LYNCHED AT FINDLAY.

Joseph Lytle of Findlay, O., inhuman fiend, who brained his wife and two daughters with a hatchet which he had sharpened for that purpose on Wednesday, was taken from the jail by a mob of about 2,000 people, who battered down the doors of the cell, and after ordering him to dress himself conveyed him to the iron bridge on Main street, where he was hung. Some one attempted to shoot him, but the bullet struck the rope, cutting it in twain and the body fell to the floor of the bridge. He was again taken by the mob and hurled to a telegraph pole and the rope was carried up and hung over one of the iron spikes used for climbing up the pole and the mob pulled him up about two feet from the ground and while hanging they fired about 20 shots into his miserable body and then left him, after tearing his G. A. R. badge and button from his coat.
The best citizens of Findlay say the action of the mob was uncalled for and greatly to be regretted.
But few of the mob were masked.
Mrs. Lytle and her two daughters are reported as not being dead at the time of the lynching and it is not impossible that they may recover.
Just before he was strung up for the first time a reporter asked him if he had anything to say, and he replied:
"The trouble began seven years ago and I think I was right. Be good boys; and don't follow my example."

For lame back there is nothing better than to saturate a flannel cloth with Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and bind it on the affected parts. Try it and you will be surprised at the prompt relief it affords. The same treatment will cure rheumatism. For sale by A. R. Champney.

The Improvement of the River Road of Importance to the Owners of Property and the Traveling Public.

EDITOR JOURNAL:—The subject of improved roads has been prominent in your columns during a few weeks past.
In a local sense its importance ranks only with that of the system of drainage which has done so much in the way of developing the resources of Wood county.
I had occasion a few days since to address F. B. Shoemaker, Esq., of Toledo, in relation to a piece of property. In reply he addressed me the following letter, which fully expresses his views and those of many others of the enterprising citizens of Toledo in relation to the river road between Perrysburg and Toledo and the property on its route: Toledo, O., March 26, 1892.
N. H. CALLARD,
Perrysburg, Ohio.

DEAR SIR:

I am very much obliged for your communication of the 25th inst., but until the up-river people awaken from their Rip Van Winkle sleep and construct roads which will enable purchasers to drive to their places a little more than six months in the year, I think PRESENT holders likely to continue owners for some time. I certainly have no inclination to increase my possessions in that direction.
Very Truly Yours,
F. B. SHOEMAKER.

Mr. Shoemaker is the only outside capitalist who has made liberal investments in the river road property in proximity with Perrysburg during the past 40 years. His object in making the purchase was to erect a pleasant suburban villa at the Point, anticipating that he would be able to reach it by his private conveyances at any season in the year.

In that conclusion he has been sadly disappointed. The condition of the river road is but little better than it was some 40 or 50 years ago. Its condition is a scandal and reproach to a civilized community. Notwithstanding this, the property on the line of route is held at high price on account of its extrinsic advantages on the river front.
The owners seem not to realize that such forms of wealth are purely imaginary in their abstract form, and the utilization of such values can only be accomplished through the agencies of enterprise and of capital.

If the gentlemen who own property on the river road wish to realize on the beauties of nature in their surroundings, it will be necessary for them to awake from their Rip Van Winkle state as Mr. Shoemaker suggests, and put themselves in line with the march of civilization; build a road that will reflect credit on their enterprise, and thus invite the city people to realize with them the beauties of nature which in all but roads, they seem to rejoice.
Taken the value at which they hold their property will soon be increased by the sale of lots. A writer in the Forum tells us that bad roads force people to live in cities while good ones draw them into the country. It makes a great difference whether you can drive to a station in five minutes or whether it shall take you fifteen, and that is the difference between a bad highway and a good one. The increased cost of transportation on a wretched highway is more than sufficient to pay for a smooth hard driveway.

At this time the farmers on the pike and the McCutchenville road are under the necessity of going to Toledo with their produce by Maumee, and driving down to the city on the North side of the river making them an increased distance of four miles on the round trip. It is certainly high time that such wrongs should be corrected.
Yours Respectfully,
N. H. CALLARD.

LIENSES.

Theodore Wight and Nellie Rowe, Lewis Hendricks and Cora Roe, John W. Lawson and Nellie Rowe, R. R. Hilliard and Rillie A. Sprout, Orrin W. Fish and Edith Wight.

Little Judith, the eight year old daughter of Mr. Mullineaux, of the Inland Christian Advocate, Des Moines, Iowa, on learning that her special playmate, a child of her own age, had taken the whooping cough, took a bottle of medicine, which had cured her of a troublesome cough, and went over and said: "You must take this medicine; it will do you good." Mr. Mullineaux was curious as to the result and on making inquiry learned that the little neighbor, who had been unable to rest at night, had been greatly relieved in that respect. The paroxysms were no longer so frequent, severe or enduring.
The cough, under the genial action of this admirable remedy, was loosened.
The medicine liquefies the mucus and enables the sufferer to throw it off. The attack in the beginning gave every evidence of being a severe attack of whooping cough. Indeed it was a genuine case, but this preparation, which perhaps it may not be a positive cure for the disease, is undoubtedly able to alleviate it. If it does not cure it, it will give unquestioned relief. The medicine referred to is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. For sale by A. R.
Champney.

FARM AND GARDEN.

The Treatment of Manures for Fertiliz-ing Purposes.

The following experiment is reported by James Wilson, director of the Iowa experiment station.
We composted the different manures from the several stables, mixing the heavy and wet with the dry straw so as to prepare the whole for application.
When spring rains came a sediment flowed from the heaps that we dipped into barrels and applied to one of the corn fields, carefully marking the rows and giving them the same cultivation the rest of the field had. The rows that had the liquid manure sprinkled over them yielded 82.62 bushels an acre. The same number of rows husked for comparison growing beside them yielded 59.06 bushels an acre.
The manure from which the liquid seeped was common to most Iowa farms and was made from feeding corn with a little bran and oil-meal. We applied 10 barrels of the liquid and got at the rate of 23 bushels of corn an acre—within a fraction—for our work. Our object was to call the attention of Iowa farmers to the loss resulting from the wash of barnyards and the loss of urine so universal over the state. Another effect from the liquid manure was very striking. The cornfield had spots where the crop suffered from drouth, or bacteria, or soil conditions, that caused a withering of the lower leaves and produced yellow coloring on the higher leaves. One of these affected spots lay contiguous to the rows sprinkled with the liquid manure. The disease, whatever it was stopped at the first row where the liquid was applied.
On one side was an affected foliage, on the other a dark green, healthy, vigorous foliage. It was evident that the extra nutrition of the corn growing on liquid manure enabled it to resist what affected that growing in the next rows.
We hope to get a feeding barn built with cement floors and cistern, to save this valuable fertilizer, so as to enable us to inquire more thoroughly into its value on prairie soils, that are not always benefitted by many of the commercial fertilizers so much used elsewhere.

The Ohio Experiment station has recently put into its main barn a floor and cistern, such as that alluded to above, and from December 25, 1890, to May 1, 1891, this cistern collected from 30 cows more than 3,000 gallons of liquid. The cows were well bodded with straw, which of course absorbed much of the liquid, so that this represents what would otherwise have gone to waste. Chemical analysis showed this liquid to contain fertilizing materials worth forty-seven dollars, as fertilizers are sold in Ohio. This would show a saving of seventy dollars in six months, the time cows are usually stabled, and would be at least twenty per cent. per annum on the necessary cost of the floor and cistern.

A gentleman in Union County, Mo., who is too modest a man to have his name mentioned in the newspapers, was cured of rheumatism by Chamberlain's Pain Balm, after trying other medicines and treatment for thirteen years. For sale by A. R. Champney.
