CAPTAIN SPRAGUE A PRISONER.—We learn that a letter has been received in this city from Carlos Smith, of Co. A., 7th regiment, now at Somerville, in the Kanawha Valley, stating that Capt. J. W. Sprague, of Co. E. (Sprague Guards of Huron), and two of his men, had been taken prisoners by Wise's scouts. We did not learn the name of the men, or any further particulars.

PAY OF THE THESE MONTHS MEN .- By refrence to the notice of Col. Wiseman in another column, it will be seen that the three months men of Cos. A., B. and K., 7th regiment, are soon to be paid off and mustered ont. For this they may thank Col. Wizeman, who has been untiring in his efforts to bring about such a result. He has visited Columbus several times, and written many satisfaction of realizing the object of his labors. Paymester McDowell has requested him to take charge of these companies, and remedy, so far as in his power, any defect in the muster rolls caused by the absence > negligence of the proper officers.

IN BAD COMPANY .- David Washington drank too much whiskey on Saturday, and while walking down Ontario street was accosted by a brother negro, who came running up behind him and placed in his custody a ham, which he said he had stolen from Comstock & Newbery. Washington, ot caring to burden his conscience with the am, walked back to the store and handed t over but refused to give the name of the hief. He was accordingly locked up to be examined in order that the culprit may be crought to justice. Probable Lose of the Schooner Amelia. Yesterday morning Mrs. E. Bowen, who ves on the west side of the river, was walking along the dock near the beginning of the west pler, when her attention was attracted -a house on Ontario street near the corner of by a corked bottle floating in the water near to the piles. She immediately attempted to The bottle, which was an ordinary porter bottle, was at once broken open by Mrs. Bowen, and a paper was found within containing the following: On board schooner Amelia, Monday night Aug. 12th, off Grand River. Schooner lost fore-mast also mainsail—leaking badiy.—Cargo iron ore. Must go down. All hands must be lost.

C. S. BRACE, Captain. It hardly seems possible that any one ould be heartless enough to do a thing of this kind as a joke, although such cases have secured, and it is to be feared that the Amelia went down with all on board in the great gale of Monday night, and probably within ight of the lights of this city. She was a Canadian vessel.

tle he assumes while in this country. The Prince is accompanied upon his restorn tour by five distinguished gentlenen, viz: M. Ferri Pisani and M. Ragon, Colonels of the Empire and gids de comp. the latter of whom led the attack upon the Malakoff; Capt. Bonfils, formerly Governor. of Gaudaloupe and now of the French Navy; M. Maurice Sand, son of Madame George Sand, the author of "Consuclo," etc.; M. Mercier, French Minister to Washington-Other members of the suite remain with the Princess Clotilde in New York. During yesterday they drove out Water Works, to the Water Cure, and to vapious other places where there was anything o see, They also visited the Steamer North Star and selected six state-rooms for the up per lake trip. The manners of the illustrious trangers are like those of all well bred people. They dress plainly, are polite and social, and, in short, are not at all like the popular idea of princes and their familiars. The Western tour is said to be one of the chief attractions of the cis-Atlantic visit, and probably the ride over our beautiful lakes will be a feature which His Highness will look back upon with pleasure when he f s again resting under the shadows of the Palais Royal.

The Patterson-Bonaparte trial, which has excited so much attention of late throughout Europe and America, has made almost everybody more or less familiar with the family history of this branch of the Bonapartes. Jerome, the father of the present Prince, it 1803 sailed to America and fell in love with Post Office, which will be exchanged for an Elizabeth Patterson of Baltimore, and in December of the same year he married her. a period of air days from the date of this The following year saw the Imperial crown upon the head of Napoleon the First, and upon the return of Jerome to France with his young wife, she was forbidden to land upon the shores of France, and consequently went to England, where Jerome Napoleon, of Baltimore, was born. To the solicitations of the Emperor that he should put away his wife and marry princess, Jerome at length yielded, and was united to Caroline of Wurtemburg, although Pope Pius VII refused to grant a bill dissolving a marriage which was too plainly legal From the latter marriage sprang the present n rather longer underpinning.

The Post also speaks of the arrangements n board the yacht Jerome Napoleon :

The Prince's colors are green. According-y, he has a green morocco lounge in his abinet, a deak of the same material and color, a bed-chamber hung likewise, a simi-lar disposition of tints in his mess-room and all his officers' cabins.

all his officers' cabins.

Hs is a great admirer of Egyptian antiquities—is the Prince. A fine bronze statuette of one of the most famous mummics of Belzoni is on the shelf of his cabinet, and the ornaments about his drawers, his bed-calls, his whole private toilet room and bedchamber, are in the old Sesoutrian style. The whole cabin arrangements of the Prince and his suite, both guests and officers, are models of comfort. The ventilation of the borth-rooms is both admirably scientific and sim; le. All the apparatus of this denart-ment is likewise in green, the percelain bearing the Prince's initial.

As a natural, portraits of Napoleon I are everywhere visible, busts and remembranres of his battles. Among other adorn-ments of the princely apartments are two double barreled rifles, magnificently mounted, the jewelfed sword which he wears as one of the Emperor's staff, and a sword pre-street. sented to him by the Bey of Tunis, perfect-ly studded with diamonds along its hilt and

IN A BAD PREDICAMENT. On Friday night last, the captain of a new propeller belonging to this port, went through with certain evolutions which in time placed him in that predicament which sailors call "three sheets in the wind." In this condition he had the fortune to fall in with a black Venus, whose dusky charms beguiled him to such an extent that he consented to accompany her to her dwelling. She led the jolly captain to Lake, but from the time of his passing the threshold until the next day, he has no recollection. His next sensation was being awakened at 4 o'clock the following morning by a somewhat disagreeable coolness, and finding himself, greatly to his surprise, in a deserted house, in the rear of the hospitable mansion referred to. The peculiari ty of his situation was, that he was stripped of his clothing; coat, trowsers, hat, even cravat and stockings. Moreover, a doublecased gold watch was not to be found, as was likewise a small sum of money which he had the night before. By attracting the attention of a passer by, he succeeded in borrowing garments sufficient to admit of a creditable appearance upon the street, and proceeding to the policestation, acquainted the officers with his bad fortune. The woman's name is Sarah Jewell. She had not been found at a late hour last night, but will undoubtedly soon be taken.

FELLOW CITTERS OF OR10 - Shall the Govern ent be preserved? is now the all-absorbing question, and the only one worthy of the consid tion of the American People. We feel tha no lengthened appeal is accessary to animate you to the discharge of your duty in relation to ory of your fathers who secured for you the ssings of free institutions-a sense of the ob igations reiting upon you as the heretofo peaceful passessors of those blessings, and a proper regard for those to whom you hope to declare with no doubtful voice your unchange able determination that the Government shall not be broken up.

Compared with the interests involved with the great question all other interests are of but little importance. If the Government which estabishes and maintains social order is f. rever to exist at the mercy of caprice or disappe utad ambi-tion, there is but little of all that we now enjoy that will not in the loss of its stability lose it value. Shall it be said that we have neglected or put in peril, the proper settlement of this stion, by our party differences? These are now of but little moment. They are mere shadstance. Without value, nay, disgraceful alik to victor and vanquished will be those triumph of party which are celebrated over the ruins of a bered Government.
