SOME OBSERVATIONS

Concerning Nothing Very Serious But Worthy of Thought.

Ruth Law an American girl, won the title of the world's premier aviatrix on Sunday, when she attempted a non-stop flight from Chicago to New York. She was compelled to descend at Hornell, N. Y., to obtain gasoline, beating Carlstrom's record by 138 miles. She finished the flight on Monday, landing at Governor's island safely.

The so-called "Old Guard" that has been managing Republican presidential campaigns heretofore will probably consider it advisable to retire in favor of a "new guard" by the time another presidential campaign is on.

President Wilson may have "kept us out of the war," but Governor Willis didn't succeed in keeping the Republican party of Ohio out of the Democratic whirlpool on November 7.

As Christmas approaches the vacant chairs in the Sunday School class will gradually grow less. It's time for little Willie to gradually become a perfect dear.

Eggs are so high in price now that a hard boiled egg as a watch charm places the wearer in the Rockefeller class.

Democratic papers are now booming Congressman Overmyer and Lieutenant-Governor-elect Bloom as possible candidates for governor of Ohio. They are both mighty good campaigners and capable men as well.

Two hundred school children of the little town of Crofton, Neb., marched through the streets on election day, and here is one of the yells they gave:

"We can't vote, neither can ma. If Nebraska goes wet, blame it on pa."

OHIO FARMERS' COURSE.

Making it possible for farm men and boys to attend the College of Agriculture at the Ohio State University, Columbus, an eight-weeks' course in agriculture will be conducted at that institution from January 2 to February 23. The course is open to men and boys of any age who have had farm experience. Last year men of 65 years sat beside boys of 17 listening to the lectures so that they might operate their farm more efficiently.

CIVIC ASSOCIATION

November Meeting Indicates Association is Very Much Alive.

President Pew presided and Secretary Lownsbury was present, together with a good attendance of members.

The committee to report candidates for Board of Trustees reported the names of 18 members from which list the members will select nine members by ballot at the December election.

The question of purchasing the present building was thoroughly discussed and a committee was appointed to prepare plans for the project and report at the next meeting.

It is very probable that the December meeting will have social features which will prove very interesting to every member.

PERRYSBURG AND FREMONT.

The Perrysburg team accompanied by a car load of rooters invaded Fremont on Sunday, and when the final whistle blew the score was 0 to 0. The Fremont team weighed fully 20 pounds to the man heavier than Perrysburg, but the local team made up for the opponent's beef by their speed.

The Fremont crowd which numbered over 600 marveled at the speed and aggressiveness of the Perrysburg "kids."

Monday's papers carried the score not in the amateur list but in the pro-column along with the Cleveland Indians, Massillon Tigers, Toledo Maroons, Canton and others. The game was a thrill from start to finish. Neither team was able to make substantial gains during the first two periods.

In the third period Fremont seemed to have the better of the argument. In the fourth quarter Perrysburg forced the Fremonters to assume the defensive and made several good gains.

The Perrysburg team cannot afford to book teams of Fremont class, due to lack of attendance here at home. The tie game will probably be played off on Thanksgiving day at Fremont.

Perrysburg is getting good offers from teams abroad. And the locals will again play away from home next Sunday.

The Perrysburg Classers will battle with the Segurs of Toledo on the local's lot next Sunday. Come out and see future Perrysburg in action.

RANDOM RECOLLECTIONS

Rise and Fall of a Band of Embryo Highwaymen.

In the late sixties there was a family by the name of Carman residing in the large frame house, which is still standing, on the southeast corner of Second and Cherry streets. They had a little son about six or seven years of age, named Thomas, who has afflicted with an impediment of speech and could not talk plainly. This boy was one of the best hearted and best natured young chaps in the entire neighborhood. He was also handicapped by having a very poor memory, and was woefully lacking in what is generally termed in boys as "nerve."

In the yard adjoining the Carman residence were a number of large fine apple trees, but they were back quite a distance from the front fence. One particular tree was very prolific, and in the summer time was generally loaded down with an abundance of apples of the russet variety or "rusty coats" was what our crowd of boys called them. We were not allowed to enter the yard to gather any of the apples that fell to the ground, nor could we reach them from the fence with sticks. And those apples looked so nice and tempting. And let me state right here that almost any kind of an apple is a good apple in the eyes of a crowd of growing boys with healthy appetites. So it was up to us to devise some method of obtaining a supply of this forbidden fruit, and we went at it in a rather bold and systematic manner. One of our crowd had in his possession one of the large old-fashioned copper pennies called "coppers," and with this big copper we tempted "Little Tommy." After showing him the big copper and telling him wonderful stories of how he could get a whole bucket full of candy with it at the "new drug store," (Insho & Champney, then located where the postoffice now is) we had no difficulty in inducing him to bring us all the "rusty coats," he could carry, and we had him make two, and sometimes three trips. And we also had a bold plan to get that big copper away from him and make it do service more than once. While several of the boys would regale him with stories of how nice it would be for him when he got that "bucketful of candy," two of the crowd would quietly slip down Second street and hide behind the big elm tree that for many years stood almost directly in front of the little frame residence adjoining the M. E. church, and which was used as a paragon by the Rev. Ambrose Hollington and Rev. T. N. Barkdull when they were pastors of the church. Then when little Tommy came tripping gaily along with the big copper clutched tightly in his hand, thinking of the wonderful treat in store for him when he reached the "new drug store," the two amateur highwaymen would suddenly pounce upon him, and while one would put his hand gently but firmly over his mouth to prevent him from making any outcry (for when little Tommy was frightened he certainly could scream so as to be heard all over the neighborhood) the other would deftly wrest the copper from his hand. Then both would jump the fence into Mahr's yard, and run down through the yard to the alley, and quietly join the rest of the "gang" in a nice little cosy corner in the second story of the barn in the rear of the residence of John G. Knoll, which we had prepared without the knowledge or permission of the owner, of course. Then, while we feasted on the "rusty coats," Tommy would return to his home, sobbing as though with a broken heart. But he was such a good natured little chap that it did not (Continued on Eighth Page.)

Her Son Subject to Croup.

"My son Edwin is subject to croup," writes Mrs. E. O. Irwin, New Kensington, Pa. "I put in many sleepless hours at night before I learned of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Mothers need not fear this disease if they keep a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house and use it as directed. It always gave my boy relief." Obtainable everywhere.

CARS CRASH IN FOG

Two Electric Cars Collide at Switch Near Milbury.

Passengers were severely shaken, but only one man seriously hurt in a Lake Shore electric car crash in Monday morning's fog.

A west-bound local car struck the rear of a Detroit limited car, also west-bound, standing on a switch near Milbury.

Jerome Baldwin, 50, of Fremont, motorman on the local, was badly injured in his left arm, right knee and right shoulder.

Some of the passengers were reported slightly injured.

The accident occurred at 10:30, and was said to have been due to fog, which obscured the track, approaching Stop 335, near Milbury road. The crash came without warning.

How Catarrh is Contracted.

Mothers are sometimes so thoughtless as to neglect the colds which their children contract. The inflammation of the mucus membrane, at first acute, becomes chronic and the child has chronic catarrh, a disease that is seldom cured and that may prove a life's burden. Many persons who have this loathsome disease will remember having had frequent colds at the time it was contracted. A little forethought, a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy judiciously used, and all this trouble might have been avoided. Obtainable everywhere.
