

Vallandigham's Speech.

We are now fully prepared to furnish the great speech of Hon. C. L. VALLANDIGHAM, in neat pamphlet form, printed on new clear type. Single copies, five cents. No man should fail to secure a copy, and preserve it as a history of times through which we have passed.

Whenever a considerable section of our Union shall deliberately resolve to go out, we shall resist all coercive measures designed to keep it in. We hope never to live in a republic whereof one section is pinned to the residue by bayonets.—New York Tribune.

That don't accord very well with your "on to Richmond" key, old white hat.—Your organ is evidently out of tune.

Suppose you go to war, you cannot fight always, and when, after much loss on both sides, and no gain on either, you cease fighting, the old identical questions as to terms of intercourse are upon you.—Abraham Lincoln's Inaugural Address, March 4, 1861.

That's so, Father ABRAHAM, and the people want to know what you went to war for. They will have a little account to settle with you, by and by.

Canal Bill Defeated. The Illinois and Michigan Canal Bill was defeated yesterday in the National House of Representatives. Republicans attribute the failure of the measure to the leadership of Mr. VALLANDIGHAM.

On Furlough. The Editor is absent, and will not resume his duties for about two weeks. In order to relieve any unpleasant apprehensions on the part of the profession who are most exercised about him, we will observe that he has gone to attend to some private business. While the Chief is away the paper will endeavor to take care of itself.

Label Suit. We have the intelligence that ISAAC COOK, Esq., of Chicago, formerly Post Master under Mr. BUCHANAN, has sued HORACE GREELEY for libel. When the intelligence reached New York that Post Master Cook had been arrested for squandering several hundred thousand dollars of green-backs intended for the soldiers, the Tribune stated that the delinquent was "IKE COOK, BUCHANAN'S defaulting Post Master," that "it was surprising the Government would entrust such professional robbers with large sums of money," &c. GREELEY being on the wrong scent, made a bundle of the matter, as is his wont, and Mr. COOK, it seems, proposes trying the virtue of law upon a very mean man.

Various Items. Quite an ovation was given to Hon. T. A. Hendricks, United States Senator, at Shelbyville, Indiana, on the 6th inst.

Three charity concerts, given in London by Jenny Lind, have produced over thirteen thousand dollars. That was better luck than the Soldiers' Aid Committee had with Gough's lectures in Cincinnati.

A cotemporary notices the singular fact that neither Mr. Cameron or his friends have yet denied the statement of Representative Beyer, of the Pennsylvania Legislature, as to the $20,000 bribe.

Japonicdom in New York, it is stated, has resolved itself into clubs of belles, married and unmarried, of twenty each; and once a week they meet to sip egg-nog and chocolate, nibble frosted cake, gossip, and ostentatiously make shirts for the soldiers.

A Washington despatch of the 6th inst. says: "The National Intelligencer of this morning, in an elaborate editorial, censures Mr. Lincoln for having interfered with the management of the war and holds more decided language against Mr. Lincoln than it has heretofore done."

Resolutions have been introduced into the New Jersey Assembly, declaring that New Jersey is not willing to be taxed for the purpose of emancipating slaves in Missouri, a purpose not contemplated by the Constitution, and giving notice that a debt contracted for such purpose is not binding in law or equity, and will not be regarded in the light of an obligation.

Two Democratic papers—the Leon Pioneer and the Nevada Democrat—have just made their appearance—both strong in the Democratic faith, whereby the country is to be redeemed. Good for California.

Mustard grows wild on thousands of acres in California. It is superior to the English imported mustard, and its gathering will yet become a great branch of business.

A white woman at Fishkill, New York has eloped with a negro preacher, taking all the money her husband had, and leaving him three small children.

A Richmond paper tells of one hundred and fifty Yankee deserters taking the oath of allegiance to the rebel Government in that city.

Vallandigham's Speech. We received a copy of the late speech of Hon. C. L. Vallandigham, in Congress, on "Great Civil War in America," too late for publication this week. We will next week publish it in full. It is the ablest speech ever made by Mr. Vallandigham. No man can read it without being convinced by its arguments and consenting to its conclusions.

How to Grow Chicory. The best substitute for coffee is chicory, much used in England, and by many preferred, when mixed, to pure coffee alone.

A Real Gentleman. He never dresses in the extreme of fashion, but avoids singularity in his person or habits.

The Late John A. Washington. On January 27, George R. Hughes, of Chicago, acting as "attorney in fact" of the rebel John A. Washington, who was killed in Western Virginia, on August 1st, 1861, presented to Judge Bradwell, in the County Court, the petition of Richard B. Washington, executor of John A. Washington, praying that the will of the latter be regularly certified, &c.

Mr. Cox on Puritanism. The country owes the Hon. S. S. Cox, of Ohio, its thanks for a thorough dissection of the pretensions, egotisms and hypocrisies of Puritanism. There is an element, as Mr. Cox truly says, in New England character, which is "born in the bone and bred in the flesh," and which, therefore, seems utterly irradicable.

Parson Brownlow. The life-long reviler of Andrew Jackson and the Democratic party, is now the great man of the hour in the North. We cut from the New York Tribune, of January 6, 1859, during the efforts of the Republicans to elect an endorser of the Helper book to the Speakership of Congress—the following paragraph, showing what kind of a parson he is, and what sort of a Unionist he then was.

Speech of Mr. Vallandigham. We give up most all of our paper to-day for the purpose of laying before our readers and the public at large, the great speech of Hon. Clement Laird Vallandigham. We hope everybody will read it. It is a bold, fearless, patriotic speech, one which created perhaps as great and as deep an interest in the country as any speech ever delivered in Congress.

Speculation in Dry Goods.—The rage for speculating is spreading from Wall street to Broadway. The brokers speculate in gold and stocks, and the Broadway dealers are speculating in dry goods.

The Ohio Statesman of Sunday says: "Both branches of the Legislature adjourned at noon on Saturday, to go 'on a bust' to White Sulphur Springs. Mr. Wilson, the gentlemanly proprietor, had the members taken up in sleighs. Altogether, it was quite an extensive sleighing party."

The New York correspondence of the Philadelphia Inquirer (week) says: "In Wall street the week begins with a dead calm, broken only with symptoms of a reaction in the speculative movements in gold, sterling exchange, stocks and merchandise."

Remember! The voice of the Democracy is for a cessation of hostilities—for an armistice—for time to discuss, deliberate, and see if honorable peace cannot be had.

Humors of the War.—The following appeared on a letter from a soldier addressed to a young lady not many miles from this city. "Soldier's letter, and many a red, blood-stained page of blood. Postmaster, shove this through. I've nary a stamp, but seven months due.—New Haven Journal.

Vallandigham's Speech. We give our readers in to-day's paper the great speech recently delivered by Hon. C. L. Vallandigham in the lower House of Congress, in full. It is needless to ask a Democrat into whose hands the speech may fall to read it. He will certainly do so; but it is eminently proper that Republicans should read it, so that they may be correctly informed as to his position, which information they can not obtain through Republican sheets.
