Avoid Having Your Telephone Moved Unless it is Absolutely Necessary

DURING AN AVERAGE MONTH we move approximately 13,000 telephones from one point to another within a building or from one point to another within a room.

ONE THOUSAND, ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY-THREE MEN of our Plant Department, formerly engaged in installing and moving telephones and work incidental thereto, are now in the military service of our country and others are constantly being called to the colors.

UNDER THESE CONDITIONS the employees who must remain at their posts are rendering a patriotic service of great importance in handling the increasing demands for war-time service.

IT IS IMPERATIVE, therefore, during the period of the war, that all unnecessary moving of telephones from one point to another within buildings or within offices, be avoided.

BEFORE YOU REQUEST that your telephone be moved, will you please consider whether it cannot be left in its present location without material inconvenience to you.

YOU CAN HELP to conserve labor for the all-important work of furnishing telephone service for the Government and essential war industries, if you will

STUYVESANT BOYS AID RED CROSS BY SCHOOL SHOP WORK

Have Built Several Carloads of Furniture for Use of Hospital.

By Hazel V. Carter.

Adopting war babies, making surgical dressings and knitting are very fine forms of service for a girls' high school, and knitting may even get by with a class of boys of lower grades—but when the boys of Stuyvesant High School looked around for some way to do their bit—they wanted a man-size job.

And they found it. The result will go out to various base hospitals, Red Cross and hostess houses, June 12, in the form of several car loads of furniture and equipment for practical use—made in the shops by boys of the Stuyvesant High from first-year boy to graduate.

In the early spring the Stuyvesant boys held a Junior Red Cross drive. About $50 was collected among the youngsters, and the next thing was to find the most useful way of spending it. Down at Stuyvesant High "making something" is the greatest joy of the school. The "shops" are the most popular classrooms. So one of the boys suggested the idea to G. F. Stahl, director of the woodworking department.

"I think it would be fine," the student said, "if we could put in some personal work besides the money—we can't make something in the shops and donate it to the Red Cross?"

Not only Mr. Stahl, but every Junior Red Cross member got busy on the idea. Letters went out to Washington, D. C., to find out where the needs were; to various Base Hospitals to find out just exactly what the needs were; and back again to Washington to get the Surgeon General Department for blue-prints in order that the articles might be made in strict compliance with Government orders.

EVERY BOY WAS GIVEN CHANCE TO HELP IN PLAN.

And then lathe and saws in the "shops" began to hum. The work was apportioned to the various classes according to their ability, and at the same time giving each boy a chance to do something. None of the school time was to be used for the service work, but any extra time, before or after school hours, or during idle periods, could be put in at the shops. And many a night the boys worked until the janitors came to lock up the shops.

To-day there are rooms full of furniture, some of it so beautiful that it is hard to believe it was done by other than professional cabinet makers—already ready to be sent, when the last few articles are completed.

The first room that Mr. Stahl shows with pride is the operating table for the Walter Reed Base Hospital, and will be used at the bedside of a patient when one of the surgeons, bandages, dressings, etc. They are made in strict accordance with the directions for the Surgeon General's Dept. of the operating table for the surgeons, bandages, dressings, etc. They are made in strict accordance with the directions for the Surgeon General's Dept. of the operating table for the surgeons, bandages, dressings, etc.

Next the Workroom Director shows you twenty-two tables that have been made for the Red Cross. They are of perfect workmanship in each article that shows something akin to inspiration must have gone into the making of the furniture.

In the same room sixteen small cabinets for the wards of Base Hospital No. 1 are ready and waiting to go. Perhaps one of the most difficult pieces of work was the construction of sixteen telescopic cabinets. One of the instructors and some of the boys took a trip out to Gun Hill Road to see just exactly which kind of cabinet was the most practical for the use of the surgeons there. And they have constructed one which met with the hearty approval of surgeons.

Twenty-two dressing tables with drawers have been provided for the Red Cross hostess houses at the various cantonments. Some of these will be painted white and others a light green, depending on the color schemes of the rooms in which they are to be used.

PRIDE IN THEIR WORK HAS MADE IT PLEASANT. Down in the shops yesterday the first-year boys were working on a job that is their special pride. To them has fallen the task of making letter racks for the boys at the Base Hospital No. 1 to be used in the individual wards. The idea is to afford paper and envelopes for those who are too ill to go down to the desk for supplies.

The letter racks, at the request of the Stuyvesant boys, are designed to look particularly attractive and catch the interest of the invalid. There are two compartments, one for letters and one for envelopes, and they are finished in a soft gray color, with the bright red insignia of the Red Cross on the lower half.

"Aren't they dandies?" one of the boys asked the other as he put the finishing touch on his box. It is this spirit of pride in their work, according to Director Stahl, that has made the work for the hospitals one of the most pleasant in the history of the shop operating on the color schemes of the lower hall.

Perhaps one of the most valuable parts of the work is not yet completed. Instructors and students are working on a device for rolling gauze that will be more satisfactory than that now in use, in that it will wind the gauze in lengths to cut more economically.

The Metal Department boys under the direction of S. A. Gage, instructor, are also helping in the hospital supply work. This part is in despatching and making solder stabs for the laboratories.

WESTCHESTER NOTES.

Dr. William L. Russell of Bloomingdale Hospital and Dr. Edward W. Weber of the Medical Draft Board, following an order signed by County Judge Frank L. Young directing them to make an inquiry as to the mental condition of one Charles Johnson, confined in the White Plains Jail upon indictment charging burglary in the third degree, have made a report, saying: "In our opinion he is insane and in a condition of dementia and should be committed to a State hospital for the insane."

Mrs. Olive Harrison was a guest of honor in White Plains Saturday. She was the occasion of a log cabin to the boys scouts of the county, of which about 300 were present. Mayor Thompson presided. Speakers included President Grant of the Bronx Parkway Commission and Chief Scout Executive Hunt of the Boy Scouts.

A verdict for $2,000 for the plaintiff was brought in by a jury before Justice J. Addison Young this morning in the suit for damages for the death of her husband, brought by Nellie E. Zimmerman against the Union Railway Company, Nov. 11, 1915. Thomas J. O'Neill, a lawyer, was attorney for plaintiff and District Attorney Davis for the railroad company.

Several suits to foreclose mortgages have been started. Frederick H. Hardman has begun suit against Joseph C. Grogan and others for $10,000 on property on Spring Street and on Church Street, this city. The New Rochelle Trust Company has begun action against the Albernarle Realty Company and others for foreclosure for $22,225 on property in New Rochelle. The Union Savings Bank of Westchester has begun suit against Malcolm G. Lyness, Jr. and others for $4,000 on property in Mamaroneck; Helen Brown against Ethel E. Reising and others to foreclose DeLham property amounting to $3,000.

THE WORLD is the only newspaper in America which has had its own correspondent in Russia since the revolution began. Arno Dosch-Fleurot has witnessed the whole Russian drama from its very beginning. His cabled account of the overthrow of the Czar and the birth of the revolution was the only narrative cabled direct to any newspaper in America. Since that time THE WORLD'S direct service from Russia has been unequalled. Of Mr. Dosch-Fleurot the impartial New York Evening Post recently said: "Easily the best of all newspaper men in Russia during the whole period."

THE WORLD is the only newspaper in America—or in the world, for that matter—which has succeeded in reaching into Germany since the United States entered the war and learning the actual, present-day conditions within that Empire. As a result of this effort, requiring months of time and thousands of dollars, THE WORLD has recently given to its readers a series of twenty remarkable articles from Cyril Brown, famed as a war correspondent in Europe, which revealed every phase of Germany's condition to-day. Mr. Brown will soon be heard from again, through THE WORLD.

JAMES G. BLAINE JR. NEW OFFICER IN LIBERTY BANK

Excellent Work for Red Cross Causes His Selection for Vice Presidency.

At a meeting of the directors of the Liberty National Bank yesterday James G. Blaine Jr., grandson of the famous statesman, was elected Vice President and became one of the youngest holding that office in a financial institution in Wall Street. He was graduated from Harvard in 1911 and went to Providence, where he engaged with the New York Life Insurance Company agency. Later he became connected with the investment banking house of Bedell & Co. Several months ago Eliot Wadsworth, introduced him to go to Washington, where Mr. Blaine was made Assistant Director of the Bureau of Production. Next he became Director of the Bureau of Development, the division of the American Red Cross which has charge
