

Perryburg Journal.

For the Journal.
CHARADE.
A circling wall from celestial lands,
Moulded and polished by moon's silvery hand,
On narrow stage, a smooth and polished plain,
Culverts in welcome space, and guards from pain
Sweep its surface, gleaming, glinting bright,
Eagerly waves in jealous shades of night.
Deep near the base, where walls converge meet,
Repeat the amber waves from fountains sweet.

On other moss grown side where flows the amber tide,
White pillars spring and hail its beauty's pride,
None who've seen the lovely spot could tell,
Each hidden danger which therein doth dwell,
Daring indeed the hand that pin'd the rose,
In laughing beauty which within it glows!
Now with feelings unalloyed by dread,
Around the sacred precincts darts to tread!

Take first and third with skillfully combined,
In order proper and the answer find,
Search well your head and mind the answer prove
And welcome take the merit and the glove,
Bowling Green, May, 28, 1861.
ALL WE ASK IS TO BE LET ALONE.
As voice I walked by a diurnal camp,
And of an old olive in the dark an' drop,
And at every body as pass'd that road,
A stick or a stone this old olive throw,
And never he flung his stick or his stone,
He'd set up a song of "let me alone."

New Virginia.
The new State of Virginia is contemplated to embrace the territory reaching from the Ohio and Pennsylvania line on the North, to the New River, Kanawha and Greenbrier on the South, with the Alleghany mountains for its Eastern, and the Kentucky line for its Western boundary. This new State will comprise thirty counties, which—with the exception of Pleasant and Uphur, set off since 1850—are given below, with the total free and slave population, separated, as shown by the census of 1850:

Important Seizure.
The government has obtained possession of most valuable documentary evidence against the sympathizers with treason in the North. At a given hour, the officers of the law visited every considerable telegraph office in the Free States, seizing manuscript of dispatches for a year. The government can now trace the secret operations of the rebels and their aiders and abettors, and henceforth hold the Northern enemies of the Republic at its mercy.
