PROTECTING THE WEST

WESTERN men have at last been aroused to the necessity for presenting a united front to southern aggression to secure their just share of the proposed hundred million dollar appropriation for preparing public lands for the reception of soldiers and sailors. Ever since the Wilson administration was inducted, the south has been receiving more than its portion of all public moneys. There is no denying this assertion for the records show that whenever money was to be expended the south was in the saddle ever ready to grab all that could be had regardless of any latent merit that may have been attached to their offerings. They have had a majority of the military appointments on the theory that the southern climate was more conducive and the temperature more conducive to outdoor training. Swamp lands and malarial sections have been unloaded on the government for any purpose that would bring in revenue to wily promoters who knew they had the backing of the solid south and would not have to strain at the truth to secure a hearing and possible appropriation. Shipyards were located where the old river and harbor pork barrel subsidies were denied through superior pressure of war exigencies. The ternal cry of money, money and more money was the tocsin sounded all through the south from the banks of the Rio Grande to the Mississippi river while more advantageous locations in the west and north were slighted. Not satisfied with the plethora of public funds lavished during the war, the south is at the same old game by urging congress to engage in a project for reclaiming swamp lands that cannot be made habitable for another generation. The pressure for plunder has not relaxed and it is commendable that the west has arranged to get together movement by which the arid country will have a square deal in the reclamation projects under consideration. You have not heard anything of any of the British colonies offering swamp lands to the returning soldier. They are too practical and have too little money to squander on any such schemes. These countries are after results which they appear to be getting at the expense of the United States which has manifested singular reluctance about engaging in any economic development of the millions of acres lying close to the principal markets and along main lines of railroads. These can be turned quickly into income properties and the western men have become aroused to the necessity for insisting that every dollar of the conservation and reclamation fund be disbursed in projects likely to yield the most adequate returns. Western men contend rightfully that the returned heroes should not be handicapped in their efforts to establish themselves themselves under the most elevating conditions which are clearly set forth in resolutions adopted this week at the conference of western empire builders in Salt Lake. The states represented in the movement are Nevada, Utah, Montana, California, Arizona, Wyoming and New Mexico. These states have abundant acreage to furnish homes for a million farmers and with the assistance of the government there is no reason why there should not ensue a westward movement that will repay the small amount asked for land and water development. Every state is willing to do its duty toward the young soldiers by appropriating supplementary funds to assist in colonizing these. The next move is for the Nevada legislature to demonstrate that it is ready to do its share in making attractive arid wastes which are as fertile as any lands on God's footstool and, by interesting soldiers and sailors, destroy the aspersion that Nevada is not suitable for agricultural development.

FIGHTING THE MEAT TRUST

THE National Livestock association has thrown down the gauntlet to the packers whose recent statements demonstrate that they were the chief profiteers of the war. For four years the beef growers and sheep men have been urged to greater efforts to increase the production of meats and wool which, according to the statements of President Pryor, have reached an acute stage where the superstructure raised by war demands is growing so top heavy that it is likely to topple over and collapse utterly. The live stock men have been forced to accept what they were offered while the packers fixed prices to suit their own sordid aims. With millions more hogs of the four-footed variety reported by the animal bureau census is it a paradoxical fact that the price of bacon and ham shows no evidence of relaxing its tension. Home consumption has been reduced to a minimum until the American nation has almost become a nation of vegetarians. The markets are turning away fat logs with the explanation that there are too many for the demand. Still there is no relaxation of the climbing tendencies and it is obvious that some other influence of an artificial nature is bolstering up prices.

Millions for our soldiers but not a cent for the enemy is the slogan that the president has aroused through his demand for a hundred million for distribution in Europe. When our boys are restored to their wage-earning capacities and absorbed by our industries there will be time enough to consider the wants of others.

With the British dominions and Ireland claiming economic and political independence it begins to look as though the peace congress would have a perfect Donnybrook fair on its hands.

The old adage that charity begins at home finds a suitable occasion for exercise just now.

Portugal shows a reversion to type through revival of the monarchy. As a republic that country never was a howling success and the iron hand of royalty may bring order out of chaos.

Nothing equals the unmitigated gall of the Hun in replying to the terms of the revised armistice that, if he is compelled to restore all the farm implements and machinery stolen during the war from unoffending allies he will not have enough left to cultivate his own lands.

Election returns in Germany are coming in about as fast as those of California when that state was the pivotal commonwealth in the election of Wilson to the presidency.

DISMANTLING NAVAL BASE AT QUEENSTOWN

(Correspondence Associated Press)

QUEENSTOWN, Ireland, Dec. 20.—Plans for the dismantling of the American naval stations in and around Queenstown are going forward rapidly. Time will be required to remove the base hospital at Whitespoint, and much work will be involved in removing the many big warehouses which were brought here from America and set up in record time. Other important parts of the American plant include wireless stations at Queenstown and Aglada and

REBELS IN MEXICO ARE ALL PACIFIED

(City Associated Press)

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 22.—General Fortunato Maycotte, in charge of the pacification of the state of Guerrero, has reported to the war department, according to an official announcement by that branch of the government, that the conquest of the Zapata and Mariscal rebels in that state virtually is completed. General Silvestre Mariscal, former governor of Guerrero, has been under arrest in the capital since January 25, 1918, on a charge of disobedience of orders.

The pacification of the state of Morelos, stronghold of the Zapatistas, has been almost accomplished, according to official announcements, by the forces operating under General Pablo Gonzales. Spanish influenza and famine have played havoc with the bands of Emiliano Zapata and of his lieutenants.

Gift From French Republic.

Three phrases from President Wilson's war messages will be woven in a costly Gobelin tapestry France is having made as a gift to the city of Philadelphia. The tapestry is to be hung in the museum in the Quaker city and is about to be placed in the hands of the workers at the famous Gobelin factory for completion, according to an exchange.

The tapestry will be 21 feet by 15 feet. It will be full of life and color and will have an atmosphere of enthusiasm and patriotism in portraying troops departing from Philadelphia for Europe to participate in the war of justice.

Below are three panels containing these phrases from President Wilson's messages:

"Right is more precious than peace."
"We have no selfish end to serve and desire no conquest and no domination."
"We shall fight for democracy."

Why Meat Prices Vary in Different Stores

Prime steers	$13.50@15.00
Good to choice steers	12.00@12.80
Common to medium steers	10.75@11.75
Yearlings, fair to fancy	10.00@12.00
Fat cows and heifers	8.25@12.25
Culling cows and heifers	7.25@ 8.25
Hulls, plain to best	6.50@12.00
Poor to fancy calves	6.75@12.75
Western range steers	10.00@15.00

These newspaper quotations represent live cattle prices in Chicago on December 30th, 1918.

The list shows price ranges on nine general classified groups with a spread of $13.85 per cwt.—the lowest at $6.50 and the highest at $20.35.

Why this variation in price? Because the meat from different animals varies greatly in quality and weight.

Although the quotations shown are in nine divisions, Swift & Company grades cattle into 34 general classes, and each class into a variety of weights and qualities.

As a result of these differences in cattle prices, (due to differences in weights and meat qualities), there is a range of 15 cents in Swift & Company's selling prices of beef carcasses.

These facts explain:

- 1—Why retail prices vary in different stores.
- 2—Why it would be difficult to regulate prices of cattle or beef.
- 3—Why it requires experts to judge cattle and to sell meat, so as to yield the profit of only a fraction of a cent a pound—a profit too small to affect prices.
