A Fine Stock.

The firm of Ryan & Stenson, clothing and dry goods dealers of Tonopah, have an everlasting confidence in this growing camp. They have spared no expense in building one of the finest stone warehouses in the rear of their Main street store for the storage of stock as a safeguard against fire. In this building are piled thousands of dollars worth of goods, from which the shelves in their store are always kept well stocked. The firm has a well-earned reputation for square dealing in this State, having been in business in Virginia City for the past twenty years. Their goods are well and carefully selected and consist of the best qualities purchasable from the wholesale houses. They are constantly making improvements to their popular store, and before many months will erect a handsome stone building upon the site now occupied by them.

A Promising Property.

The Tonopah City Mining Company has ordered a large hoisting engine, which will arrive inside of thirty days. The stock of the company is being eagerly sought for, but only a limited number of shares will be sold, as the owners know they have a gilt-edge proposition. Fifteen thousand shares have been purchased by Philadelphia parties who are acquainted with the location of the group, which adjoins the Salt Lake and Fraction. The knowing ones predict the uncovering of the richest ore chute yet found in Tonopah.

"Honus," the correspondent of the Carson Weekly, has ceased to write each week of a new paper to be started in Reno, and has transferred his new daily paper venture to Tonopah. "Honus" is full of the "big holler"—that and nothing more.

Key Pittman, Geo. Bartlett, R. L. Johns and P. M. Bowler, Jr., attorneys, are in Belmont looking after the cases before the District Court, now in session.
