ALLAN A. RYAN A BANKRUPT: HE FAILS FOR $32,435,479 WITH $27,806,984 ASSETS

Voluntary Petition is Filed in the Federal Court by Attorneys. HEAD OF STOCK HOUSE. His Fortune Is Estimated by His Friends at Millions.

ALLAN A. RYAN. BY UNDERWOOD & UNDERWOOD.

Allan A. Ryan of Allan A. Ryan & Co., No. 111 Broadway, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the Federal District Court this afternoon.

Liabilities are placed at $32,435,479, of which $27,806,984 are secured claims.

Assets are mentioned as being $642,523, including securities of $549,898.

Up until a little more than a year ago Allan A. Ryan was one of the most spectacular stock market operators in Wall Street. As a result of his market operations, which were mostly in stocks of companies owned largely by himself and associates, he built up paper profits of many millions of dollars. His close personal friends at one time estimated his fortune at more than $25,000,000.

His most notable performance was the consummation of a market "corner" in stock of the Stutz Motor Company. But while the corner was eminently successful, it began to mark the swift decline of his market power.

As a result of this corner he antagonized many of the most financial powers, and his resignation from the New York Stock Exchange was forced.

Companies in which the bulk of his fortune was understood to be placed began to experience great financial difficulties. Certain of them were forced into receivership.

Early this year Ryan was sued for $1,755,749 by his sister-in-law, Caroline S. Ryan, who alleged that Ryan "wrongfully converted and delivered to his trustees" her securities.

Similar suits had previously been filed by Mrs. I. Townsend Burden and Mrs. Eudora F. Walsh. Mrs. Burden's claim was for $323,111 and Mrs. Walsh's $306,222.

POLICE CAPTURE TWO IN HOUR AFTER $5,355 HOLD-UP

$5,170 of Payroll Recovered After Running Battle With Four Robbers.

TWO OF THUGS ESCAPE. Menace Paymaster in Street With Revolver and Escape in Car.

Four armed men held up Jacob Alux, Vice President of Stutz & Co., cigar box manufacturers, No. 235 Monroe Street, on the crowded corner of Columbia and Broome Streets at 12:30 o'clock to-day, robbed him of a payroll amounting to $5,355 and fled in a Chandler touring car. Within an hour, through excellent police work, the car was located in Long Island City, two of the thugs were captured and $5,170 of the loot was recovered.

When the car reached Columbia and Broome Streets four men closed in on him. One grabbed the package of money. Another threatened Mr. Alux with a pistol. Witnesses made no attempt to stop the thugs as they ran to the automobile which was standing at the curb a few feet away with the engine running.

The car was seen out of sight. Within a few minutes a policeman was on the scene and he immediately telephoned the news of the robbery to Police Headquarters. Capt. Lawrence Hines of the Telegraph Bureau flashed the report to every ferry landing and bridge station and to the railroad terminals. Policemen were notified to look out for a Chandler touring car with four passengers.

Patrolman Michael New of the Queensboro Bridge squad had just received news of the robbery at the Long Island City end of the bridge when the car passed him. He ran after it and the chauffeur, noting the pursuit, got excited and steered the car into a pile of sewer pipe at Mott and Van Alst Avenues, wrecking it. The thugs jumped from the car and separated. New, who had been joined by Patrolman Edward J. Sullivan, gave chase. The thugs fired two shots at the policeman but didn't stop them. After a pursuit of two blocks the cops overtook two of the thugs and nabbed them.

At the Long Island City Detective Bureau the money was found in the pocket of one of the men who described himself as Harry Cohen, city and entering the rear of the country club premises, where they surprised the sleeping garrison.

Irregular troops, preparing for an ambush near Rosetta, Tipperary, were surprised to-day by National Army troops, who captured eleven of the irregulars, with rifles and bombs, says a despatch received here.

NATIONAL TROOPS CAPTURE LIMERICK AND WATERFORD

Shelled City and Under Cover of Night Crossed King's Sound in Barges.

LONDON, July 21 (Associated Press).—The city of Limerick was captured by the Irish National Army, says a Central News despatch from Dublin this afternoon. The Nationals took many prisoners, together with arms and ammunition.

DUBLIN, July 21 (Associated Press).—The Town of Waterford, on the southeast coast of Ireland, which yesterday was stoutly defended by Republican insurgents, has been captured by National Army forces, who have already taken fifty prisoners, says an official report issued by the Nationalist General Headquarters early to-day.

The capture of Waterford was effected by the Nationalists crossing the river two miles southeast of the city and entering the rear of the country club premises, where they surprised the sleeping garrison.

Irregular troops, preparing for an ambush near Rosetta, Tipperary, were surprised to-day by National Army troops, who captured eleven of the irregulars, with rifles and bombs, says a despatch received here.

Ban on One-Piece Bathing Suit At Bradley Beach Creates Shock

The single piece bathing suit has been swept off Bradley Beach, one of the most exclusive resorts on the Jersey Coast.

Notices were stuck up to-day all over the town and among the trees leading to the town; on Main Street and the streets leading to the beach and all along the boardwalk, to the effect that beginning with to-morrow, women bathers must wear skirts and have their limbs entirely covered up. Bradley Beach boasts of its beautiful bathers and in particular of their beautiful, if abbreviated, bathing and dazzling costumes. But never had there been the slightest objection voiced as to the scarcity of the bathing apparel. So the posters which went up this afternoon with the name of Mayor, Frank C. Borden Jr., attached to them, has created a profound shock.

Evasion of the order means arrest and a fine not to exceed $200, or 90 days in jail or both. The ordinance was passed by the city commission yesterday and applies to men as well as women.

U. S. ARMY AVIATOR KILLED BY ACCIDENT AT MITCHEL FIELD

LIEUT. J. P. ROULLOT. FRIDAY

MRS. G. S. FORSYTHE, SICK FOR MONTHS, DIES IN HER HOME

Rose From Teacher to Associate Superintendent of N. Y. Public Schools.

Mrs. Grace Strachan Forsythe, Associate Superintendent of Schools, died in her home, No. 255 West 72d Street, to-day, from spinal arthritis, from which she had suffered since shortly after election to her position in the school system last January.

Having risen from the teaching ranks to the highest place which a teacher could occupy in the schools, Mrs. Forsythe was one of the most widely known educators in the country. For many years an advocate of better working conditions for the women teachers, it was she who led the fight for equal pay for equal work, and first proposed the measure.

She championed the cause of the married women teachers when there was opposition to women continuing in the city's employ after marriage, although she herself, at the time, was unmarried.

Mrs. Forsythe was fifty-nine years old. She was born in Buffalo and attended the schools in that city. Upon graduation from the Normal School in that city when sixteen years old she received her license to teach.

Mrs. Forsythe taught in the grade schools and in the High School in Buffalo. A year later she came to this city with her parents and obtained a position as a teacher in Brooklyn. Later she became a principal and District Superintendent.

She surprised her friends four years ago, while on her vacation, when she married Timothy J. Forsythe, a real estate dealer with an office in Long Beach. Mr. Forsythe was several years her junior.

In addition to her husband she leaves two sisters and two brothers—Mrs. Charles E. Kingsley, wife of an attorney, of No. 255 West 74d Street, and Mrs. Anna G. Cronin, a widow, also of that address; two brothers, John Strachan, a publisher, of this

ARMY FLYER KILLED BY BROTHER LIEUT. AT MITCHEL FIELD

John P. Roullot Accidentally Shot in Abdomen by Robert Purcell.

LEAVES YOUNG BRIDE. Automatic Pistol Discharged As It Is Drawn From Holster.

Lieut. John P. Roullot of the Aviation Corps of the army was shot and instantly killed at Mitchel Field, Mineola, L. I., at noon yesterday by Lieut. Robert Purcell. The tragedy was not made public until Maj. W. R. Weaver, commander of the post, announced to-day his finding that the shooting was entirely accidental.

According to the statement given out from the headquarters of Mitchel Field, Capt. Ira C. Baker and Lieut. Roullot had taken a group of Officers Reserve Corps men to the pistol range to give them instruction in the use of the .45 calibre automatic pistol. There was no target practice contemplated and no ammunition had been issued.

The student officers took their pistols apart to the last screw and spring. The mechanism was explained to them and the name of each part. Then they put the pistols together again and sat about the table, which is used by the seconds on the range, in casual conversation.

Lieut. Purcell, according to the announced result of the investigation, had come to the field with his weapon loaded, had taken out the clip of cartridges before the lesson, and had slipped it back and put the pistol in his holster afterwards.

In the course of the conversation, according to the statement, he had occasion to take the pistol out to ask for some further information and it was discharged as it left the holster.

Lieut. Roullot was sitting on the opposite side of the table. The bullet struck him in the abdomen. A hurried call was sent to the post hospital, but Lieut. Roullot was dead by the time a surgeon reached him.

No report was made by Mitchel Field to civil authorities.

Lieut. Purcell, who was twenty-six years old, was one of the best known aviators in the army. He had recently been assigned to duty at Mitchel Field, coming from France Field, Panama Canal Zone, where he left his wife, a bride of a little more than two months.

Lieut. Purcell's home is at No. 81 East Avenue, Rochester. He is married and has two children. According to his enlistment application, he is forty-five years old.

During the World War Lieut. Purcell was stationed at several Texas flying fields. He was a private in the Reserve Officers' Training Corps in 1917 and in 1918 was commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the Signal Corps, aviation section, as a non-commissioned officer.

Mrs. Roullot was notified by cable this morning by Major Weaver of her husband's death in Rochester. He immediately, and Major J. W. Jones, who is summary court officer of the post, was appointed as a board of inquiry. He will summon before him all the twenty-two officers of the training class as witnesses. It will not with the finding of the board as to whether a court martial shall be ordered. Because of the status of Lieut. Purcell as only on temporary duty the army may turn the whole matter over to the authorities of Nassau County.

STRIKING SHOPMEN PLAN TO SIGN WITH INDIVIDUAL ROADS

Jewell Announces That Men Have Authority to Negotiate Separately.

CHICAGO, July 21. Striking shopmen are ready to negotiate with individual roads.

Hert M. Jewell, President of the shop crafts, declared to-day that peace may result from conferences with separate roads.

"It is my belief, however, that separate agreements would not be as satisfactory as a national agreement," Jewell said, "but our aim is to end the strike. We do not care in what manner it is ended as long as the roads agree to our demands."

Several leading roads were reported ready to negotiate individual agreements.

HOOVER PREPARING TO RATION COAL; RAILROADS FIRST

Public Utilities and Essential Industries Precede Domestic Use.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—The Nation will be put back on a wartime fuel basis if coal production is not resumed in the near future.

With many parts of the country already feeling the effect of a coal shortage that is growing more alarming each day, Secretary of Commerce Hoover is framing plans for the revival of the wartime fuel administration to ration and control the distribution of coal.

Secretary Hoover, after a conference at the White House with President Harding, announced that later to-day he would announce his plan for controlling the distribution of coal through priority orders to the railroads—the first step in the Government's fuel conservation plan.

Secretary Hoover now has agents throughout the country reporting on coal conditions and under the direction of these officials the organization would be expanded into a vast voluntary agency.

Local committees probably would be asked to declare a fair price for coal, in the belief that the price could be enforced through the pressure of public opinion.

Each local committee would determine what coal users in its community should be given fuel to prevent suffering on the part of the public, while the national organization would take steps to distribute the limited supply of coal to parts of the country that were in dire need.

The first step in fuel conservation will be priority orders to railroads to move coal ahead of other freight. Hoover is now working out plans for such orders with the Interstate Commerce Commission. Orders also may be issued giving priority on coal shipments to the Northwest and New England, where the fuel shortage is most acute.

In the event a voluntary fuel administration is established, coal would go first to the Government and the railroads, then the public utilities, the essential industries, the private consumers, and finally to the non-essential industries.

ATTEMPT TO BLOW UP MINES, BURN TIPPLES, SHOOT GUARDS AS TROOPS ARRIVE IN FIELD

Two Frick Properties Attacked by Strikers, One Tipple Fired, Bomb Hurlled at Other—Deputy Sheriff's Home Burned—Attempt to Keep Out Maintenance Men.

PITTSBURGH, July 21.—A battle marked with shootings and attempted dynamitings started in the Fayette County coal fields to-day between striking miners and guards, as National Guardsmen converged on the disturbed area.

Guards at the Dearth mine, owned by the H. C. Frick Coke Company, opened fire on miners as they attempted to set fire to the tipple.

Investigation showed that an attempt had been made to dynamite the mine.

At the Lamont mine, also owned by Frick, a bomb was hurled at the tipple.

Detachments of National Guardsmen were drawing near Fayette County when the battle started. The guardsmen were to make headquarters in Westmoreland County, which adjoins Fayette.

The home of Deputy Sheriff Lindsay Miller, a guard at the Revere mine, was burned to the ground. The family was absent when the fire broke out.

SIAMOKIN, Pa., July 21.—The first disturbance in the lower anthracite coal fields since the suspension went into effect occurred to-day, when a crowd attempted to prevent maintenance men from reporting for work at the Pennsylvania and Richard collieries.

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 21.—Pennsylvania cavalrymen and machine gunners moved into Cambria, Indiana, Somerset, Washington and Westmoreland Counties in the southwestern part of the State to-day to prevent disorder when bituminous mines are reopened.

The whole power of the State Government is being massed behind them. State policemen in the affected districts will act with the soldiers.

With the 1,100 cavalrymen and gunners in the strike districts, more than 4,000 men will move toward Mount Sinaï, in the center of the State, to begin the first of the two periods of active service of the summer encampment, and 5,000 more men are at home stations ready to be called out.

Announcement that guardsmen had been sent into the Southwestern coal fields caused numerous requests for soldiers to be made by operators in other parts of the State. Assurance of readiness to start, if protection could be given, came from a dozen counties, including some of those into which guardsmen entered to-day.

With the announcement that guardsmen were on their way to Western Pennsylvania, important mining interests pushed preparations to re-open the mines, which have been closed by the coal strike.

Four mines in Washington County, selected by the Pittsburgh Coal Producers' Association for immediate operation, were being cleaned up at Hill Station, Hendersonville, Rice Hill and Bridgeville, and it was said that within a few days they would be ready to cut coal.

Only two mines are operating in the county. There have been disorders at both and they are now under guard of State policemen and deputy sheriffs.

From Somerset, Indiana, Westmoreland and Cambria Counties came reports that the operators were preparing to reopen their mines and to increase working forces at mines which were sadly crippled by the strike.

Movement of the soldiers to the soft coal districts is the first to be made as a preventive measure. Heretofore guardsmen have been ordered out when disorder occurred. Many of the men on active duty are ex-cons, and they are equipped like regulars.

the infant rolled off a platform into the hot water in the tub and was scalded to death.
