Blaming the Clergy. A late number of Frasier's Magazine closes an article on the "Church among the Chimneys," with some sensible remarks on the disposition to hold the clergy responsible for everything.

"The fault of the clergy? Where are the clergy? How glibly do such expressions come from the lips, even of men, who, by precept and example, are endeavoring all that the clergy are attempting to do! There is not a grothing penny-a-liner who cannot, after rising in the morning with a drunken headache, inquire on an exhibition of a popular ignorance, 'Where are the clergy?' There is not a mob-monger, as he means his tub after thrashing his wife and starving his children, who cannot ask, 'What is the clergy doing?' There is not a graceless upstart member of the House, who cannot, after leaving his heartless favorites, exclaim with well-feigned astonishment, on any appropriate occasion, 'What are the clergy doing?' There is not a lazy, negligent manufacturer, who cannot, after refusing his five-shilling piece to the national school, wonder in the midst of tumult, 'What have the clergy been about?' The clergy have not done everything it is true; but they have done much."

"I DIDN'T SAY BRISTLES."—The Louisville Journal relates the following anecdote. We remember that some years ago, Roger M. Sherman and Perry Smith were opposed to each other as advocates in an important case before a court of justice. Smith opened the case with a violent tirade against Sherman's political character. Sherman rose and very composedly remarked: "I shall not discuss politics with Mr. Smith before the Court, but I am perfectly willing to argue questions of law, to stop logic, or even to split hairs with him."
