From Dr. Darling

Probably no professional man is a closer student of nature or a more conscientious worker in his field than Dr. Darling, late of our State University, but now professor of anatomy of the University of California. A graduate of the highest and best institutions of learning, and an enthusiast in his profession, he receives recognition of his merit. Wherever he has gone. His ability was demonstrated in Nevada through years of successful practice on the great stock farm of Theodore Winters, where El Rio Rey and other world beaters of the Hooker-Marion stock were foaled. The following from his pen may be of interest:

Berkley, Cal., Feb. 10, 1896.
It gives me pleasure to testify, after a thorough trial, that I have found the Liniment Triba highly valuable remedy in sprains and bruises on the domestic animals.

THE WAY TO WIN

The confidence of the people is to do the big square thing by every means possible. Put it in the principal that floats from the mouth of my business, and it is the principal that wins. GIVING the worth of money for money received is my intention, and by not misrepresenting goods I have gained the confidence of the people. THE line of Watches, Diamonds, Rings, Clocks and general stock of Jewels that I handle is strictly up to date and sold on a small margin of profit. It is no trouble to show goods, and special orders receive prompt attention.

I have the goods and know they will please you. Don't forget the place.
J. BELCOVE ORMSBY BLOCK
