MISS ZINDERSTEIN AND VICTOR AT DOUBLES

She and Watson Washburn Defeat Miss Sigourney and Dean Mathey.

Special to The Sun and New York Herald.
SEABRIGHT, N. J., Aug. 8.—The completion of the mixed doubles event this morning on the courts of the Seabright Lawn Tennis and Cricket Club, which was postponed Saturday afternoon when the rain suddenly appeared, flooding the courts, resulted in a victory for Watson Washburn and Miss Marion Zinderstein, who defeated Dean Mathey and Miss Gai Sigourney in straight sets 6-2, 6-1.

This decisive victory made Washburn a double winner during the week, he having won the singles final, easily defeating Willis Davis subsequent to their memorable first set on Saturday afternoon at the Seabright Lawn Tennis and Cricket Club, despite by far any in previous years, drawing criticism leveled at the officials, who actually conducted the match.

Mrs. Eleanor Tennant and C. J. Griffin defeated Miss Edith Sigourney and Dean Mathey in the consolation round of the Seabright tournament. Miss Leslie Bancroft and Leonard Bosman opposed to Miss Marion Zinderstein and Watson Washburn in the consolation. They played the consolation match shortly after 10 o'clock this morning, the latter winning in straight sets 6-2, 6-4.

Allowing just enough time to prepare for the next match, Miss Zinderstein and Mr. Washburn were soon on the courts and ready for the finals with Miss Sigourney and Mr. Mathey.

The match was a beautiful one, with the play on the part of the winners, who had previously ended their speedy match in the consolation, held up under the strain.

Mathey started with the beautiful groundstroke, but failed to win. Incidentally, he did not take a service game until the middle of the second set, yet he featured in brilliant returns that allowed his opponent to play a weaker, however, after the first set in his futile but spectacular attempt to half volley coming to the net.

In the other end, Mr. Washburn, the former Harvard collegian, played his slow deliberate game from the baseline. When he did come from the back court it was to abate an opening by the net and not to serve, as Miss Zinderstein and Mr. Washburn's court style of play enabled them to produce a more effective style than their opponents, which helped them materially.

Miss Sigourney and Dean Mathey played well together and did not despair of a victory until the final game of the second set.

Following the mixed doubles event an exhibition doubles match was started between Holcomb Ward and Vernon Prentice, facing William J. Clothier and George L. Wright. The former leading in the first set, 10-8.

The point score in the final mixed doubles match follows:

FIRST SET.
 Miss M. Zinderstein and Watson Washburn... 6-2
 Miss Edith Sigourney and Dean Mathey... 2-6

SECOND SET.
 Miss M. Zinderstein and Watson Washburn... 6-1
 Miss Edith Sigourney and Dean Mathey... 1-6

World's Mark for Jolie Ray in the Belgian Stadium

American in Workout Runs 500 Meters in 1 Minute 7 Seconds Immediately After the Team Lands at Antwerp—Swimmers Practice.

Special Cable Dispatch to The Sun and New York Herald.
ANTWERP, Belgium, Aug. 8.—Full of life, fire and vim and bronzed as the plates of gold, the American Olympic team stepped ashore here this morning on the U. S. S. transport Princess Matilda and to all appearances they were nothing the worse for their slow trip on cramped underdeck quarters across the Atlantic. Long before the ship swung along toward the sea wall the athletes were lined up on the rails, and even some climbed up on the rigging. Between spells of cheering, singing and shouts of greetings to those ashore the docks resounded with weird sounds not heard here in years.

On the dock to catch a glimpse of the much feared Yankees were a varied congregation of athletes representing other countries. There were Canadians, Chileans, Japanese, Greeks, French, Italians, South Africans and Australians and behind them were a solid phalanx of Belgians, who gave the whole a right royal welcome.

The girl swimmers of the American team came in for the biggest part of the ovation.

A number of the athletes from foreign countries knew men such as Pat McDonald and Matt McGrath from their connection with the team to Stockholm of 1912, while nearly all the Frenchmen and Belgians through their participation in the interallied games in Paris and the fact that he had served at the front in the late war with the American Expeditionary Forces, on the staff of the French command, quite a figure, as they towered above all others.

It was funny to see Polloi, the French shot putter, watch Pat McDonald, the American, who got the start but did not shot put over to see that the "Babe" was in reality a human specimen and not a stuffed article like the monstrous Frenchmen in pantlines and English championably equipped with a put of 43 feet 10 inches, but he is good for about 47 feet when properly extended.

World's Record for Ray.
 When the excitement had cleared away in the afternoon Lawson Roberts took a dozen of the more ambitious members of the athletes to the harbor, where he gave them a workout. As usual, Jolie Ray was anxious to eat up the track and nothing would please him but a special trial at the 500 meter distance, which was put on crowd on hand to see the American wonder, who has been touted extensively in Europe. Jolie maintained his reputation for the 500 meter distance, which is not possible, he ran the distance in 1 minute 7 seconds faster than the world's record made by 20 Belgians, who were watched by the foreign athletes who watched Jolie were amazed at his great turn of speed. The other runners who worked out were Zama, Meredith and Paddock. Sol Butler took several trials at the broad jump.

The American women swimmers are quartered at the Y. M. C. A., and in this is the year of her opportunity. She is playing champions with the New York team at the National Harbor Casino, formerly the scene of the national championships. Marking as it will the first appearance of the conquering Davis cup winner, the American woman swimmers are expected to arrive with exceptional interest. It may be said even before the arrival of Messrs. Tilden, Johnston, Williams and Garland that they already have taken Newport by storm.

SNAPPER LEADS ARROWS.
F. S. Page's Boat Beat in Indian Harbor Four Mile Race.
Special to The Sun and New York Herald.
GREENWICH, Conn., Aug. 8.—In a light breeze blowing from the southeast Frank S. Page's Snapper won the Arrow class race this morning over the four mile course of the Indian Harbor Yacht Club. The Snapper, belonging to Walter S. Bowles, was the second yacht to cross the line, one minute and twenty seconds after the Snapper.

The first time a boat was first on the Indian Harbor one design yachts, being four minutes and six seconds ahead of H. R. Whittlesey's Snapper, called by Mr. Whittlesey's son, Robert Whittlesey, better known as "Pete," the young man is following in the footsteps of his father, who is an expert yachtsman and his handling of the boat to-day's race was the occasion for much favorable comment.

Indian Harbor Arrow Class—Start 11:45 A. M.—Snapper, Frank S. Page, 12:32; Bubbe, Walter S. Bowles, 12:33; Hiew, Ralph E. Slaven, 12:33:30; Windward II, Richard H. Monks, 12:34:10; Ranney, Clifford Malloy, 12:50:50.

TILDEN HOME WITH TITLE.
World's Champion at Tennis Welcomed by Fans.
 William T. Tilden, 24, tennis champion of the world, received a hearty welcome from tennis enthusiasts of this city and Philadelphia yesterday when he arrived here on the Imperator. The tennis wizard, who lost one set to Gerald L. Patterson of Australia and then took three in a row, was glad to get home and pleased that the championship was in America. He had been drawn in the same half with William T. Tilden 24 and Charles S. Fland of the conquering Davis cup tennis winner, William M. Johnston and John Williams 24 in the opposite half. Those who saw Washburn in action at Seabright are predicting freely that he will give any one of the Davis cup a considerable trouble.

Seabright will establish the fact that Miss Marion Zinderstein is right now the leading woman tennis player in the East. Barring a slight tendency to double fault at critical stages, the Boston girl's tennis has never been so weak. Her service sharper than ever, her driving equally strong and her net game swift and aggressive and her overhead play remarkably accurate, Miss Zinderstein appears certain to take a first bid for the national title on the last month. The East still has to see Miss Helen Barlow, Pacific coast champion, and Mrs. May Sutton Bundy in action, but the East has seen Miss Tilden, who is rated close to her in California tennis, and has seen Miss Tilden, despite her defeat by Miss Zinderstein, beating the unquesioned merit of the coast girl's game. It is Miss Zinderstein to add her name to the list of national tennis champions.

World's Greatest Golfers Ready for Open Tourney

240 Players, Largest Field in History of Game, Gather at Toledo—Vardon and Ray Show Fine Golf in Best Ball Match.

Special to The Sun and New York Herald.
TOLEDO, Ohio, Aug. 8.—Harry Vardon and Edward Ray, the celebrated British professional golf pair, to-day had their first turn around the course of the Inverness Golf Club, where they are to try for the national open championship of the United States this week, when in a best ball match they defeated the local pair of experts, Charlie Lormes and Inverness and D. K. White of Sylvania, by 2 up. So far as the two visitors were concerned the contest was both a matter of convenience and business, as in addition to collecting their usual exhibition fee for the course and affording an opportunity to give the title circuit a thorough going over.

Inverness and Lormes had hoped to have a course to their liking. Some of the local players, who have had years for a championship and not a word of adverse criticism has been heard, a situation that is rather novel for the average golfer in exacting when it comes to a course for a national meet. Vardon and Ray were not a bit behind the others in their praise. "It is a real golf course," said Vardon. "It is not only a real golf course, but it is a real golf course unless the player makes them for himself, and while I rarely studded with all the undulations called for in modern links architecture, the greens are at all times true.

First impressions of Inverness are apt to be deceiving, for while the player is in the modern links, the hole is not so many have heard to declare that the course grows more difficult with each round. Why this should be is not so very clear, but it is possible the answer may be in the modern links, where the player has given the course the first scrutiny he then goes after a score and, being too careful with his shots, gets into trouble in the hole. In fact, it is not overdone in bunkering, there is a sufficiency of hazards about the Inverness links. These, too, are usually found where they ought to be and where they will punish shots that have been played with too little regard for direction or have got out of control through some error of swing or execution.

206 May Win Title.
 There is now a growing belief that a score of 206 for the seventy-two holes will come near to winning the title. The average for 1919 was 207, and the United States Golf Association secretary, arrived after a careful study of the scores of the previous year, estimated that a score of 206 would be the winning score for 1920.

BOXING CLUBS ARE RIVALRY FOR BOUTS

Keen Competition Between International and Rickard.

By CHARLES F. MATHISON.
 A certain amount of acidity is noticeable in the utterances of officials of the International Sporting Club and the Madison Square Garden Sporting Club. The acridulous observations in question have reference to the opinions held by the officials of each club relating to the officials of the other club in connection with their boxing bouts.

Tex Rickard recently announced that his club would bid for all the great boxing matches that appeared on the pugilistic horizon, and he intimated he would be more successful than the Madison Square Garden club in securing desirable boxing attractions for his arena.

This brought forth a reply from Adam C. Cochrane, secretary of the International Sporting Club, on behalf of the officials of that organization, as follows:

"A report has been published in reference to an enterprise which is being launched by a certain boxing promoter for the purpose of holding boxing and other kindred sports in this city. The enterprise is a venture which can exercise no prejudicial effect on the prospects of this club, because it is solely a commercial speculation, depending for success upon profits which it may make, while ours is a metropolitan enterprise which will bear the same relation to this club as the enterprise of Mr. Cochrane bears to the National Sporting Club of London.

"In any event, the management begs to state that it was, as at present constituted, solely responsible for all the enterprises which were held at the Commodore Hotel and more recently at Newark. It is gratifying to state that new members are being enrolled in large numbers, and no state of its existence has more fulfilled the club's aims than has more assured than they are today."

It does not appear that Rickard threatened any reduction in the International Club, but it is understood that the National Sporting Club of London, which is the largest of the kind in the world, is being organized in New York, and it is believed that the enterprise will be one of a number of kindred enterprises which will bear the same relation to this club as the enterprise of Mr. Cochrane bears to the National Sporting Club of London.

Members of our club will, of course, be admitted free to their own seats, but will be specially assigned to the bleachers of the new organization while members of the new organization will be compelled to pay for their seats. "Boxing will take place there at competitive intervals, and our club will have boxing entertainments once a week for nine months during the year, as is the case with the National Sporting Club of London.

"The new enterprise will be one of a number of kindred enterprises which will bear the same relation to this club as the enterprise of Mr. Cochrane bears to the National Sporting Club of London. In any event, the management begs to state that it was, as at present constituted, solely responsible for all the enterprises which were held at the Commodore Hotel and more recently at Newark. It is gratifying to state that new members are being enrolled in large numbers, and no state of its existence has more fulfilled the club's aims than has more assured than they are today."

CALIFORNIA TENNIS STARS WILL IMPROVE

Seabright Was Their First Test of Season on Turf.

It would be wrong to judge the strength of the California tennis invaders entirely on their showing at Seabright last week. It should be borne in mind that it was their first appearance of the season on turf; that Roland E. Roberts it was the first test on grass in four years. Clarence J. Griffin, Willis E. Davis and Roberts would do better in the tournaments to come. Griffin proved conclusively that he is short of work and needs a good deal more competition to get into satisfactory condition. Davis and Roberts are both away from their ground strokes, which may be due to their lack of practice on turf. They have three weeks more in which to get accustomed to the bound off grass and perfect their strokes for the national tennis championships at Forest Hills.

Allowing for improvement, however, the conviction nevertheless is strong that the East has little to fear from the California men who met defeat at Seabright, and that the California stars are likely to be beaten on the Pacific coast again. William M. Johnston, the Boston champion, is the one to do it.

As many critics asserted, Roland E. Roberts is a champion, and making the challenge Davis cup tennis, he tried to show any cause for the belief in last week's tournament. His game with its service, sharp driving and forceful overhead smashes, was peculiarly fitted for clay court play, and it is difficult to understand how he managed to win the national clay title at Detroit last month.

In the matter of tennis tactics neither Roberts, Davis nor Griffin was particularly impressive, and the chances are that a skillful player of the type of Watson M. Washburn, the Seabright winner, can beat either Californian any time they meet. But Washburn, let it be known, will extend the best of them, as those who saw his sterling five set match with Gerald L. Patterson will attest. Washburn is going on the Newport tournament in which he has been drawn in the same half with William T. Tilden 24 and Charles S. Fland of the conquering Davis cup tennis winner, William M. Johnston and John Williams 24 in the opposite half. Those who saw Washburn in action at Seabright are predicting freely that he will give any one of the Davis cup a considerable trouble.

Seabright will establish the fact that Miss Marion Zinderstein is right now the leading woman tennis player in the East. It is Miss Zinderstein to add her name to the list of national tennis champions.

RUMSON WINS POLO CONTEST BY 10 TO 8

Victors Defeat West Point in Close Match.

Special to The Sun and New York Herald.
RUMSON, N. J., Aug. 8.—In a post-tournament polo match played before the largest gallery of society folk assembled at the Rumson Country Club in this season a picked Rumson team defeated by 10 goals to 8, West Point, winner of the Rumson Country Club and Monmouth County cups in the recent polo tournament.

Both teams played on the flat, and because of its recent double victory West Point ruled the favorite. The game was hard and closely fought throughout, and the best periods of play, the result was in doubt until the last minute.

Harry East, a seven goal player, scored six of the ten goals for Rumson, and all brilliant, but it was together with Capt. A. H. Wilson's clever work and scoring of five goals for West Point, featured the exciting match.

The seven men tallied a goal in each of the first three quarters, but Rumson scored three goals in the fourth to West Point's one. The first half ended with Rumson in the lead by 6 to 4.

Each team showed its skill in the fifth quarter, with Rumson adding five goals, and West Point adding three, making the score 11 to 7. Goals by East and Wilson in the seventh made the score 7 to 8, and East clinched the victory in the eighth chukker with a pretty goal.

Berens Waters played an exceptional strong game at back for Rumson and his partner, John A. Johnson, and Howard S. Borden played hard and well.

West Point showed clever team work, but the team was somewhat handicapped by the fact that several of its ponies were not in condition. The lineup and summary:

STAR CLASS BOATS IN FARCICAL RACE

13 Skippers Blunder Over Manhasset Bay Course.

Forty-two additional entries have been received, bringing the entire list up to 240 players. This constitutes not only a record for an American open championship, but also a record for the best of the American mark by fifty or sixty. The largest field that ever played in the British championship was 210.

How to handle this mass of golfers is a problem for the organizers. The 1918 first pair was to be gone off at 8:30 and the last at 4:30, providing the schedule did not fall behind. Mr. Vanderbilt was wired from New York that a start was to be made at 7 o'clock in the morning and the late comers not provided for up to 8:30 would have to fall in after all the others are off.

The regular start means that from 7 in the morning the contestants will be playing up to 8 o'clock at night or longer. Most of the players are now on hand, although Rogers and Hagen are not coming until to-morrow.

Among the stars on the links to-day were the amateurs W. C. Powney, Jr., Pittsburg; Bobby Jones of Atlanta, and Charlie Evans of Chicago, among the professionals. Leo Diegel, J. Douglas, Edgar, Willie Macfarlane, Emmet F. French, Charlie Hoffman, Louis Teller, Joe Mitchell—in fact, practically all but the two already mentioned.

Jack Hutchinson, who last week won the Western open from Barnes, also arrived in time to have a round in the afternoon. Joe Mitchell and Jones each played the course in 12, while there were a lot of 7s and 7s.
