The Stories the Dewdrops Told

[Written for the United States School Garden Army, Department of the Interior]

"Hello," he said.

Dolly looked up, for the voice seemed to come from a place near the top of her head. He was sitting on the fence. He was the largest of all the Dewdrop fairies she had seen. He wore a dark-green coat and his trousers were the same color. His vest was the loveliest shade of pink—deep and bright—with large black buttons down the front. Dolly thought it a very handsome suit.

"I don't live in your garden," he said; "but the fairies have told me so much about you that I thought I would pay you a little call this morning."

"I'm very glad you did," said Dolly. She was noticing that his face was almost as pink as his vest.

"Well, I think it is a fine thing for little girls and boys to have gardens, and as you seem to want to know all about the things that grow in your garden I thought perhaps I could tell you a few things."

"Oh, I wish you would. But I don't even know your name. Did you say that you don't grow in our garden? Why don't you?"

"No; I grow on the other side of the fence. You see, your garden is a very nice garden, but you have hardly enough ground to raise my plants. We take a great deal of room. We have been called greedy—I don't know why. They say we don't get along well with other plants except our own family. Well, we are pretty big. Of course, we have to have plenty of room because some of us weigh more than a good-sized baby."

"I can't think what you can be," said Dolly, much puzzled.

"Just look over the fence and see if you know me," said the fairy with the pink vest.

Dolly carefully put her foot upon the crosspiece at the bottom of the board fence and peeped over. The ground on that side of the fence was covered with big vines that seemed to grow in many directions. The leaves were big and rather open looking, as though they had been cut into fancy patterns with a pair of scissors.

In among the leaves she saw a lot of large, green objects shaped like eggs—only ever so much bigger.

"Oh, I know!" she cried. "You are the fairy of the watermelon vine."

"Exactly," said the fairy with the pink vest. Now you see why you haven't any of my family on this side of the fence. You couldn't raise watermelons except in a big place. Pumpkins, too—they have to have a great deal of room to run about.

"Do pumpkins run?" cried Dolly.

"Do they run?" I should say—why, don't you remember Cinderella's pumpkin coach? Didn't it run?"

"Oh, but the mice pulled it," said Dolly, wisely. "It didn't run by itself."

"Anyway, pumpkins do run—at least the vines do—and so do watermelons. You see, we grow so fast that many of our family are—well, you might say 'removed'—while they are quite young."

"You don't mean killed?" said Dolly, quite shocked.

"I wouldn't go so far as to say that," said the fairy, "but we know that very few of our plants are allowed to live to grow up. We like a warm climate best and it takes quite a long time to grow, although we do grow so fast. The plants that you see here are the kind that ripen early. Farther south they raise those big, sweet ones that you like so much in the middle of the summer. Our seeds must be planted in hills quite a long distance apart to give us room to spread out. Some of us are a solid dark green and some of us have stripes of different shades of green. Do you know that one kind is called the 'Georgia Rattlesnake' because it is striped like that?"

"I think that is a horrid name for a pretty nice fruit, like a watermelon," said Dolly.

"Oh, we don't mind, because we know that people like us whatever we may be called. All the melon family is popular. I am sure you like muskmelons. And then the cucumber is a distant relative of ours, too—you like cucumber pickles, I know—all little girls do."

"I think I like all your family," said Dolly. "But I am sure I like your own brothers and sisters best of all. It does seem dreadful to eat your friends, though, doesn't it?"

"Not at all—not at all. That's what we grow for. Well, good-by. Look over your fence once in a while and watch us grow!"

"NOTHING ELSE EVER HELPED ME"

This is What Mrs. Campbell Says of Tanlac—Suffered Six Years

"Of all the medicines and treatments I have taken during the past six years, Tanlac is the only thing that has done me any good at all," said Mrs. Sadie Campbell, who lives at 1353 Geary street, San Francisco, Calif., the other day.

"I had suffered so much from stomach trouble," continued Mrs. Campbell, "that I was in a very weak, run down condition. When I began taking Tanlac, I had such little strength and energy about me that the least exertion would almost prostrate me. Everytime I ate anything I would have bad spells of indigestion, and what I ate would sour and cause gas to form which made me miserable for hours afterwards. I had a dull headache nearly all the time. My liver didn't seem to act well, either, and I suffered a lot from biliousness, and would often get so dizzy that I could hardly stand on my feet. My nerves were in bad condition, too, and I hardly ever got a good night's sleep."

"Then I heard about Tanlac, and thought I would give it a trial, and it certainly proved to be a godsend to me. I have only taken three bottles so far, but I feel like a different person altogether. Why, I have actually gained eight pounds already, and feel so well and strong that I can easily do all my housework, and get about as well as I ever did in my life. My appetite is good, and what I eat agrees with me perfectly, and I never have a sign of indigestion or sour stomach any more. My nerves seem to be in perfect condition, and I sleep soundly for eight or ten hours every night. I think Tanlac is the best medicine on earth, and I am so happy over what it has done for me that I just talk it to everybody I meet."

AD IN THE APPEAL SELLS AUTOMOBILE

The Mineral Service Station, agents for the Chalmers auto, has sold a machine of that make to Fred Cook, prosperous farmer of Genoa.

The service station has been running a Chalmers ad exclusively in the Appeal for some time, and falling under the observation of Mr. Cook he read it, lied himself to the station's headquarters, talked with Manager Gray, and came away the possessor of one of the best machines on the market.

It pays to advertise.

WORKING ON LAND VALUES

The State Board of Assessors is still busy working on land values and this subject may be up for consideration for several days yet.

An idea of the good work the board is doing in this matter may be had by a perusal of the article on the subject published elsewhere in today's issue. It is a little bit lengthy, but worth while reading. It contains facts and figures and indicates that heretofore the big landed interests have been getting off pretty easy.

Daily Health Talks

GOING BACK TO NATURE. BY DR. W. LUCAS.

People get sick because they go away from Nature, and the only way to get well is to go back. Something grows out of the ground in the form of vegetation to cure almost every ill. Some of these vegetable growths are understood by man, and some are not. Animals, it would seem, know what to do when they are sick better than men and women. Observers have noted that a sick horse, dog or cat will stop eating food and seek out some vegetable growth in the field or yard, which, when found and eaten, often restores appetite and health. Haven't you seen these animals do this very thing yourself?

Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., long since found the herbs and roots provided by Nature to overcome constipation, and he had these vegetables collected and made up of Mayapple, leaves of Aloe, root of Jalap, into little white sugar-coated pills, that he called Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. You must understand that when your intestine are stopped up, poisons and decay-matter are imprisoned in your system and these are carried by the blood throughout your body. Thus do your head ache, you get dizzy, you can't sleep, your skin may break out, your appetite declines, you get thin and despondent. As a matter of fact you may get sick all over. Don't see how useless all this suffering. All that is often needed is a few Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, which has placed in all drug stores for your convenience and health. Try them all means. They are probably the best thing you need right now.

Constitution Day to Be Observed Tonight

The anniversary of the signing of the United States constitution will be observed in the assembly hall of the public school at 8 o'clock this evening. Several short addresses will be made by the justices of the Supreme Court and of the United States District Court.

Judge J. A. Sanders will speak on "The Right of Private Property"; Judge E. S. Farrington will take as his subject "The Constitutional Rights of a Law-breaker," and Judge Ben W. Coleman will deliver a short address on "The Difference Between Constitutional and Statute Law."

RECEPTION LAST EVENING

The reception given last evening at Leisure Hour hall by the Parents' and Teachers' association to the teachers of the Carson City schools was a most enjoyable affair.

Rev. Mook was master of ceremonies and started the affair of with a "zip" before the program was rendered. The latter consisted of a solo by Cyril Collins; recitation by Mrs. Knippenburg, song by quartette made up of Messrs. Kennett, Collins, Hunting and Roy, and a solo by Mrs. Slingerland.

After the program ice cream and cake were served and before the good nights were said a motion was put, seconded and carried that in a few weeks the teachers receive the towns' people.

TO ENGAGE IN OIL

Mrs. Bessie Miller, for many years a resident of Fishlake valley, where she is interested in large land holdings, was in Carson today. She was accompanied by Mrs. Margaret Chiatovich and John Chiatovich of Fishlake, C. D. Crane, an oil expert of Southern California, and O. L. Sallers.

Much of the land Mrs. Miller is interested in is regarded as virgin oil land and the lady has recently organized a company which will shortly begin operations with a view of oil development.

The land is in the northern end of Fishlake valley and about eight miles from Cogdale, in Esmeralda county.

Miss May Kenney returned yesterday from an auto trip with friends. She spent two days at Lake Tahoe, then going to San Francisco, from which point she visited different coast points of interest.

Case Postponed

The case of C. E. Roberts versus the Second Judicial district and the Scheeline Banking company, a mandamus matter, which was to have been heard in the Supreme court today, has been postponed until next Monday.

William O'Leary, chief deputy in the state controller's office, is off on his vacation and by way of diversion is doing development work on some mining claims he owns in the heart of the Comstock district and the sale of which, his many friends hope, will some day land him in the millionaire class.

MEETING POSTPONED

The Red Cross meeting at Reno Friday night at which a number of Carson members of the order were to be present and which was to be addressed by Mrs. H. A. Kluegel, a prominent Red Cross official of the Western division, will not be held until a later date.

This information was conveyed in a message received today by W. J. Hunting from J. M. Fulton.

THE PLAGUE OF CARBON AND ITS CURE

No device ever put on the market has so conclusively demonstrated its usefulness to the motorist as the ESTA WATER AUXILIATOR. Carbon delays on the road and in the work shop are entirely eliminated by its use, to say nothing of the measured efficiency obtained from the motor and the saving of fuel and annoyance. The principle is as old as the hills, but no master mind has, previous to this time, been able to put into practice an efficient article. Many makeshifts have been discarded, many more will appear, but none will accomplish the results that the ESTA WATER AUXILIATOR will.

Sec. 6. If any owner of any lot or lots, or any piece or parcel thereof, within the limits defined by this ordinance, shall fail to lay down, or keep in good repair, a concrete sidewalk abutting his, her, or their property as in this ordinance provided for and within the time herein specified, the Board of Trustees of said Carson City may cause said concrete sidewalk to be laid in conformity with the provisions of this ordinance, or may cause the necessary repairs to be made thereto without delay, and the necessary expenses of so doing shall be and become a lien upon the property upon which said sidewalk abuts, and the same shall be recovered by an action against said property and the owner or owners thereof, in any court of competent jurisdiction.
