COMMERCE AND A REVEL ARE FEATURES OF SOCIETY'S WEEK

Pageant of Ancient France Interrupts the Quietude of Lent.

WITH the exception of the brief respite of the Mi-Careme, when all society appeared in gorgeous array at the Pageant of Ancient France, there has been nothing in the way of gaiety to mark the doings of the fashionable world, and even the costume ball was given for a worthy object, that of aiding deserving students of architecture, painting and sculpture who shall be designated by the Beaux Arts Architects' Society, under whose auspices the ball was given. With Lent more than half spent, there seems to be no desire to undertake great entertainments, and those announced for the coming week will be given for the purpose of raising funds for charitable and philanthropic institutions of this city and elsewhere.

The Metropolitan Opera is holding its own so far as the attendance of society is concerned, and with few exceptions those who have not been drawn to the mild climates of the tropics are sure to be seen in their boxes frequently in the course of the week.

Announcements of Easter weddings are not so numerous as in some years, Easter falling on April 4, but later in the month there will be many to record.

Society's Saleswomen.

Last week women of prominence in society were to be seen in an endeavor to raise funds for the social service bureau of Bellevue and Allied Hospitals, and they were apt and competent saleswomen in one of the great emporiums of the city. There will be given to the fund 10 per cent of their sales.

Wearing simple black frocks, with only red badges on the sleeves to distinguish them from the regular employees, these women of society became salesladies and sold hats and gowns and other novelties at Gimbels last week. Their invasion of the shopping district took many visitors to the store, and some of those who went from curiosity only were so charmed by the gracious young "saleswomen" that in many instances were looking over things led to inquiries, then trials and finally to purchases.

Mrs. Joseph B. Truesdale, head of the sales committee, and her assistants understood all the curves and attitudes of hats so well that a mere glance at a would-be purchaser enabled them to know at just what tilt the chapeau would be coming to madame. They would slip on wraps and coats and show these off with the grace of professional model-makers, so it was not to be wondered at that their pencils and pads were in constant use and that the 10 per cent which their charitable efforts will add to the treasures of the hospitals is more than a bit of figuring up each night.

Miss Ruth Morgan, president of the Colony Club, was among the amateur salesladies, which included as well Mrs. Arthur Scott Burden, Mrs. W. F. E. Parsons, Mrs. Howard Auchincloss, Mrs. Walter Mallory, Mrs. Charles Lindbergh, Mrs. Marshall J. Dodge, Mrs. Roland Redmond, Mrs. Clarence Chew Burdette, Mrs. Beatrice Collamore, Mrs. Clarence Woolley, Mrs. William D. Hodges, Mrs. John H. Frentice, Mrs. Edwin C. Hoyt, Mrs. Joseph Stranisky, Mrs. Vernon Stiles and Mrs. George Huntington.

Mrs. Tiffany Succeeded.

Mrs. Belmont Tiffany, who did splendid work over the tracks of the fashion makers, during the early stages of the war, made many sales, for so convincing were her arguments that the hat or garment was a necessary part of the wardrobe that Mrs. Tiffany's sales were kept busy entering sales in her book, and Miss Ruth Draper, Mrs. William A. Bourne, Mrs. Helen Gould, Mrs. Marion Tiffany, Mrs. Charles S. Brewster, and the late Theodore A. Handwerker; Miss Genevieve Cleadman, Mrs. William H. Hodges, Mrs. Herbert L. Mills, Mrs. George Thompson, Mrs. Walter Hope, Mrs. George F. Clark, Jr., Mrs. Fredrick A. Kinney made records that would qualify them any day as saleswomen if they ever felt so inclined.

Mrs. Edward S. J. McKim, Mrs. Beverly Dyer, Mrs. John Sarason, Mrs. Chester G. Burden, Mrs. Philip B. Thompson, Mrs. Heaster and Mrs. Margaret Emmet, Miss Sophie Dyer, Mrs. Margaret B. Trimble, Miss Elizabeth Enos, Miss Constance Zahny, Miss Julia Shearer, Miss Katherine Knapp, Miss Jeanne Gould, Mrs. Nina M. Ryan and Miss Margherita di Vecchi, with their trim little black silk aprons, were the most fascinating clerks imaginable and did a wonderful business on Tuesday.

Mrs. Charles H. Walker, Mrs. Rita Todd, Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson, Mrs. Seth Bliss Hunt, Mrs. Henry Ives Cobb, Mrs. Nicholas Hiddle, Mrs. Richard Billings, Mrs. Louise Bladen, Mrs. W. T. Farrington, Mrs. George C. Clark, Jr., Mrs. Alexander Butler Duncan, Mrs. J. S. Ferguson and Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, Jr. were also in the list of the week's volunteer "saleswomen." Others were Mrs. Frank L. Falk, wife of the acting secretary of France, Mrs. Courtney Abbott, Mrs. G. Hermann Kinnicut, Miss Helen R. Sloan, Mrs. Charles H. Smith, Mrs. George Whitney, daughter of the Ambassador to France, Mrs. W. T. La Farce, Mrs. Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler, Miss Louise T. Caldwell, Mrs. V. Bourke Couckran, Mrs. Frederick M. Ives, Mrs. George Pinchot, a great-granddaughter of Peter Cooper, philanthropist; Mrs. Alfred Eaton, Mrs. William H. Tew, Mrs. Alexander Lambert, Mrs. George W. Akin, Mrs. William P. Draper, Mrs. Amy G. Hodges, Mrs. Egerton L. Winthrop, Mrs. Harvard Donimick, Mrs. F. Peter Hoguet and Mrs. William F. Sheehan.

Praised by Shoppers.

Many were the comments of wonder, of surprise, on the part of purchasers of the expert manner in which the society women accomplished their sales and the thorough businesslike way in which they worked.

"What" said one of the interested visitors who made many purchases, "these society saleswomen are almost as much at home behind the counter as in their own drawing rooms. One would imagine they had been selling hats and frocks all their lives."

Not "all their lives," but most of them who attend will wear a costume suggestive of some flower and this will give an opportunity for originality. It has been suggested that none but simple costumes be worn, and for those who have not the time to arrange something new there will be on sale at the entrance of the tea garden artificial flowers that can be combined with a conventional ball dress.

Tickets for the dance at $3 each may be obtained of Mrs. Charles H. Itson at her home, 13 East Thirty-seventh street, or at the Grand Central Palace.

Other Training Schools.

Some of the young women who worked for charity at the great store last week have helped from year to year make the sales of garden craft and novelties for charity at the home of Mrs. W. H. Wippon, a success, and also contribute their services at bazaars, such as that which Mrs. Cadwallader Jones holds each spring at her home in East Eleventh street in aid of inmates of the almshouse on Blackwell's Island and other city institutions. Mrs. Charles S. Brewster encourages her friends at least once a month to help at a sale for one of her pet charities, and so successful was the sale of worn clothes, hat boxes from Paris, street costumes, hats and shoes and hat sales have also been their share in making expert saleswomen of some of the leaders of the fashionable set, whose businesslike ways, added to their grace and charm of manner, have made them so expert that their services could command almost any price in many of the large establishments. Take Mrs. George H. Huntington and Miss Bertha Stockwell, for instance. Their united record on Monday was $1,265.

Opening of Flower Show.

A feature of this week will be the opening to-morrow afternoon of the tea garden, which will be carried on in conjunction with the International Flower Show to be held in the Grand Central Palace for a week. It will be under the auspices of the Allied Loyalty League. Presiding at the tea to-morrow will be Mrs. Charles A. Childs and Mrs. Price Post.

The garden has been artistically arranged by Messrs. Warren and Wetmore and it will represent the interior of a huge tent of the type used by Napoleon during his campaigns in the East. The open spaces will be massed with greens and palms and the sides will be of the colors of the Allies.

Among the young women who will serve as waitresses in the garden are Misses Carlotta Havemeyer, Sylvia R. Hillhouse, Gladys Livermore, Margaret Donnell, Augusta McCaig, Melissa Tuttle, Mrs. Onondog Field, Sylvia Lord Seymour, Katherine Van Ingen, Janet Croll, Helen L. Johnson, Renée Carhart, Elise Everett, Margaret Wallace, Helen Schieffelin, Fanny Billings, Margaret Elliot, Elsie Parsons, Minnie Richards, and Betty Jackson. Other hostesses of the week will be Mrs. Walter Egerton Lambert, Mrs. Leland Eggleston Cofer, Mrs. Romolo Tritton and Mrs. T. J. Oakley Rhinelander.

More elaborate than the afternoon tea will be the Dance of the Flowers which will be held in the tea garden next Friday night. The proceeds of this dance will be devoted to the Navy Club and it is expected that all the young women of the flower ball include Misses J. De Keven Bowen, Langdon Ozer, Oscar E. Stevens, Edwin Booth Grossman, Edward McVicker, Richard S. Emmet, John R. Drexel, Jr., J. Gibson Mudge, Casimir De Rham, J. Lenox Banks, Jr., R. B. Van Rensselaer and James B. Taylor, Jr.; Misses Lillian Endicott, Agnes O'Gorman, Margaret Hamilton, Eva McAdee, Marie La Marche, Rosalie Bloodgood, Adrienne Jewlin, Margaret and Heister Emmet, Rita Baker and Madeline Townsend. Mrs. Oren Root, Mrs. Charles E.

Mitchell and Mrs. A. Stewart Walker, who are actively interested in the Babies' Dairies Association, have organized a concert for the benefit of that organization to be held on Tuesday afternoon in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, when the soloist and only artist will be Mr. Fritz Kreisler, who has donated his services. These dairies, which are in some of the crowded districts of New York, furnish proper food for infants for which is charged a nominal sum if the circumstances of the mother permit, otherwise it is given.

Mr. Kreisler's programme is: Concerto, E minor; Mendelssohn; (b) Variations on a theme by Corelli; (c) Hymn to the Sun, from "Les Contes"; (d) Tambourin Chinois; (e) Nobody knows the trouble I've seen (spiritual); (f) Clara Schumann's Op. 15; (g) Two sets of variations; (h) Liebeslied; (i) Menuet; (j) Capriccio Viennois.

The committee for the flower ball includes Misses J. De Keven Bowen, Langdon Ozer, Oscar E. Stevens, Edwin Booth Grossman, Edward McVicker, Richard S. Emmet, John R. Drexel, Jr., J. Gibson Mudge, Casimir De Rham, J. Lenox Banks, Jr., R. B. Van Rensselaer and James B. Taylor, Jr.; Misses Lillian Endicott, Agnes O'Gorman, Margaret Hamilton, Eva McAdee, Marie La Marche, Rosalie Bloodgood, Adrienne Jewlin, Margaret and Heister Emmet, Rita Baker and Madeline Townsend. Mrs. Oren Root, Mrs. Charles E.

Johns Hopkins and is the son of Dr. Lawrence McCafferty of Columbus, Ohio.

The engagement of Miss Elizabeth Marshall, daughter of former State Senator Henry Marshall, to Mr. Kenneth F. Clark is announced. Miss Marshall was graduated in 1914 from Wells College and served in France with the U. S. C. A., where she was attached to the 19th Field Artillery, Thirty-fifth Division. Mr. Clark, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick F. Clark, of White Plains, served as an officer in the navy during the war. He now is practicing law in this city. He was graduated from Dartmouth College in 1911 and in 1914 from Columbia Law School.

Mrs. Charles Edward Jaramillo, formerly of Guatemala and now of 82 Eighth avenue, Brooklyn, has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Martha Carmen Jaramillo, to Mr. Arthur Irving Boyer, Jr., who was an officer in the Royal Air Force during the war. Mr. Boyer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur I. Boyer of this city.

Announcement was made by Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Oliphant of Montclair, N. J., of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Nellie Gladys Oliphant, to Capt. Perry Kay Miller. During the war he served for eighteen months in France with the Engineer Corps. A. E. F. He was graduated from the University of Michigan and belongs to the American Society of Civil Engineers.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Grant Dart of 285 East Eighty-first street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Anne Graham Dart, to Dr. Wilbur Randall Schoonmaker. Miss Dart was graduated in 1915 from the Brearley School and during the war did relief work at Flower Hospital, where she met her fiancé. He is the son of Mr. Edward T. Schoonmaker, of South Orange, N. J. Her father is the well known illustrator and cartoonist.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Pouch of 547 East Twenty-first street, Brooklyn, have made formal announcement of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Janet Pouch, to Mr. Donald Cameron Alford. She is a granddaughter of the late Alfred J. Pouch. Miss Pouch was graduated with the class of 1919 from Packer Collegiate Institute. Her fiancé, who is the son of Mr. William Madison Alford, was graduated in 1914 from Adelphi Academy. He served during the war in the air service with the Fighting Observers Detachment of the A. E. F. with the rank of Lieutenant. When he enlisted and joined the Aviation Corps he was assigned to the U. S. School of Military Aeronautics at that university. After he was graduated he trained at Camp Dick, Dallas, Tex.; at Mount Clemens, Mich.; and Garden City before going overseas.

At a tea given by Mrs. D. M. Fernandes last week at her home on Beverly road, West Gardens, L. I., she announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Margaret Stinson Fernandes, to Mr. Robert W. Smith. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles V. Smith of 121 West 118th street.

Dr. and Mrs. Joel Davis Madden of Ossining, N. Y., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Florence L. Madden, to Mr. John McMillan Hamilton of this city. He is the son of Mr.

ROMANCES OF WAR IN ENGAGEMENTS

A ROMANTIC echo of the war runs through the news of the week's engagements, for not only did some of the young women who figure in it do their bit, both here and overseas, but in many cases their fiancés also distinguished themselves by their service for their country and the Allies.

The engagement of Miss Margaret Farjeon to Mr. George Rowe is formally announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Russell Farjeon, of Ossining on Hudson. Mr. Rowe served with the Twenty-seventh Division overseas. He received the Distinguished Service Cross, and was decorated by the Prince of Wales. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Rowe.

Two war workers have just become engaged. Miss Anne Alicia Hester Richardson and Dr. Lawrence Kinman McCafferty. She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Madley Richardson of 490 Riverside Drive, who made the announcement, and during the war she served with the Red Cross Motor Corps for a year. Dr. McCafferty, who lives at 170 West Fifty-fifth street, served in the Medical Department of the army in this country as a lieutenant. He was graduated from Dartmouth College in 1913 and during the war he served as an Ensign in the United States Naval Reserve. The marriage will take place early next autumn.

After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Orth will live at 30 East Sixtieth street.

One of the interesting engagements announced recently was that of Miss Katherine E. Stewart, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Campbell Stewart of Roseland, Goshen, N. Y., and this city to Mr. Halsett Johnson of the American diplomatic service. Miss Stewart's family has been identified with the social life of New York and Newport many years. Her maternal grandfather, Gilbert Livingston Beckman, lived years ago in Newport, where his son, Mr. R. Livingston Beckman, now Governor of Rhode Island, passed his boyhood and early days at school. Her mother was Miss Margaret Beckman and she is a niece of Mrs. Louis L. Lorrillard, who lives the greater part of the year in Newport. Other uncles are Mrs. William Pratt Lyman of Boston and Mrs. Amos Fack French of this city and Tuxedo Park.

Mr. Johnson was graduated from Williams College. He has been attached as secretary to the American Embassy in London and held similar positions in Chile and Turkey. At present he is attached to the State Department in Washington. One of his brothers, Mr. Trieman Johnson, married a daughter of Prof. Franklin H. Giddings of Columbia University. The marriage will take place in Goshen early in May.

Mrs. Rowell Miller of 90 Park avenue announced last week the engagement of her daughter, Miss Dorothy Miller, to Mr. William Harold Stewart of Webster, Mass., now living in this city. Miss Miller, who was introduced to society a year ago, was graduated from Miss Porter's School in Farmington, Conn., and became a member of the Junior League. Her father, the late Rowell Miller, was at one time president of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad Company. Mr. Rowell Miller, her elder brother, married Miss Margaret Carnegie, only daughter of the late Andrew Carnegie. Mr. Stewart was graduated from Dartmouth College in 1913 and during the war he served as an Ensign in the United States Naval Reserve. The marriage will take place early next autumn.

After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Orth will live at 30 East Sixtieth street.

One of the interesting engagements announced recently was that of Miss Katherine E. Stewart, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Campbell Stewart of Roseland, Goshen, N. Y., and this city to Mr. Halsett Johnson of the American diplomatic service. Miss Stewart's family has been identified with the social life of New York and Newport many years. Her maternal grandfather, Gilbert Livingston Beckman, lived years ago in Newport, where his son, Mr. R. Livingston Beckman, now Governor of Rhode Island, passed his boyhood and early days at school. Her mother was Miss Margaret Beckman and she is a niece of Mrs. Louis L. Lorrillard, who lives the greater part of the year in Newport. Other uncles are Mrs. William Pratt Lyman of Boston and Mrs. Amos Fack French of this city and Tuxedo Park.

Mr. Johnson was graduated from Williams College. He has been attached as secretary to the American Embassy in London and held similar positions in Chile and Turkey. At present he is attached to the State Department in Washington. One of his brothers, Mr. Trieman Johnson, married a daughter of Prof. Franklin H. Giddings of Columbia University. The marriage will take place in Goshen early in May.

Mrs. Rowell Miller of 90 Park avenue announced last week the engagement of her daughter, Miss Dorothy Miller, to Mr. William Harold Stewart of Webster, Mass., now living in this city. Miss Miller, who was introduced to society a year ago, was graduated from Miss Porter's School in Farmington, Conn., and became a member of the Junior League. Her father, the late Rowell Miller, was at one time president of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad Company.
