SAM'L W. KING, Agent.

Livery Stable Sale—To-morrow Sam. Wild will sell the horses, buggies, and extensive stock belonging to his Livery Stable, on the alley in the rear of the Phillips House. Be on hand.

Farewell!—Give the Star Dramatic Troupe a Bumper to-night, the occasion of their Farewell Benefit. Let them have a Testimonal which will make them think kindly of Dayton. Crowd the Hall!

Killed.—In the recent severe battle between three hundred frontiermen and a superior force of Indians, on Bear River, Utah Territory, Lewis Anderson, from this city, is reported among the killed. If we are not mistaken the deceased was a son of the late Esquire Jack Anderson. He was through the Mexican war, then returned home, and about a dozen years ago he again left here for California.

Mammoth Auction.—Next Monday the large stock of Dry Goods, Notions, &c., belonging to Geo. H. Coles, (Successor to N. P. Douglass,) 76 Main street, will be offered at Auction. The sales will be continued from day to day until the mammoth stock is disposed of. These sales will affords great bargains. We learn that special attention will be paid to the accommodation of the Ladies.

Theatre—Grand Gala Night!—If any evidence is wanted of the popularity of the Dramatic Troupe, it was found in the fact that although the weather last night was most inclement, the audience at Beckel Hall was quite large, and there were nearly as many ladies as gentlemen! It seems, now that the Star Troupe are about to leave us, the people more than ever feel the value of their presence here, and esteem their efforts to furnish rational amusement.

We need not inform our readers how well "Fanchon" was played last night, for the public are posted on the cleverness of the Troupe in their respective parts. The more the piece is played the more the people like it. We heard a gentleman of culture say last evening—"I have seen the 'Cricket' presented by the Star Troupe now half a dozen times, and I assure you that I could witness it with interest half a dozen times more." And his declaration was met by the affirmative responses of the intelligent company who surrounded him. And we all vote "aye!"

To-night has been named by a large number of our most prominent citizens for a Grand Farewell Testimonial to the Management, on the eve of their departure. It is determined to give these clever people an evidence of our esteem for them in the shape of a substantial compliment to take away with them, and remind them of the beautiful city of their pleasant sojourn. Rain or no rain, the Hall should be crowded this evening.

To-night will be the Grand Gala Night of the Season. The Bill provided is a "crowder," and will give universal satisfaction. The entertainment will open with the comic duality called "The Conjugal Lesson," in which Mr. and Mrs. Stoddart will appear to the best possible advantage. It is a gem, and they will enshrine it in the hearts of their auditors. Then Miss Maggie Marshall will produce a National Medley; J. R. Southwell will sing a song; Master John Marshall will dance a Sailor's Hornpipe; Mrs. Fiske will sing "Salut a' la France" as she only can sing it; and the Marshall Children will dance a Double Highland Fling! If this is not "a bill of particulars," we don't know any thing about it.

The evening's entertainment will conclude with the "Kiss in the dark," and will be put on the boards with all the extras!

This is the Great Gala Night! remember! We expect to see a regular jam this evening. Secure your seats during the day, then you need not make a rush to get into the Hall.

To-morrow night will be the last of the Season. The Troupe will open in Lexington, Kentucky, on Monday night.

Another Sign.—A country lady who attended Market yesterday morning, informed us that the robbin-red-breasts made their appearance in her vicinity the day previous. She mentioned this as an indication that Spring would open permanently this week. An experience and observation of half a century, the lady informs us, has convinced her that when the robbins make their appearance in force, Winter is over, and Spring has been formally opened. And we hope the Winter is over, but appearances—in spite of the robbins, and other innocents—are against the presumption.

While we entertain the greatest respect for many old people who believe in the infallibility of weather-signs, we confess that we have little confidence in their prognostications. "All signs fail in dry times," is an adage whose truth is, unfortunately, tested nearly every Summer; and signs amount to about the same thing at all seasons. We mean no disrespect to any one by the declaration, but we must be permitted to say that whenever we are given a "sure sign" of coming weather, we at once set it down a humbug; and if we have the curiosity to watch the thing, we soon prove it to be so. Accidents determine no principle, but when two or three of them come together as touching any one thing, the coincidence forms the basis for a general belief in the infallibility of the sign they seem to establish. However, we don't desire to depreciate the intuition of robbins; we only intend to express the opinion that they are fallible as finite, and as liable to be mistaken in the weather as any of us. That is not robbin' 'em of any attributes which properly belong to birds of good omen.

To Managers Lewis, Stoddart and Weaver, of the Star Dramatic Troupe.

GENTLEMEN:—Now that your Theatical season is closing, and you are about to depart from among us, we desire to tender a last testimonial of our esteem for you, and of our appreciation of your efforts to please a discriminating public in the introduction of unobjectionable amusements during your sojourn among us. We deem such an expression of the popular feeling peculiarly appropriate, and we hope it will prove agreeable to you.

As the time is short, permit us to name to morrow (Friday) evening as the occasion for this Farewell Testimonial to be offered.

DAYTON, March 5th, 1863

To Messrs. P. A. Haynes, W. H. Gillespie, B. M. Ayers, Jno. L. Miller, R. D. Harshman, M. P. Nolan, Geo. Wogaman and others:—

GENTLEMEN:—It is impossible to give expression to the feelings that your kind and flattering note has touched. We feel that words would be inadequate. We can only say to you, we thank you, and accept with pleasure your flattering proposal. Believe us gentlemen, when we say to you, we leave you with regret, and look forward with pleasure to the time we shall have the happiness of again playing before you.

Believe us yours, gratefully and sincerely,

C. M. LEWIS,
G. W. STODDART,
H. A. WEAVER.

Won't Do it.—Gubby says he won't sell his property, although he has been offered half a dozen prices for it. He would much rather have the land and appurtenances thereunto belonging than a dray load of "green-backs." He has nothing particular to say against the style of money we have now-a-days; it passes currently for any thing that is offered for sale; and may—for all Gubby knows to the contrary—pass smoothly for a hundred years to come. Then again it may depreciate so that its value don't amount to shucks; and if he would get his safe full of it in exchange for his property—real and personal—he might be left out in the cold without so much as enough money to bury himself when he died. This is the way Gubby reasons, and he refuses to sell. He seems determined to have land of his own in which to be buried, no matter how many shin plasters he may be offered for it.

A Model Subscriber.—Esquire Barnett, of Liberty, called in our Office, this morning, and paid in advance for the Weekly Empire—the renewal of a visit he has made for the same purpose annually for the past thirty-seven years! There's a model of faithfulness and promptness which we commend for universal adoption. We have to acknowledge in this connection the material enlargement of our Subscription List within the last month, indicating a determination of the people to sustain one of the Democratic Institutions of the North West.

Cleverness.—Just now we meet a good many very clever men on the streets. They take our hand and shake it without the least regard for our sore finger, and inquire very kindly after the health of our family. The interest these gentlemen have suddenly evinced for us is as astonishing as it is complimentary; we cannot just now attribute it to any unusual performance of ours recently; and we are at a loss how to appropriate the honor unless we construe it as a popular desire that we shall be a candidate for some prominent City Office this Spring!

We wonder, now, if that isn't what it all means? We are "in the hands of our friends!"

Have You?—Have you seen and tasted the "Corn Cakes," at Potter's, next door to the Post Office? It is a new and exquisite adaptation of Pop-Corn to confection, and it promises to reach the acme of popularity in the line of nick-nicks. It goes off like hot cakes and butter, or the Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machines. Drop in and try the "Corn Cakes."

To-night!—Let every body remember the Farewell Benefit to the Star Dramatic Troupe, at Beckel Hall to-night. A splendid entertainment will be provided. The "Marshall Children"—so popular with our playgoing public—have volunteered for the occasion. Turn out!

Out.—The water is now out of the Canal between Carrollton and Cincinnati, and the repairs are going on rapidly under the direction of Superintendent Brown, of this city. The water will probably be let on next Tuesday.

EVERY MAN SHOULD INSURE HIS LIFE.

THIS Company issues policies for life, for a term of years, endowment purposes and children's settlement. Also, Non Forfeiting Policies on which payment is required after ten years.

Five thousand dollars paid on two losses within the last six months.

Among all the contrivances of men to protect the family circle from want, none can be found more simple in its character, noble in its motives, certain in its results, than Life Insurance. It is the provision of the dying husband leaves to

if it is the unseen hand of the provident father, reaching from the grave, and still performing the office of keeping together the family circle, and providing for the wants of those he has loved

PROTECTS HIS AGED PARENTS,

Even where he has preceded them into eternity; it is the honest debtor satisfies his conscientious scruples, the late-settled legal properties. In a word, it is one great weapon by which to fight against the sting.

Let any husband, father, son, or brother, call and see the to-night, or write to them who are dear to him and consult.

BE SAFE FROM THE PANGS OF WANT.

Would these children have a comfortable home, and the means of education? Would the widow be saved the cold charities of the world? Would the aged and feeble parent or previous one? Would he settle pay in debt? Would there be no necessity of property by forced sales, or an assignment to meet the demands of creditors—sales more likely to depress goods downward, and all prices combined to prevent good? They fear to ask them, and wherein is the danger that they have a long lease on life? Life is uncertain and accidents are constantly occurring.

LOOKS THE DANGER IN THE FACE

That he may grapple with it; the wise man does. He may study its nature and provide an indemnity. Do neglect of prudence or ill-luck in business may destroy it.

LIFE INSURANCE

Young men just starting in business, where their capital is their energy and integrity, could invest it in lives to the amount of half their capital, and in case of untimely death secure to their families, without parting with or even their interest in the business, what they could not otherwise do.
