Rev. G. H. L. Beeman's family moved to Grafton W. Va. last week, where he has been preaching since the first of May.

Rev. A. R. Woodworth and family are spending a few weeks in their cottage at Chippewa Lake.

Mr. Clevidence who was so seriously hurt in the smash up on the Southwestern last Thursday, is getting along as well as can be expected. In the general news of last week's Sentinel, there was a false report concerning the accident. They said it was Clyde Weaver who was so badly hurt. Clyde jumped and saved himself as did Mr. Fairchild's but Mr. Clevidence was working among the milk cans and had no chance to get out or jump. He is hurt very bad.

So many of our Sevillians have left us—some just for the summer and others have moved to make their homes in other places and some of the old sports have gone fishing and others start this week. Hence we know not what to write. We are hoping some of our friends will get married for a little excitement. We are doing all we can to help along.

I. H. Brots went fishing Wednesday afternoon. Did he catch any fish? Sure. For Thursday morning breakfast for he and his wife. Of course his wife is not a very hearty eater. You can tell that by looking at her.

He was on his way to Oberlin, where he graduated 50 years ago and he went there to attend the Alumni association and banquet of his class. Rev. Dowd is well known here by the older people.

Something of interest for our Seville readers that was taken from the Akron daily paper.

For three score and one, almost the life time allotted to man, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin G. Wilson of Akron have lived together as man and wife and today are observing their sixty-first wedding anniversary. Though no formal celebration had been planned, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson received the congratulations of their children and many friends during the day. Mr. Wilson will be 83 in December. He was born and reared at River Styx, Medina county where his parents came as pioneers in 1816. His wife who will celebrate her 86th birthday in September is a native of Seville where her family were among the early settlers. After their marriage in 1859, just sixty-one years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson lived on a farm near Seville until they came to Akron and built their present home in which they have lived for more than half a century. In the mean time Mr. Wilson served in the navy eleven months during the Civil War. Their home which was once surrounded by large pastures, is now in the heart of the city. During most of his years in Akron Mr. Wilson has been engaged as traveling salesman for a confectionary firm. He belongs to the United Commercial Travelers, the Odd Fellows, Patriarch Militants, and the G. A. R. and it has been his boast that he has attended all the national encampments for the last decade.

Both he and his wife are hale and hearty. Mrs. Wilson is her own housekeeper and Mr. Wilson is actively interested in matters of national and civic interests. He has served on juries at the county court house almost continually since November. They have two sons, Charles and Frank Wilson, seven grandchildren and nine great grandchildren.

That was a fine rain Seville had last night.

Mrs. J. C. Brady and three boys are spending the week with friends in Cleveland, while Mr. Brady is in Detroit this week.

Seville surely has a lot of young thieves growing up. If they keep on they will soon be noted professionals. A few nights ago there was a picnic supper held in the Methodist church dining room and while the young people were upstairs giving their program, thieves entered the dining room and rummaged the baskets, taking nearly everything in them. There were girls as well as boys in this case. It was home talent as they were seen.

DIX—ENGLAND

A very charming occasion was the marriage of Mary Estedda Dix, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Dix, to A. Cecil England, at the home of the brides parents, Thursday, June 10th. The bride was becomingly gowned in white organdie with silver trimmings a tulle veil and wore a bouquet of lilies of the valley and roses. The impressive, but simple ceremony was performed by Rev. R.
