

THE DAILY EMPIRE.

It won't do, when riding in stage coach, to talk of another man whom you have not personally seen, as being "an all-fired scoundrel," until you are absolutely sure that he is not sitting before you.

It won't do, when snow-drifts are piled mountain high, and sleighs are eternally upsetting, to ride out with a beautiful, lively, fascinating girl, and not expect to get mashed with her.

It won't do for a man, when a horse kicks him, to kick back at the horse in return. It won't do to crack jokes on old maids in the presence of unmarried ladies who have passed the age of forty.

It won't do to imagine a Legislature, fed at the public crib, will sit but six weeks, when two-thirds of the members have not the capacity to earn a decent living at home.

It won't do for a man to bump his head against a stone, because he conscientiously believes that his head is the hardest. It won't do, when a mosquito bites your face in the night, to beat your cranium in pieces with your fist, under an impression that you are killing the mosquito.

It won't do for a man to fancy a lady is in love with him because she treats him civilly, or that she has virtually engaged herself to him because she has always inquired his company.

It won't do to be desperately enamored over a pretty face until you have seen it at the breakfast table. It won't do to be so devoted, to a tender hearted wife, as to comply implicitly with her request when she asks you, "Now tumble over the cradle, and break your neck, my dear, won't you?"

Melancholy Affair. On yesterday we received a letter giving the details of a melancholy affair which took place in Liberty, Casey county, Kentucky, last Tuesday, and which terminated fatally to both parties.

Editors, like other shrewd men, must live with their eyes and ears open. The following is told of one who started a paper in a western town. The town was infested by gamblers, whose presence was a source of annoyance to the citizens.

Down at the indignation man of cards, crossed his legs with his whip between them, and commenced reading a paper. In the meantime the editor quietly slid down the stairs, and at the landing he met another excited man with a cudgel in his hand, who asked if the editor was in.

An Old Member of Congress.—Jacob Barker, just elected representative from Louisiana, is probably the oldest man ever elected to Congress, he being almost eighty-six years of age.

A New Sect.—A new sect has lately sprung up in Berlin. Its members call themselves "The Cognitants." Dr. Edward Lowenthal, the founder, has published a book about his opinions, which he calls a religion without a confession.

The venerable college of William and Mary, at Williamsburg, Va., has suffered more severely from the effects of the war than any other literary institution in the South.

Blessed is the man who is always flat broke, for no man saith unto him, "lend me five dollars."

Even where he has preceded them into eternity, by it the honest debtor satisfies his credulous creditor, when fate seemed least propitious. In a moral and worldly sense, it is one great weapon by which to rob death of his sting.

Let any husband, father, son, ask himself, "If I was to Die To-Night, Would those who are dear to me be safe from the Pangs of Want?"

Would these children have a comfortable home, and the means of education? Would this wife be independent of the cold charities of the world? Would this aged and feeble parent be provided for? Would my estate pass to my children? Would there be an sacrifice of property for forced sales of an administrator to meet the demands of creditors—none made when the market is downward, and fair prices cannot be realized? How few can answer these questions to their satisfaction? They fear to ask them, and cherish the belief that they have a long lease on life. This is both foolish and cowardly.

Life Insurance! LIFE INSURANCE! YOUNG MEN

Just starting in business, whose credit capital is their energy and integrity, should insure their lives to the amount of half their liabilities. Such an act of disinterested honesty when known to their creditors, would justly increase their confidence in them.

That they did not wish to leave their best friends exposed to any avoidable calamity, and the
