A DIVIDEND IS COMING

Good News for the Gourmet Oil Stock Owners

Several years have passed since the Great Depression, and the prices of oil stocks have remained at a low level. However, in recent years, there has been a significant recovery in the oil industry, and oil stock prices have begun to rise. As a result, many oil stock owners are now receiving dividend payments, which represent a portion of the company's profits that are distributed to shareholders.

AFTER THE WILDCATS

Bill to Permit Exaggerated Mining Claims to Be Filed

The mining industry has long been associated with the Wild West, where prospectors and adventurers would file exaggerated mining claims to secure land and resources. The bill to permit exaggerated mining claims would allow companies to file false claims to secure land and resources, which could have serious implications for the environment and the economy.
