

40,000 BRAVE RAIN AT POLICE GAMES

Ignore Downpour While Air-men's, Soldiers' and Cops' Feats Thrill Them.

CADETS WIN APPLAUSE Parachute Jump From Speeding Airplane Makes Crowd Hold Its Breath.

It was to be expected that no New York cop would mind the weather. It seemed almost too much to expect that 40,000 of the cops' friends wouldn't mind it. But such was the case yesterday. For 40,000 trundled one way or another to the Sheepshead Bay Speedway and sat there for three hours, right out in the middle of what most of them agreed was the wettest day in history—and not a thing in the whole lot to help a man with wet feet, not a drop of it anywhere in sight. If Doc Copeland has a new epidemic of flu on his hands he can blame it on 2.75.

Aside from the weather—and the Mayor's going to write a letter to Jupiter Fluvius about the matter—the day was completely successful. For few minutes it rained airplanes on the field as the squadrons from Haleshurst Field dropped over. The mounted cops, the cops afoot, the motorcyclists, the sprinters and the hurdlers, the gymnasts from the training school and soldiers and firemen gave the cops a grand old thrill. Even the treacherous rain and mist couldn't dampen the enthusiastic approval of the stunts.

Rain Starts Early.

But it rained persistently and incessantly, almost steadily, from the time of about the third event on the programme. The crowd sought shelter beneath the upper tier of the grand stand and beneath the stand itself, but found the shelter a snare and a delusion. The only difference between the shelter above and under the grand stand were that in the open the drops were small and many and came fresh from the skies, while under the shelter they were large and many and flavored with peanut hulls, tulle hats and shoe polish. It was a tough day on tulle hats and shoe polish, not to mention white shirts and stockings. The Mayor seemed to have an advance tip on the weather, for he wore his second best suit and laid aside the convention that he would wear a last year's straw hat. The Mayor got in his work for the day, however, away from the rain. For the first time in many months he appeared in person at a manuscript, at the luncheon in the Waldorf which preceded the games. He allowed that Commissioner Dickie Enright—the Mayor didn't mention the name of the best Police Commissioner New York ever had. The statement was applauded uproariously by the 400 men and women guests. A keen observer of affairs who was present ventured to guess, nevertheless, that many of the applauders were Mr. Enright's own hired hands.

Jumps From Speeding Plane.

The aviators, despite the bad weather, pulled everything in their repertoire. Their stunts culminated when Lieut. Dowry leaped from an airplane and landed by Lieut. Mitchell's aid. For three sickening seconds his body turned over and over, legs and arms sprawling. Then a white silk parachute opened magically open above him and he drifted to the track while the crowd cheered. The plane had climbed in wide circles to the point of the pilot, catching the daring jumper at the moment of his leap, when his parachute opened, and following him until he had landed safely on the edge of the far banked turn of the speedway.

Deputy Police Commissioner Wallis, who presided at the luncheon in the Waldorf, announced that there would be no speeches. But he introduced to the audience each of the distinguished group at the guest table in a fashion that would have done credit to Joe B'one Humphries. There was the Mayor, of course; Commissioner Enright, who got another cheer; Brig-Gen. Mitchell, in charge of the aviation fields; Rear Admiral Gleaves; Rear Admiral Osterhaus; Mrs. Mitchell, R. A. C. Smith, Ellen A. O'Grady, Deputy Commissioner; Michael Dreiser, Gen. McManus, Gen. Barry, Col. Thompson and Secretary of State Francis M. Hugo.

At another table on the floor at Mrs. Helen and Miss Virginia Hyman, Mrs. W. R. Hearst, Miss Constance M. Hearst, Arthur and Mrs. E. A. Orr, the wife and model of the artist who drew the poster which has featured the announcements of the field day.

Not the least thrilling of the day's events was the ride from the Waldorf to Sheepshead Bay of the Mayor, followed by sixty motor cars bearing the other guests. Fifth avenue, Lafayette street, the Manhattan Bridge, Flatbush avenue and the Parkway were cleared of most other traffic and the sixty cars all big and powerful, raced in a perfect covey all the way. They made the trip in something under twenty-four minutes, dashing by side, heading one another off, jumping from one side of the street to the other and generally behaving under the hands of the drivers of the police reserve in an unbecomingly brusque like a flock of twelve cylinder gazelles.

The Mayor was almost on time at the field. When he came a big crowd of cops was drawn up to greet him, and he and his guests circled the two miles of the speed way and entered their reserved sections amid cheers. As soon as he was seated the first events began. A couple of heats of the 100 yard dash, an eight mile motorcycle race and a single stick battle between platoons of mounted men had been pulled off when the rain came. Out of the lowering sky it burst like shrapnel.

The grand stand rose as one and sought what they thought would be shelter. Out in the field stands, where the People's Liberty Chorus and a half dozen bands sat, a warden island in a sea of mud, there was consternation.

From the field raced women in thin white gowns and witted military and band items as a chorus. They sang cheerful things to keep the courage up—lacking any better means—and kept at it until in a full throated shout the hundred and fifty motors was heard and a score of chamois planes from Haleshurst came fluttering over the field in battle formation. With the sound of the wags Handley Page bomber, only a few inches smaller than the navy's transoceanic seaplanes. One by one they settled gracefully into the field and the crowd backed into the line of the Handley Page stepped Commander John H. Towers and Lieutenant-Commander P. N. L. Bellingier of the Navy.

A procession of officials and aviators was formed, and headed by the police band they were conducted across the track up to the Mayor's Hyman's box. There Commissioner Enright took the floor and told them in a few simple, well chosen words how great they were. He compared them with a man named Columbus, which seemed to interest the two aviators greatly. No doubt it was the only time in the history of the world that Columbus was mentioned in the same breath as the two aviators. He pulled another one about their looking like Cyrus W. Field, and Mr. Bellingier was observed to stroke his chin. The next noticeable thing in the box of the great throughout the rest of the afternoon, however.

"BETROTHED" GIRL FINDS SHE'S WIFE

Orange Bride Asks for Annulment.

Legally married for nearly a year to the man to whom she believed she was only engaged was the situation in which Mrs. John L. Collins, an employee of the Seaboard National Bank, on the grounds that her consent to the marriage was obtained by fraud and deceit.

In her complaint Mrs. Collins states that she is a Roman Catholic and always has considered herself bound by the rules of that religious body, particularly the regulations of the church which hold invalid any marriage not solemnized by an ordained Roman Catholic priest. The defendant, she states, is a Protestant. She alleges Collins obtained her consent to go through the form of a marriage ceremony before a Protestant minister, assuring her that the ceremony would not be binding and would serve as a means of notifying friends of their formal engagement to be married. The ceremony agreed upon was performed in the Rev. Charles R. Dillingham, 17, 1917. After the marriage, Mrs. Collins states, she returned to her mother's home and lived there as before, expecting Collins to make arrangements for the marriage he had agreed upon.

Mrs. Collins alleges that when she discovered the deception and the fact that she was the wife of Collins in the eyes of the law she took immediate steps to have the marriage annulled. She states she has continued to live with her mother, George N. Collins, in an effort to avoid a decree of absolute divorce an order from the court directing Rundle to pay $5,000 to her in a lump sum and to take care of her children. Rundle is described in the papers as being a man of great wealth and the head of several corporations.

$3,000 LEFT TO MRS. COOKE.

Former Fletoria Whaley Gets Bequest From Grandmother.

Mrs. Jere K. Cooke, the former Miss Fletoria Whaley, whose engagement with the Rev. Charles R. Dillingham, L. I., was a great sensation a few years ago, will inherit only $3,000 from the estate of her grandmother, Mrs. Kessiah Whaley, who died recently at Hempstead. It had been supposed that Mrs. Whaley had left a large fortune, but when her will was made public yesterday it was learned that it consisted only of $14,000. Mrs. Cooke shared with her sister, Miss Emma Whaley, an estate of $24,000 left them by their father, John Whaley, in 1906.

Lamborn's body was found crushed under the wreckage of the machine by officers of the air station here who went to the scene of the accident on receipt of a telegraph message from a farmer at Bellefonte. The cause of the accident was not known here. Lamborn, who was reputed as one of the best fliers in the aerial mail service, had been on this route two weeks.
