The Weekly Cabinet Meetings Changed From Friday to Thursday—Democratic Caucus Fix the Minority Representation.

ANOTHER CABINET MEETING.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—The day for holding the second of the two weekly Cabinet meetings has been changed from Friday to Thursday, and the Cabinet met at noon yesterday pursuant to the new arrangement. All the members were present and the session lasted three hours.

Mr. Fairchild, the newly appointed Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, spent several hours closeted with his predecessor, Judge French. Mr. Higgins, the new Appointment Clerk, was engaged in the performance of his new duties. Among the first nominations sent to the Senate will be that caused by the death of Inspector General Sackett.

At the Capitol yesterday, it was said that Secretary Bayard has announced in a very positive manner his intention to adhere to the strictest letter of the civil service law. He sent his messenger into each room of the State Department with the proclamation to the clerks that they need have no fears of losing their positions through the mere change of administration, that he did not purpose dismissing any one except for neglect of duty.

It is asserted that Mr. E. H. Butler, editor of the Buffalo Evening News, has been offered the position of Government Printer. Mr. Butler left the city a few days ago and will return in ten days or a week when it is stated, he will inform the President as to his decision in the matter.

The mine is situated near the Mediterranean, not far from Tangier. Competition is open until June 5 next to all foreign powers, and the concession is to be given to the highest bidder—the Moorish Government reserving the right to reject any bid, and explore the mine on its own account.

The Democratic Senators held a caucus immediately after the adjournment of the Senate yesterday and completed the arrangement of the minority representation of Senate committees for the Forty-ninth Congress. After adjournment of the caucus, Senator Cockrell handed the list of the minority to Senator Dou Cameron, of Pennsylvania, who will submit the matter to the Senate.

SOUTH AMERICA.

Strenuous Efforts Being Made to Resist Barrios—Brazilian Parliament Opened.

SAN JUAN DEL SUR, Nicaragua, March 13.—Active war preparations are being made throughout the country. The Government has now 70,000 men ready to send to the frontier. Strenuous efforts to resist Barrios are being made in Costa Rica. A large number of soldiers are ready to move. Great enthusiasm is manifested and confidence in the final result is displayed. It is thought probable that some quarters of Guatemala will consider the matter before attempting coercive measures, and that a friendly solution of the difficult problem of uniting the five States may be arrived at.

NEW YORK, March 12.—The latest advices from San Salvador say that active preparations are being made by the authorities of San Salvador, Nicaragua and Costa Rica in Central America to prevent President Barrios, of Guatemala, from assuming the command of the military forces of the various States of that country and forming all the States into one republic under his head, to which he claims he is entitled to do under an act passed by the Guatemala Assembly, notwithstanding the protest of the other States. President Barrios in the face of this opposition has decided to delay his war on the other States with a view to a friendly solution of the troubles.

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 12.—Parliament opened on the 9th inst. The Emperor in giving thanks for the reception accorded him in the principal provinces announced that Brazil's foreign relations were of a friendly nature; stated that the sanitary condition of the country was quite satisfactory; asked that the extinction of slavery will be dealt with gradually in order that the sacrifice might be as small as possible without interfering with the productive interest of the country, and recommended an equilibrium of expenditures and revenues.

GENERAL GRANT.

He Passed Another Good Night—A Cancer Specialist Refused Attendance.

NEW YORK, March 12.—General Grant passed another good night. He slept well and expressed himself as being much refreshed yesterday morning. He awoke about nine o'clock and ate a comparatively hearty breakfast of eggs and toast. He then turned to his desk without stopping to read the morning papers, merely asking for the latest news from Washington or from London regarding the impending Russian war with England and began work on his book. During the morning he arose and walked the floor unaided. Throughout the morning visitors called to leave their cards and their compliments, few being admitted to the General's presence.

Mr. W. E. Brown, the cancer specialist, of North Adams, Mass., called at the residence yesterday afternoon, but was not allowed to see the patient because he declined to sell his mode of treatment. Mr. Brown was seen at the hotel later in the evening. He said: "I came to New York through a letter of introduction from Colonel Fred Grant, and also at the request of Mr. S. B. Elkins, whose father I cured of cancer on the lips, and I went to General Grant's by appointment made with Dr. Fordey Barker. After some conversation in the parlor, I was informed by Fred Grant that it would be necessary for me to tell my mode of treatment before I could operate. This I declined to do and left the house. I have cured two hundred cases of cancer during the past two years and think I have been unfairly treated. I shall return to North Adams."

Death of an Old Settler.

VINCENNES, Ind., March 13.—John Van Kirk, one of the old settlers of this section, died yesterday aged ninety-one. Mr. Van Kirk has lived in this county almost a century. He was on guard during the summer of 1813, a short time before the battle of Tippecanoe, at General Harrison's residence when the treaty between Harrison and Tecumseh was made, and heard the row between Tecumseh and the Territorial Governor, in which the former used harsh language toward the latter and which resulted in Harrison summarily ordering Tecumseh and his mob to leave the premises. Mr. Van Kirk leaves behind him some valuable reminiscences. He was very wealthy and leaves an aged wife and several children.

OHIO LEGISLATURE.

A Number of Important Measures Pass the House—The Burnett Free Schoolbook Bill Defeated—General Legislation.

COLUMBUS, March 10.—Both branches of the Legislature convened at four p. m. today after a ten-day vacation. But few members of either body were present and no business of importance was transacted.

Senate, March 11.—Only a thirty minutes' session was held by the Senate today, and but little business was done. Mr. Oren introduced a bill amending the mechanics' lien law so as to extend the time from four to six months. Mr. Ely introduced a bill authorizing Bedford township, Cuyahoga County, to issue bonds to erect a soldiers' monument. Mr. Oren introduced a resolution, which was adopted, congratulating General Grant on his restoration to his rank in the army, and wishing him long life. A bill was introduced to relieve the bondman of Morton O. Van Fleet, ex-Treasurer of Huron County, who defaulted to the extent of $48,500 about fourteen months ago. The bondsmen have already paid $31,000 of this, and the passage of the bill is anticipated for by a majority of the voters of the county.

House.—There was barely a quorum present in the House to-day and all bills of a general nature on the calendar had to be passed, and only local bills considered. Much time was consumed in the discussion of Mr. Roche's bill, authorizing the County Commissioners, Treasurer and Auditor of Cuyahoga County to employ an agent to get property on the tax duplicate, not listed for taxation, and receive therefor twenty-five per cent. of the tax so realized by the efforts of such agent. It was finally recommitted to the Judiciary Committee. The bill amending Section 2753, Revised Statutes, so that property shall be listed for location in the ward where found, was passed. Mr. Barger offered a joint resolution, which was adopted, appropriating $300 to pay the fees and mileage of witnesses before the Committee to investigate the cause of the Hocking Valley strike. Among the bills introduced was one by Allen O. Myers compelling newspaper publishers to swear to their circulation for the protection of advertisers, and one by Mr. Stevenson providing for the payment of local bounties heretofore promised but not paid. A large number of local bills were introduced and several were passed.

Senate, March 12.—M. Stryker's bill providing for the appointment of at least one female patient in each insane asylum to attend female patients, was passed and is now a law. The following bills were passed: Providing that petitions for dower may be filed in any court where property is located; making it constitute burglary to enter a granary or other farm building, placing telephone and insurance companies under the same restriction for the non-payment of taxes as are now applied to telegraph and express companies. Several important local bills were passed, and a number introduced.

House, March 12.—Mr. Burnett's Free Schoolbook bill came up for passage to-day, and after an animated debate was defeated—yeas 21, nays 42. Mr. Ogden's bill establishing a State Board of Forestry was passed. By the provisions of the bill there is established at the State University at Columbus a central office for the promotion of forestry. The Board of Directors consists of the Professor of Agriculture in the College; the Secretary of the State Board of Agriculture; and a third person to be appointed by the Governor. These officials are to be commissioned and qualified as officers of the State. The Professor of Agriculture will be President of the Board, and may, with the consent of the Directors, establish volunteer forestry stations in the several counties of the State. The duty of the bureau will be to inquire into the character and extent of the forests of the State, and to suggest legislation calculated to expedite the growth, preservation, and increase of valuable forest trees. The bill introduced by Mr. Roche for the protection of life and property incident to the use of steam boilers passed the House to-day. It empowers municipal corporations to regulate by ordinance the operation of steam boilers, and to provide for a proper and regular annual inspection and testing of them; also to condemn and prevent use of unsafe boilers, qualifying and licensing engineers or persons now in charge of boilers, and to punish the violation of such ordinance by fines and penalties on conviction in any police court or before any justice of the peace. A large number of local bills were also passed. Among the bills introduced were the following: Amending the exemption law so that women shall have homestead, or in lieu thereof $1,000 exemption; prohibiting circulation of immoral literature; giving labor liens on railroads.

Senate, March 13.—Mr. Ely introduced a bill to reconstruct the Cleveland city government. It provides that there shall be elected a Board of nine Aldermen to serve for a term of two years, and one Councilman from each ward. Mr. Brown's bill amending the jury law so that when a person dies or removes from the county after his name has been put in the box other names shall be drawn to fill their places, was passed, as was also a number of local bills. Mr. Matthews' bill authorizing the appointment of a board of female visitors to Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphan's Home at Xenia, which passed the House some time ago, was reported back by the Senate Committee on Military Affairs without recommendation. The Senate and House to-day passed the Deficiency bill. The amount appropriated by it to cover deficiencies is $13,925,443, the largest single item being $7,477,924 for the Penitentiary, and $30,223,322 for the public works. Many petitions are pouring into the Senate and House asking for the passage of an act to require the teaching in public schools of the text-book and physiological effect on the human system of narcotics, stimulants and alcohol.

House.—Mr. Littler's bill abolishing separate schools for white and colored children came up for passage, and after being slightly amended was passed by a vote of 60 yeas to 12 nays. Among other bills passed the following only are of general interest: Amending Section 2100 of the Revised Statutes so as to authorize the taking of prisoners outside the walls of workhouses to work on streets or elsewhere; amending Section 4531 of the Revised Statutes so as to require that land shall be paid for, where a public highway is opened before the road is opened.
