Mr. Schulz were classmates at Fordham University. This is a mistake. Mr. Schulz never attended Fordham. But he has long been a close personal friend of the Governor, who admires his personality and ability. Incidentally, Mr. Schulz is one of the most popular men in the Bronx and can be depended upon to get out a large vote on Election Day for any candidate he is interested in.

Mr. Schulz ran away ahead of his ticket last fall. If he was not the choice of Charles F. Murphy he was undoubtedly the choice of Arthur Murphy, who is Charles F.'s lieutenant in the Bronx.

While not an out-and-out Tammany man, William Temple Tammett, placed by the Governor on the upper State Public Service Commission, is friendly to the machine. He had the Tammany endorsement when he was made Insurance Commissioner by Gov. Dix.

Patrick E. McCabe of Albany, appointed Conservation Commissioner, has long been Charles F. Murphy's lieutenant in Albany County. He could not be closer to Tammany Hall if he were a district leader in New York City. But he is also a lifelong friend and staunch admirer of Gov. Glynn and the latter owes much of his political advancement to the assistance of "Packer" McCabe.

Eugene Lamb Richards of Staten Island selected Superintendent of Banks, is a Charles F. Murphy man. He was very close to William Sulzer during the early days of that states-

SLAIN MAN FOUND IN BURNED HOUSE; WATCHMAN HELD

Firemen Find Charred Body in Ruins With Long Knife Still in Hand.

A body supposed to be that of Patrick Sheels of No. 554 West Fifty-first street was found mutilated today in the fire-gutted boathouse at One Hundred and Sixty-first street and the North River.

The boathouse was fired by the murderer in an attempt to hide his crime, but before the body of the victim was destroyed the flames were put out. The man had been killed with a hatchet or cleaver. The top of his head was laid open. Not content with this, the slayer plunged a butcher's knife into the man's brain.

It was near midnight when Patrolman Boylan of the West One Hundred and Fifty-second street station saw flames just below the New York Central tracks skirting the river. He turned in a fire alarm and hustled toward the fire. As he approached the burning boathouse he ran into Edward McDonald, a watchman, twenty-eight years old, who later was arrested on the charge of homicide. On his shirt and coat sleeves there were bloodstains. He said they were made by nosebleed several days ago.

TOLD POLICEMAN THERE WAS NO ONE IN HOUSE.

Is there any one in the boathouse?" asked Boylan.

"No," replied McDonald.

The policeman fought the fire until the arrival of the engines. The flare of the carbide lights of the fireman in the burned out place, after the "vesting down," showed a human body on the floor. The clothes had been burned off and the first examination proved that the man had been murdered. The wooden handle of the knife, sticking out of the smashed skull, was charred.

McDonald was found later and taken to the West One Hundred and Fifty-second street station, where the detectives pined him with questions. He was sullen at first and when he did answer gave conflicting stories. He told the detectives that a man he knew only as "Red" had gone to the boathouse with him to sleep. He said he had awakened "Red" when he smelled the smoke, and that the man had growled at him and said: "Let 'er burn!"

SAVS DEAD MAN HAD LOST MONEY AT CARDS.

Assistant District Attorney Skinner took charge of the case. This morning McDonald said that before going to the boathouse he had played poker at the Audubon Inn with three other men, one of whom was "Red."

"Red" lost what money he had and asked to be given shelter for the night in a boathouse.

When daylight came and a better examination of the burned boathouse could be made the police found that the stove was overturned. They believe the man was killed in an scuffle with the slayer. Remote from the streets and without danger of disturbing others, the two struggled in the little boat on the edge of the river. But for the watchfulness of Boylan the place would have been burned to the water's edge and the charred body of the murdered man swept out into the tide.

Dennis Sheels, an undertaker, of No. 47 McCombs place, the Bronx, identified a burned coat found near the body as he gave his brother, Patrick, last November. The body was sent to the Morgue, pending a coroner's inquest. McDonald's bloody shirt and coat were given to a chemist, who will determine whether the stains on them are old or new.

900 ARMY OFFICERS, READY TO QUIT ON ULSTER QUESTION

Earl Roberts Carried Their Resignations in Pocket to the Ministry.

SEELY WILL GET OUT.

Premier So Far Unable to Induce Head of Army to Remain.

LONDON, March 28.—How much graver than had been publicly realized is the British army complication arising out of opposition of the Unionists in Ulster to the Home Rule bill, was disclosed today by Sir Edward Richard Russell, a staunch supporter of the Government, in a signed article in the Liverpool Daily Post of which he is editor. Sir Edward stated:

"It is a positive fact that when he visited the War Office this week Field Marshal Lord Roberts had in his pocket a list of nearly 900 officers of the army who were ready to send in their papers."

The situation is tense, for up to a late hour to-day no way had been found by the Government to break the deadlock caused by the proffered resignations of Field Marshal Sir John French and Adj.-Gen. Sir John Ewart from their positions at the head of the British army. The Government, however, was still hopeful that its difficulties would be overcome before the House of Commons meets on Monday.

Should the Chief of the General Staff and the Adjutant-General persist in their attitude it is generally believed that Col. John Seely, Secretary of State for War, whose resignation was refused the other day, will leave the cabinet.

In case the Government should be able to devise a mean satisfactory to the Field Marshal and to the Adjutant-General by which the memorandum handed to Brig.-Gen. Gough and giving assurances to the officers that they would not be employed to fight the Unionists in Ulster can be recalled, thus enabling them to retain their posts, the transfer of Col. Seely to some other field of activity probably will satisfy the Liberal and Labor malcontents.

The member of the Cabinet separated to-day for the week-end and most of them have gone on visits to various parts of the country. It is hoped that when the present difficulty in regard to the army has been settled, both Parliament and the country will return to the main issue, namely, the position of Ulster, with perhaps a greater disposition to find a method of settlement by consent.

NEW YORK WOMAN A SUICIDE AT SEA

Mrs. O. Tarkinson Leaps From the Old Dominion Liner Madison.

Mrs. O. Tarkinson, whose address was supposed to be No. 353 Tenth street, New York City, jumped overboard at sea to-day from the Old Dominion liner Madison, according to a dispatch received in this city.

The Madison left New York yesterday. There is no 353 West Tenth street at No. 353 East Tenth street no such person is known.

Oldest Odd Fellow Dead.
RED BANK, N. J., March 28.—John A. Bainton, the oldest Odd Fellow in Eastern New Jersey, died at his home last night. He was seventy-seven. He was a member of Navesink Lodge of Odd Fellows and was its Secretary for over forty years. He was a member of Arrowsmith Post, G. A. O. U.

Parisienne Who Thinks New York Women Perfect and Men a Fright

MME. JOIRE

NEW YORK LADIES! ZE ARE BOOTIFUL! MEN! RAG PICKERS

Mme. Joire Shocked, Too, That Husbands of Lovely Women Don't Wear Beards.

Mme. Suzanne Joire, one of the most famous dressmakers in Paris, who sailed for home to-day on the Olympic of the White Star line, was quite enthusiastic over New York women, but she gave the men a body blow.

"The ladies of New York are the best looking and best gown'd women in America," said she. "The men look like rag-pickers. To watch the ladies in this wretched the ladies of New York are more beautiful.

"I TRIED TO BE GOOD," SAYS GIRL WHO TRIES TO DIE

Victim of Drug Found in Rich Apartment at No. 65 Central Park West.

NOTE TO 'JERRY' SIEGEL.

"I Hope You Realize This," Wrote Victim in a Farewell Note.

Mrs. Jessie Bovine, a pretty young woman of mystery, is a prisoner in the Polyclinic Hospital where she was taken to-day after she had been found senseless from an overdose of a sleeping potion at No. 65 Central Park West.

She was still unconscious several hours after she was admitted to the hospital, though she had short intervals of consciousness in which she wept, but the physicians could get nothing coherent from her. They believe, however, that she will recover.

She was discovered in her bedroom by her maid, who went to arouse her for breakfast. She was senseless but groaning, and on a table beside her reposed the half emptied bottle of the sleeping drug. Policeman Mitchell of the West Sixty-eighth street station summoned Dr. Barton of No. 88 Central Park West. The physician advised the young woman's removal to the hospital.

LEFT NOTE ADDRESSED TO SIBTERS AND BROTHERS.

A note she had written lay on a dresser. It was addressed to "Mrs. Amelia Habcock, 511 1/2 First avenue east, Cedar Rapids, Iowa." It began "My dear sisters and brothers" and went on to say "this is my last will." Then the writer enumerated a score or more of jewels which she divided among her relatives. Most of the pieces were diamond set and apparently worth several thousand dollars. Then the note continued:

"God be my judge for this act. I am sorry to trouble you. God shall do what he likes with my soul. I have been unhappy and bad, and I hope this may be a lesson to some other unfortunate woman.

"The wages of sin is death. I have tried to be good, with no avail. Pray for me once in a while. I have tried to be good, but this is my unfortunate end."

On the envelope beside the address this was written:

"Jerry Siegel. To open and realize the things mentioned in this."

Mrs. Bovine was arrayed in her nightdress when she was found, but the clothing scattered about the room was of beautiful quality and on her fingers were several large diamond rings. Everywhere in the apartment were signs of wealth.

JEROME SIEGEL SAYS HE KNOWS THE GIRL.

Jerome Siegel, who lives at the Hotel Plaza, was greatly shocked when he learned of the girl's attempt on her life.

"I'm dumfounded," said he, "and terribly sorry. I can't imagine why she did it or why she should have addressed a note to me. I have no desire to conceal anything in relation to her. She is the most estimable young woman whom I met in the west some years ago. I know her brothers and her sisters and they are nice people.

"I have seen her occasionally in town here but quite infrequently in the last year or so. I must suppose that she didn't realize what a false position she would place me in by the address on her note. Of course, she must have been greatly excited.

PARTY BREACH WIDENS AS DEMOCRATS WAR OVER PANAMA REPEAL

Harrison of Mississippi Assailing Wilson Lauds Clark and Underwood, and Says Disruption of Organization Threatens.

RHODE ISLAND MEMBER ALSO HITS AT PRESIDENT

While House in Bitter Mood "Heckles" Speakers, Bargain With Great Britain Over Mexico Is Hinted.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—An avalanche of debate, with the prospect of changing few if any votes, was let loose to-day in the House on the Panama tolls exemption repeal. Intense acrimony between the "oldier" opposing the repeal and President Wilson's supporters was evident from the opening. All the while the Clark-Wilson split loomed ominously, overshadowing the actual repeal question.

PALMER GIVES PRINCETON A $300,000 STADIUM

New Athletic Field and Stands Will Seat 41,000 Spectators.

PRINCETON, N. J., March 28.—A stadium to seat 41,000 people has been assured Princeton University through the generosity of Edgar Palmer, 1903, of Rye, N. Y., President of the New Jersey Zinc Company, according to an announcement of President Hibben. The structure will cost probably $300,000, exclusive of grading and approaches. It will take the shape of a horseshoe. The site is Laughlin Field, directly south of the Cannon and the Cap and Gown Clubs, and nearer the campus than the present baseball field.

The gift has been made to Princeton by the son of the man who gave Palmer Physical Laboratory, one of the finest in the country. Although the details have not been worked out, it is said the gift, which is made for the use of the athletic association, will mean a large addition to the endowment and revenues of the university. The athletic association will be able to turn into the university treasury the amount it annually spends on the erection of temporary stands.

Don't Let Any One April Fool You!

April is the great Spring month. A great deal of moving into houses, rooms, apartments, stores, offices, etc., is about to take place.

If a dissatisfied tenant, you find the home or business place you seek? If a landlord, will May 1st leave your vacant property still unoccupied?

But one more month remains in which to decide these important questions.

THE SPEAKER'S BREACH WITH THE WHITE HOUSE WAS FIRST BREACHED BY REPRESENTATIVE HARRISON OF MISSISSIPPI, A DEMOCRAT, WHO OPENED THE DISCUSSION. OPPOSING THE REPEAL, HARRISON VIGOROUSLY DEMANDS THAT UNDERWOOD'S THAT PLACED THE DEMOCRATS IN CONTROL.

"O'Shaunnessy, a Rhode Island Democrat, did not specifically mention the factional fight but he assailed the President for his stand on the tolls. On the other hand, Representative Stevens and Madden, both Republicans, supported the Democratic President, the former lauding him at length.

SPEAKERS FACE HECKLING OF THEIR OPPONENTS.
Representative Knowland, Republican, assailed the repeal in unmeasured terms as "surrendering to Great Britain without a struggle."
"Is the Panama canal now the price of the elimination of Sherrin," he demanded.
