REDUCING COST IN FEEDING

Farm By-Products Can Be Used More Extensively to Reduce Cost of Cattle Rations.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

That it is possible to feed beef cows in the corn belt more economically during the winter is shown by a report of United States department of agriculture investigators who made a study of winter feeding costs on five representative farms in that section. This reduction in the cost of feeding is possible without detriment to the cows or calves through larger use of farm by-products in the rations.

Avoid feeding excessively, avoid costly rations, use more cheap roughages, such as straw and corn stover, feed silage where conditions make it more economical than corn fodder.

The first farm used as an example is in east central Iowa. The breeding herd consisted of a grade bull and 22 grade cows, from which 20 calves were obtained. The cows were given excessive amounts of high-priced feed for both of the years for which records were procured, says the bulletin.

They were turned on stalks November 15. Winter feeding began a few days later and lasted until May 1, when the cows were again turned on pasture. During the 165-day interval each cow received the following:

Stalks.....1.5 acres at $1 an acre.
Fodder.....2.4 acres at $5 an acre.
Mixed hay.....1/2 ton, at $19 a ton.
Corn.....2 bus. at $0.85 a bu.

As the average yield of corn on this farm was 50 bushels to the acre, and as the best corn was cut for fodder, the cows, considering the corn in the fodder and the additional grain fed, received a total of 22 bushels per head. This is almost a fattening ration.

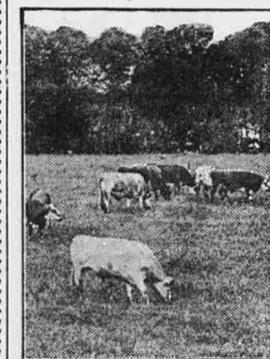

If the corn had been husked from the fodder and only the stover fed, there would have been sufficient roughage for the cows. Estimating that three-fourths of a ton of stover was eaten per acre of stalks and that the stover from the fodder fed would go two tons to the acre, and allowing the cows three bushels of corn each during the winter instead of 22, they would receive the following daily ration:

Stover.....20.6 pounds
Mixed hay.....9.9 pounds
Corn.....1.9 pound

This ration would be sufficient for their needs.

By merely eliminating the excessive amount of corn (19 bushels) from the ration a saving of $11.40 could have been made and the feed bill reduced very nearly one-half, or from $24 to $12.60 per cow.

Rations on the fifth farm inspected by the investigators are pronounced very satisfactory. This farm (240 acres) is in northeastern Kansas. Seventy acres were in corn, 25 in oats, 25 in wheat, and 100 in pasture. Because of the unusual rainy weather prevailing in that section the oats and wheat for the year in which the record was taken were practically destroyed and the straw was absolutely worthless for feeding. To provide for a lack of hay 15 acres of millet and four of sorghum were grown.

The herd consisted of a bull and 15 grade cows, from which 15 calves were obtained. The cows were turned on stalks November 1 and allowed to run there until spring. They received approximately three acres of stalks, one ton of millet hay, and one-third of a ton of sorghum fodder each. Valuing the millet at $4.50 a ton and the sorghum at $4 a ton, the winter feed cost per cow was $8.20. The cows were carried through the entire year for a net cost of $25.85.

GOOD QUALITIES OF SHEEP

They Compare Favorably With Other Animals in Economy of Production—Keep Weeds Down.

Sheep can be made profitable on high-priced land. It is said, as British experience shows. They compare favorably with other animals in economy of production. They require a minimum of expensive concentrated feeds. They exceed the larger animals in the rate of maturity; lambs can be made ready for market at from four to six months. They make possible the economical and fuller use of labor. They are of assistance in keeping the farms free from weeds. The sheep farm is usually a weedless farm.

Theodore Sanford of Fenmore, Mich. has had stomach trouble for seven years and could not eat vegetables or fruit without pain in the stomach and restless nights. By taking Chamberlain's Tablets he is now able to eat vegetables of fruit without causing pain or sleeplessness. If troubled with indigestion or constipation give these tablets a trial. They are certain to prove beneficial.

SMALL HAT FASHION'S DECREE

MAKE SCARF FROM OLD SHAWL

Despite Ravages of Moths, Grandmother's Pride May Be Made Into Useful and Attractive Garment.

Possibly you are one of those people who got out grandmother's old cashmere shawl which had been packed away in the trunk in the attic for years, writes a correspondent, with plans for a wonderful new evening coat, and were desolated to discover that it had been almost riddled by moths. And when you hung it out in the sun for days and got rid of all the pesky little animals and had revealed in its gorgeous coloring, and regretted the coat long and hard, you had wrapped it up in tar paper and put it back into the chest for another long period of oblivion.

But here is good news for you. You can use the glorious thing after all. Nothing is more fetching or chic than one of these new scarfs that some fortunate people are using to liven up last year's blue serge or black velvet suit, and they look as if they were designed for just those of us who have only small bits of our old shawls available.

Possibly it wasn't the moths that prevented you from using your shawl. Maybe grandma was a Hooverizer, although she didn't know it, and wore hers till it almost dropped to pieces. Whatever it may have been, get it out and see how many narrow strips you can get from the good parts. Buy a piece of red cashmere, that same lovely red that the centers of these shawls were, cut the scarf from it of the desired shape, bind it round the edge with a band two or three inches wide made from the pieces of the shawl, and line it with red crepe de chine, georgette crepe or two harmonizing colors of chiffon, one over the other.

It will be so lovely when you get it finished that you will want to make another, and you might make one for mother, using black for the foundation instead of the red, lined with black shirred chiffon over red.

NEW SPRING WAIST STYLE

High Waistline to Be Feature of Suit That Will Fit the Figure Snugly.

A waistline just a trifle above normal is to be the feature of the spring suit, according to present indications. This type of suit is featured especially for young women and women with decidedly youthful figures. Some of the suits promised for spring fit the figure quite snugly to an inch or so above the normal waistline, at which point a flaring skirt of puffed, hip length or longer, may be set on. Again the suit coat will be held in by a belt set on just above the normal waistline. The suit with high waisted line in front and no waistline at all at the back is also shown. This is arrived at by a panel arrangement at the back. A very graceful figure silhouette is usually given by this type of coat. Skirts are just about the same as those shown for winter and now being worn.

The perfectly straight-line coat, cut on chemise lines and closely related to the chemise frock, to be worn over a sleeveless blouse or vest in contrasting color and material, is also to be a favorite for spring.

MODISH NOTES

Black velvet girdles are silver-lined and tie in a big bow at the side front. Lingerie made of lemon-colored crepe de chine is trimmed with black ribbon.

Narrow belts of black silk braid are seen on many of the serge dresses. Taffeta will be much used for smart street frocks.

Japanese cotton crepe makes excellent winter frocks for small children. Chuddah, poplin and shark cloth are used for black skirts for winter.

One charming girle is composed of small balls of angora on strands of jet. Black crepe de chine is sometimes worn with a vest of rose satin, embroidered in white angora and gold thread.

Any bit of fine linen, provided it is eight or nine inches square, can be utilized for charming hand-rolled handkerchiefs.

A yard of plain black moire ribbon can be made into a pretty little neck accessory by adding colored tassels and embroidery on the ends.

Stopped Cough After Influenza. "Foley's Honey and Tar is the best cough medicine I ever tried," writes E. B. McDowell, R. F. D. 1, Box 119, Arlington, Tenn. "My son had influenza. He had the worst kind of a cough. I tried everything but nothing did any good. God sent me a friend with Foley's Honey and Tar, and in two days his cough was gone." Sold everywhere.—adv.

SCRAPS OF HUMOR

He Knew.
"Which side of yer nig do you want fried, mister?" asked the smart sleek restaurant sandwich slinger.

"The inside, please," responded the chronic customer blandly, as he reached for a 50-cent piece.

Just How It Was.
Counsel—Then you think he struck you with malice aforethought?

Witness (indignantly)—You can't mix me up like that. I've told you twice he hit me with a brick. There wasn't no malice nor nothin' of the kind about it.—Shipping World.

Up to Scale.
Mrs. Hibrow—Oh, isn't Mr. Beetum Upp a marvelous pianist! And he climbed his way to fame step by step.

Mrs. Lobrow—Humph; it sounds to me like he didn't use his soft pedal foot much on the way up.

Accounting for It.
"I notice, Mrs. Comeup, your daughter has a great deal of savoir faire."

"Yes, when we buy her anything we believe in getting her good and plenty."

Appropriate.
"A friend of mine who is a very busy girl has asked me to get her a hat. What kind would you get her?"

"If she is such a busy girl, I would get her a beaver."

A Drawback.
"A woman can make any man propose to her she pleases."

"Certainly she can, but some women can't please any."

Shading.
Patience—And when you saw her standing at the door was she shading her eyes with her hand?

Patrice—No; only her eyebrows.

JUST THE SAME.

"Yes, we get all the benefits of mountain climbing here."

"Mountain climbing? Why, there isn't a hill 10 feet high within 20 miles!"

"I know; but we sleep on the fifth floor, and there is no elevator."

No Slang for Her.
When he dared to call her "cutie," Did she holler, "Get the hook?" No, indeed. This high-toned beauty simply floored him with a look.

Which Are YOU?

- a cheerful liar?
- a cry baby?
- or a cold-blooded-optimist?

Roger Babson, noted business analyst, has divided business men into three types.

"The cheerful liar," he says, "boasts that we are on the eve of a business boom. The cry baby foresees difficulties ahead and is so scared that he sticks to his hole like the German navy."

"The third—and best—type is the cold-blooded optimist. He thinks things through!"
