UNABLE TO AGREE.

The Combs Jury Discharged. At half-past 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon the jury in the Combs case sent for Judge Edwards and announced that they were unable to agree.

SECOND BALLOT.

About 3 o'clock another ballot was taken and the result was four for manslaughter, three for assault and battery and not guilty five.

THIRD BALLOT.

This was taken in the evening and stood as follows: Assault and battery nine, murder in the second degree three.

FOURTH BALLOT.

Murder in second degree—Meyer, Youngblood, Lebo; Manslaughter—Carberry, Longabaugh.

Assault and battery—Hackett, Hoge, Tennant, Bowker, Slater, Dorsey, Laws.

FIFTH BALLOT.

On the next ballot Dorsey changed his vote to manslaughter, and Hackett was asleep. No further ballots were taken...

PUBLIC FEELING.

The feeling on the streets when the result was known was one of general surprise that any one on the jury could have for an instant entertained the idea that a simple assault and battery had been committed...

Clean Up.

The cause of the sickness now prevailing in Carson is nothing more or less than foul water closets. There is nothing terrible or mysterious about the sickness when one comes to examine the first cause.

Miss Marshall's Funeral.

Miss Ida Marshall was buried yesterday from the residence of H. L. Tickner. The attendance consisted only of the intimate friends of the deceased.

Anniversary Exercises.

There was an enormous gathering at Avery's Hole-in-the-Wall last evening, it being the occasion of the anniversary of the opening of the establishment.

"Snidely Conducted."

The removal of Dr. Dawson from the charge of the Insane Asylum shows up to be a high-handed, but poorly and snidely conducted piece of political and malicious jobbery.

The Courier then proceeds to intimate that the Enterprise has received orders to "chop on the racket."

A successful thief on New England railroads manages to sit near the traveler whose trunk he knows to be valuable. Then he tries to turn over the back of the seat, pretends to find some difficulty with the lock...

Neither Miss Healy nor Mr. Cagwin have the scarlet fever as reported.

The Mill Wheel.

The following graceful bit of verse is from the pen of Florence M. Byrne, of Grass Valley, a niece of W. S. Byrne, of the Carson Mint: The mill-wheel turns in the sunlight...
