WHOLE NATION PAYS TRIBUTE TO FALLEN HEROES

Southern Irish Preparing War Against North On Large Scale

GREAT BRITAIN CABINET MEETS PROBE MATTERS

Munition Factories Reported as Manufacturing War Materials Under High Pressure

TYRON-DONEGAL BORDER BUSY Casualties During Night Said to Have Been Heavy Result of Continuous Firing

(By Associated Press) LONDON, May 30.—The cabinet was called today for discussion of the Irish difficulty. The government's legal advisors are said to have expressed a definite opinion that the agreement reached last week in Dublin between the factions headed by Michael Collins and Eamon DeValera is inconsistent with the Anglo-Irish treaty.

Fighting on the Ulster border has manifestly become complicating matters. Ulster members of the imperial parliament and sympathizers believe the Southern Irish are preparing for war against the north on a large scale. It is rumored in these quarters that munition factories controlled by the daily minister of defense are manufacturing war materials under high pressure.

Heavy firing occurred on the Tyrone Donegal border at Strabane and Lifford between midnight and 7 o'clock this morning, says a Central News dispatch from Strabane. Sniping from roofs of houses continues. Armored cars and machine guns are in action. The people of both towns were up all night long in a state of terror. Casualties were reported heavy.

British troops are being kept in Dublin, not by request of the Irish provisional government, but because the process of evacuation has been temporarily suspended. Colonial Secretary Churchill stated in the house of commons.

The British government, Churchill added, had suspended delivery of all supplies and munitions to the provisional government since the date of agreement was reached between Michael Collins and DeValera.

(By Associated Press) BELFAST, May 30.—Evacuation of a considerable stretch of country in the border region by the Ulster forces, is announced. Special constables will be withdrawn from the Belleek salient in County Fermanagh, Ulster thus abandoning it to free state troops.

NATION'S TRIBUTE TO GLORIOUS DEAD REACHES PERFECT CLIMAX

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, May 30.—The nation's tribute to its glorious dead reached its climax at the dedication of the memorial erected beside the Potomac to Abraham Lincoln by grateful countrymen, and a former president headed the commission which has lavished unrelenting energy in making this stone an emblem of America's gratitude to a worthy man whose memory it will perpetuate for Americans always, and President Harding in person accepted the work in the nation's name.

The Lincoln Memorial was presented to President Harding for the American public by Chief Justice William Howard Taft. "As a shrine at which all men can worship; an altar upon which the supreme sacrifice was made for liberty; the sacred religious refuge in which those who love their country and love their god, can find inspiration and repose."

The Lincoln memorial, the gift of the nation to the memory of Abraham Lincoln, is one of the world's most beautiful structures and the greatest shrine of the man who saved the nation. Impressive in its simplicity, the memorial probably is the masterpiece of all public buildings and memorials in the United States. It stands in Potomac park facing the Washington monument, and its construction was begun on Lincoln's birthday anniversary in 1914. The total cost has been approximately $3,000,000.

This monument to Lincoln is a large rectangular building of white marble, designed by Henry Bacon, a New York architect. It has a beautiful setting on a direct east and west line with the Washington monument and the nation's capitol and rises 144 feet above the level of the park. It is composed of four principal features—a statue of the man, a memorial of his Gettysburg address, a memorial of his second inaugural address and a symbol of the union of the states. The most important object in the memorial is the statue of Lincoln in marble, by Daniel Chester French, New York sculptor, placed in the central hall where, by virtue of its imposing position in the place of honor, it predominates all else. The statue is colossal in size and yet distinctively personal. It represents Lincoln seated, in a thoughtful mood, and is the first thing that meets the eye as one passes through the immense colonnaded entrance. Smaller halls, one on either side of the central hall, contain monumental tablets in which deeply incised letters reproduce word for word, Lincoln's Gettysburg address on the left wall and the address made by him at his second inauguration on the right wall. Above these are two large mural paintings by Jules Guerin, a New York artist, one typifying "Emancipation" and the other typifying "Reunion." Their production occupied three years' time.

GRAVES ARE FLOWER STREWN

Cemeteries Visited by Hundreds Who Pay Silent Tribute to Departed Loved Ones

Impressive memorial services were conducted this morning at 10 o'clock at the Butler theatre—that deepest tribute, sincere in its atmosphere, might be paid to the departed heroes of three wars—Civil, Spanish-American and the late World War. These services were under the auspices of the Grand Army of the Republic and Woman's Relief Corps, assisted by Elmer J. Bell Post, American Legion and Auxiliary. The program was varied, interesting and highly patriotic, and the theatre was filled to extreme capacity by a multitude of old, young and middle-aged, who were desirous of expressing their true sentiments to the departed heroes of the three wars—those who gave their all that this country should not be divided and should remain a guiding spirit for the future of mankind of all nationalities and of all creeds.

The meeting was presided over by Hays Johnson, member of the American Legion, and the program passed off in perfect accord with the surroundings. The address of the day was delivered by Frank T. Dunn. Following the exercises the procession formed and wound its way to the cemeteries where the graves of departed heroes and loved ones were strewn with flowers and wreaths.

The cemeteries were thronged with people from early morning until late in the afternoon and the mounds were made as attractive as possible, presenting an appearance which showed the love in which the departed has been held.
