The Wanamaker Store. The End of the Beginning

A Statement That May Be Interesting Concerning the Wanamaker Advertising and the "Evening Post." Many communications from personal and business friends are coming to us with the statement that the firm of Wanamaker is, in its advertising department, boycotting the "Evening Post" because of its attitude towards the baggage abuse at the Custom House.

The suspension of our advertising relations with the "Evening Post" came about as follows: An attitude that we deemed inimical to the retail interests of New York City appeared in the "Evening Post," which reached extreme expression in an article printed on the 8th of March.

WOMEN'S CLOTHES ABROAD TO BE HAD BETTER AND CHEAPER THERE THAN HERE. Gowns from Paris—Workmanship and Design—Prices of London Coats—Experiences at Home—Dresses Soiled on the Pier.

More Enamelled Ware at Half Prices. A carload of this ware, sold under similar conditions a few weeks ago, lasted less than a day.

About Good Corsets. There are a score and more of styles of the Lillian Corset, but a little talk of only three of them will give some idea of why we claim they're the best corsets made. Try them and you'll agree with us. Not only absolutely perfect in shape, but thoroughly dependable in quality and considerably lower in cost than most other imported corsets.

Two-Piece House Dresses. Prettyly made of percales and ginghams, attractively figured and striped. Waists and skirts are all in the latest styles, effectively finished with narrow ruffles, plaits, braid or embroidery.

Colored Silk Petticoats. Many handsome new shades in this late arrival. This lot is mostly in solid colors, though there are some of heavy changeable taffeta that are greatly admired.

JOHN WANAMAKER. Formerly A. T. Stewart & Co.

More Shoe News in Parallel. The Special Shoe Selling, on the fifth floor, will continue for the present, and as long as we can supply the demand for new shoes at half prices.

News of the Shoe Store. Women's Shoes for Dress Wear. As an illustration of our methods in shoe selling, we show thirty-five styles of women's shoes at FIVE DOLLARS a pair.

Good Offerings on the Fifth Floor. Women's Oxfords at $1.50. Men's Shoes, small sizes, $1.50.

Paris Dress Stuffs. We talk often of "good selection" when we are talking of our assortments. An illustration of what we mean can be found in the present condition of our Parisian dress stuff assortments.

Women's Jackets, Wraps and Capes. Paris, Berlin and New York contribute to the greatest of all showings of outer garments for particular women.

Bed Spreads and Comfortables. A particularly advantageous purchase by us always means a substantial saving for the consumer.

Glace Fruits and Other Candies. The usual price for this quality of glace fruits is 50c. a pound.

Where Art Mimics Nature. The Tenth Street aisle, main floor, is given over to-day to a really remarkable showing and sale of Artificial Flowers.

JOHN WANAMAKER. Broadway, Fourth Ave., Ninth and Tenth Sts.

Spring Wear for Babies and Children. A personal opinion is that the prettiest thing in all nature is a pretty child, prettily dressed. The flowers themselves take rank somewhat below that standard.
