UNCLE SAM'S HARD MONEY MILL.

The annual settlement at the Philadelphia Mint was completed on the 3d of the present month, and the showing was one of the most satisfactory in the history of the institution.

The total amount of gold operated upon by the miller and refiner during the year was 742,300,276 standard Troy ounces, valued at $13,804,712 11.

The amount of loss on wastage of operating on this was $7,993 ounces. One thousandth of the whole amount of the operations are conducted with the honesty of the employees, and the perfection which has been reached in the processes of separation and refining of the precious metals.

In addition to the above this mint has manufactured a large amount of nickel and bronze coins, and numerous medals, being the only one of our institutions which operates in these, besides supplying the other mints with dies necessary for coining.

BULLETIN OF CRIME.

FORGERY.

BOSTON, July 13.--Benjamin C. Smith was arrested this morning, charged with swindling the North National Bank out of $600 by forging the name of Charles Newell.

A MOST INHUMAN CHARGE.

JOLIET, ILL., July 13.--Robert Simpson, a wealthy farmer, died at his place, three miles south of this city, a few weeks ago under suspicious circumstances.

Yesterday an inquest was called and the body examined. The inquest will probably continue the whole of this week, but the following facts have been developed by the evidence so far adduced: Simpson's sons aver that their late father's wife was also his daughter and their sister, and that the father and daughter had one son born to them who is now 13 years old, and it is charged that this inhuman daughter in collusion with a tenant on the farm, by the name of Darwin, who now has a ten year lease of the place, given since the old man's death, had poisoned Simpson with the intent of getting possession of his property.

On the post-mortem examination it was ascertained that Simpson's heart was badly diseased and might have caused his death at any time, also that the presence of poison in the stomach was possible. The stomach was sent to Chicago for chemical examination. The whole affair looks black, though the contest among the heirs in regard to the will left by the old man, leaving the bulk of his property to his wife, may have given rise to some of the damaging reports. George Hard, Esq., who drew the old man's will, says he was perfectly sensible and clear as to all the provisions of that instrument.

Missing Men--Arresting the Long Point Robbers.

ST. LOUIS, July 13.--Thomas B. Winston, formerly first conductor on the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroad, has been missing for six weeks. The young man is said to have relatives living near Chicago.

John Thompson, an old and wealthy citizen of St. Louis, suddenly disappeared on June 30th. There is no clue to his whereabouts. He had no domestic or financial trouble.

Five men are now under arrest on suspicion of complicity in the attempted train robbery at Long Point, and the authorities are satisfied that they have got the right ones.

The Riot at Lawrence.

LAWRENCE, MASS., July 13.--A serious riot occurred here last evening between Orangemen and some people near the depot where the Orangemen were landing after their return from a picnic. The Orangemen were driven by the crowd to a station-house for protection. The Mayor addressed the crowd, but his words were drowned amid groans and hisses. He then came out and headed the police in escorting the Orangemen. The crowd threw stones, bottles, &c., striking nearly everyone in the procession. The Orangemen fired their revolvers in the crowd and many were hit, but none killed. Great excitement prevailed.

A Business Dodge.

An extensive printing house, supplied with facilities for stereotyping and printing books upon a large scale, and which is intended to give employment to nearly 200 workmen, has been established in the village of Rouse's Point, New York State, on the Canadian line. The peculiarity of this enterprise consists in the fact that Rouse's Point is a very small village, with no trade to speak of, and that the owners of the printing house are Canadians, who have set up their establishment on the American soil in consequence of provisions of the law in regard to copyrights which give American publishers an advantage over Canadians in the reprinting of English books for the Canada market. In Canada no English book can be reprinted without the permission of the author, whose copyright extends to the Dominion, while in the United States publishers can reprint any English book and send it into Canada for sale on paying a duty of twelve and a half per cent, which is collected for the benefit of the author. The Canadian publishers who have located in Rouse's Point think it cheaper to print their books in this country and pay the twelve and a half per cent. than to deal directly with the English authors.

A Snagger's Wooden Leg.

Perhaps the most ingenious method of deceiving the Custom-house officers that has come to light lately was the device of a man with a wooden leg. His name was Edward Bohman, and he was a native of Saxony. He was usually dressed very shabbily and traveled as a poor emigrant. He was a skillful story-teller and betrayed himself by telling a very humorous story a second time within the hearing of the same detective who was on hand one of the White Star steamers with him. The climax was brought out in such an inimitable manner in broken English that the officer immediately recalled that the voice and manner of another one-legged emigrant who had come in a ship of another line with him only about two months before. The fact of a poorly dressed man making two journeys to America in so short a time excited his suspicion. He accordingly reported the circumstance when the vessel arrived in port, and unusual diligence was used in searching his baggage and person, but nothing was found until his wooden leg was removed. It was an ordinary cheap artificial leg, fastened to the natural leg at the knee and armed with a ferrule at the bottom. When it was taken off it seemed unusually light, and on careful examination it was found to be hollow and to contain about $5,000 worth of lace and precious stones. He had been a diamond broker, but had become poor and subsequently entered the Prussian army in the French war as a private or non-commissioned officer. He lost his leg in battle, and when he recovered he thought of this method of retrieving his fallen fortunes.

A Pennsylvania man has eaten a box of soap, but Pennsylvania men don't know much. If one of them happens to mistake his inside for his outside, it is an error of the head and not of the heart.

A problem in relationship might be constructed from the case of Mrs. T. W. Talpage, of Columbus, Ohio, who is a grand-daughter of Mrs. Harriet Parks, who was a niece and adopted daughter of George Washington.

Mrs. Carney, of Newmarket, killed 117 bushels of grasshoppers in one week. Such Carneyage in every city and town in Kansas would soon exterminate the pests.
