FALL FASHION NOTES

Hats will be large and small and high and flat this season. They will aim to be becoming and ought to succeed, for there are styles and sizes for every type of face. Perhaps the small, high hat is just a bit more worn at present, but the broad-brimmed flat hat will hold its own and continue to be popular. own and continue to be popular.

The best hats are trimmed very simply, depending upon their ex-cellence of material and beauty of lines for recognition.

There is much trimming at the back of the new bats, where bushy feather fancies are perched aten high crowns of velvet or velours.

Shoes insist upon being noticed more than ever this fall, but they are very obliging, for when they can't exactly match the costume they form a contrast with it, either in a different shade or color.

Shoes with cloth or suede tops are being worn more tha nanything else just now, and they are usually of shades of tan, ranging from a light fawn color to the darkest brown. Walking shoes of the rather heavy English style are very popular, and they too are preferably in tan. The combination of gray shoes and a navy blue suit or street dress is very

Belts will represent a badge of fashion on fur coats. Made entirely of one fur the belt gives simplicity to handsome new models. On other coats belts, cuffs and bands of contrasting furs are used. The belts may encircle the waist, or extend only half way around the figure, either at front or back. The belt is placed at the bigh waistline, the normal line, or are well down over the hips.

An effort to put "newness" into he popular straight line has been re cently introduced, however, by an arrangement of back looped or side drapery which changes the slim outline to the bustle silhouette.

The majority of the newest ribbon novelties, while exceedingly rich in effect, are somewhat subdued in color and design, so that when made into bags they readily harmonize with the average street costume.

Mrs. James P. Sill with her knitting at the horse show.

APPLES SEPARATE A COUPLE.

Man Says Wife. Was Suspicious of His Preath,

DETROIT, Mich .- There is no hope for a happy married life for Charles R. Griwatsch as long as he cats ap-

According to his bill for divorce, ev ery time his wife, Gladys, smelled the odor of apples on his breath, she mistook it for the aroma of hard liquor. As a result, Charles, asserted, she scolded and nagged him until often she "became inarticulate."

Charles admitted that he occasionally blew the foam off a glass of beer after a hard day's work, but he resented the injustice of an apple breath being construed so cruelly.

AN ATTRACTIVE NEW DANCE FROCK

The frock shown is of flesh colored eatin and is free of elaborate trimmings. It has a diversity of draper-ies with inside panniers and the zenave bottom. The bodice is of crepe georgette with ruffles falling from the shoulders and a crushed ratin girdle encircles the waist and comes to a point at the right side.

HERE'S BIRD OF A MYSTERY,

Lost Gold Ring Is Found on Pigeon's Neck.

STELLA, Mont .- Arthur DeMuth, a pigeon fancier of Stella, is deploring the love of his hirds for jewelry. Recently he lost a valuable ring while attending the pigeons.

He tried advertising in the local papers, but it was futile. Recently, however, while out among his birds, he saw his ring around the neck of one of the birds.

DeMuth told friends that he would guard the pigeon carefully and wait until it died to recover his ring. He cannot remove it from over the bird's head and is considerably mystified as to how it got around the pigeon's

Passing of the Trapper.

The forward march of civilization has reached the wilds of the Canadian north and trappers report that their business is rapidly becoming unprofitable on account of the frequency of the settlements. That state of affairs is to be expected and the wonder is that the situation has not become more acute long ago. It is remarkable that the business has continued profit-

History has repeated itself in this in all other things. The advance guard of civilization was years bebind a class of hardy trappers who carned their livelihood in the solitude of the forests by taking animals for their furs. As civilization advanced the number of trappers became larger and the amount of game diminished until there was no longer a profit to be had from the business.

It began with Maine and Massachusetts and continued to the westward until the United States was no longer tenable for the trapper. The Hudson Bay Company preserved the frozen north of Canada for half a century after the United States had ceased to be a profitable hunting ground, but the onward march of railroads and the ever resiless wave of homeseekers I as at last advanced to the very outpost, of the Hudson Bay territory. Gold and wheat have been lodestones and the trapping business suffers.

Where will we get our furs in the future? We will raise them. Fox farming, skunk farming, cat farming and the hundred and one other kinds of animal raising will take the place of the trapper and his guns. Other fur-bearing animals will soon be taught to eat out of the hand of man ust as the domestic animals of the farm have been doing for centuries. Man will simply enlarge his control of the lower animals, enlarge his control over the fur-bearing as well as the footbearing animals.

The Bast Place.

In the course of a lesson on the sabject of domertic economy and hygiene a mistress got a singularly smart and apt answer from a little girl Speaking of milk and its importance as a food, the lady asked:

"What is the best place wherein to keep the milk perfectly nice and frest during, say, a hot summer day?" And one girl evidently thinking it was an easy one-promptly answer-

"Please, teacher, in the cow."
